Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 8th, 1898.

The barometric conditions over North-West India have been somewhat disturbed during the week under review. A very shallow depression appeared over Sind on Sunday, January 2nd. This depression had drifted slowly into Southern Rajputana by the morning of the 3rd, while during the same period a deep depression developed over the Central Punjab. The latter depression occasioned some snow in Kashmir and a little rain at Peshawar and Rawalpindi, while all over North-West India the winds were strong and cyclonic. Both depressions disappeared on the 4th, and ordinary high pressure conditions were established and lasted until the 8th, when another depression appeared over the Indus Valley occasioning squally weather, but no rain, over North-West India. While these changes were in progress in the north-west, pressure was remarkably steady and the weather fine and quiet in other parts of India. The temperature conditions have been marked by very large variations from the normal. On the 2nd the mean temperature was high over North-West India (Jacobabad  $+7^{\circ}2$ ) and low in most other places, but the slight snow-fall which occurred over the hills on the 2nd and 3rd started a cold wave which first made its appearance at Peshawar on the morning of the 3rd. By the morning of the 4th the area of excessive temperatures had moved eastward as far as the North-West Provinces (Jhansi  $+7^{\circ}6$ ) while the cold wave had extended over the greater part of North-West India (Rawalpindi  $-7^{\circ}5$ ), and this progress eastward of the wave was carried out during the remainder of the week. The mean temperature of the whole country was below the normal average from the 4th to the close of the week.

Daily Summary:—Sunday, January 2nd.—Pressure had decreased briskly over the Indus Valley and been nearly steady elsewhere. Pressure was high over the Central parts of the country and low over the Bay and the south-east of the Arabian sea, while a small and shallow depression had appeared over Sind. Westerly winds prevailed down the Gangetic Plain, north-westerly to northerly winds around the Bay, and easterly winds in most other places. The force was light. The mean temperature was high over North-West India, over the south of the Peninsula and over Upper Burma and Assam, and low elsewhere. Except for a few drops at Sibsagar there had been no rain.

Monday, January, 3rd.—The barometer had risen in Baluchistan and Sind and fallen almost everywhere else. The fall had been rapid to very rapid over Rajputana and the Punjab. The shallow depression noticed over Sind on the 2nd, had apparently reached Southern Rajputana, while a deep depression had been developed over the Punjab. Pressure was highest across the head of the Peninsula. Strong squally cyclonic winds were reported in the north-west, but elsewhere there had been no important change. The mean temperature remained high over the greater part of North-West India, but at Peshawar a brisk fall had occurred and the temperature was below the normal. In other parts of India the heat was generally below the normal but in Upper Burma and Assam there was some excess. Light rain or snow had been received at several of the hill stations and light rain was reported from Rawalpindi and Peshawar. Elsewhere the weather was fine and rainless.

Tuesday, January 4th.—The barometer had risen briskly to very rapidly in the north-west, and the two depressions had filled up. Elsewhere the changes continued slight. A large high pressure area covered North-Western and Central India, while the barometer was lowest over the Bay. North-westerly to westerly winds prevailed over Northern India, north-east to north-west winds around the Bay and easterly or variable winds elsewhere. The mean temperature was lower than usual over nearly the whole of North-West India, it was above the average over the North-West and Central Provinces, and generally slightly or moderately below elsewhere. Light snow had fallen over the North-West and Kashmir Himalayas, and light rain at one or two submontane stations. Elsewhere the weather was rainless.

Wednesday, January 5th.—Pressure had increased almost everywhere. The rise had been brisk to rapid over a large part of North-Western and Central India. Pressure was highest over Rajputana and lowest over the Bay. Gradients had increased somewhat over the North-West Provinces. A well marked westerly to north-westerly current of air was blowing down the Gangetic Plain, northerly winds were reported over the central parts of the country and the Bay area, and easterly winds over the centre and west of the Peninsula, while calms were reported from Bengal and Rajputana. The mean temperature was lower than usual over North-West India, the south of the Peninsula and Bengal, and higher than usual over the North-West Provinces, the Central Provinces and over Upper Burma. There had been practically no rain.

Thursday, January 6th.—Pressure had increased briskly over Bengal and had changed slightly elsewhere. A large high pressure area covered North-Western and Central India and readings remained low over the south of the Bay. The pressure differences were considerable. The winds were generally unchanged. Calms were reported from Rajputana and the Punjab. The mean temperature was somewhat higher than usual over Burma and around the head of the Bay and lower than usual elsewhere. The deficiency was between  $8\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  and  $9\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  over Rajputana and the north of the Central Provinces. The weather remained practically rainless.

Friday, January 7th.—Pressure had decreased almost everywhere. The fall had been slight generally but had been brisk in parts of North-West India. The general distribution of pressure was unchanged, but the pressure differences had become smaller. The winds were practically unaltered. The mean temperature was high over Burma on the one hand, and over the Punjab and Sind on the other, but was lower than usual over almost the whole of the intervening region. There had again been no rain.

Saturday, January 8th.—The barometer had fallen briskly to rapidly over Baluchistan and the western desert, and risen briskly over Bengal. Pressure was highest over the Gangetic Plain and the central parts of the country, lowest over the south of the Bay and relatively low over the western desert, where a small depression was shown. The winds had become irregularly cyclonic over North-West India, but elsewhere the directions were generally unchanged. The mean temperature remained high over North-West and North-East India, and low over the whole intervening region. The most marked variations were  $+3^{\circ}2$  at Jacobabad,  $-9^{\circ}3$  at Jubbulpur and  $+6^{\circ}9$  at Rangoon. There was still no rain.

Temperature.—The mean temperature during the past week has exhibited large variations from the normal caused by the passage of a well marked wave from west to east across the country.

Mean for whole of India . . . . .	+0'4	+0'7	-0'4	-1'8	-3'1	-2'7	-2'4	-1'3

On the 2nd and 3rd the mean temperature of the whole country slightly exceeded the normal average, but on the 4th the heat fell to below the normal, and so remained till the close of the week. The greatest deficiency was reported on the 6th and amounted for the whole of India to  $3^{\circ}1$ . On the 6th, 7th and 8th the mean temperature was in defect in all the provinces of India, though it was in slight excess in Burma. The provincial variations show that on the average of the whole week the mean temperature was lower than usual in all provinces, except Burma, but the daily variations show that large changes occurred from day to day. Thus in the Punjab there was an average excess of  $2^{\circ}9$  on the 2nd and a deficiency of  $3^{\circ}8$  on the 5th; in Central India and Gujarat an excess of  $2^{\circ}9$  on the 3rd and a deficiency of  $7^{\circ}8$  on the 6th, and in Sind and Rajputana an excess of  $6^{\circ}6$  on the 3rd, and a deficiency of  $6^{\circ}5$  on the 5th and 6th. One of the most marked features of the temperature conditions has been the very low night temperatures which have been registered over North-Western and Central India.

Rain.—The only rainfall or snowfall of any importance, which has been registered during the week under review, has been that which accompanied the depression which formed over the Punjab between 8 A.M. on the 2nd and 8 A.M. on the 3rd. On that occasion snow and rain fell all over the Kashmir and North-West Himalayas, and light rain fell at some of the submontane stations in the Punjab. On that occasion the following stations received over one-tenth of an inch of rain or snow, viz.:—Rawalpindi  $0^{\circ}55''$ ; Murree  $0^{\circ}85''$ ; Astor  $0^{\circ}38''$ ; Minimarg  $1^{\circ}49''$ ; Skardu  $0^{\circ}26''$ ; Dras  $0^{\circ}66''$ ; Srinagar  $1^{\circ}12''$  and Chakrata  $0^{\circ}12''$ . In no other instance was there any rainfall of importance.

The rainfall table at the close of the Summary shows that the Punjab Hills received an average fall for the week of  $0^{\circ}10''$  and the North Punjab of  $0^{\circ}19''$ , while the Brahmaputra Valley, the west submontane district of the North-West Provinces, the submontane district of the Punjab, and Mysore, received small amount of less than one-tenth of an inch, and, that, beyond these trifling amounts, there was no rain throughout the whole Indian region.

With the present return a fresh rainfall period commences and the three last columns of the table consequently give the same information as the three first columns.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 15th January.—The rainfall during the week was good in Tinnevely and Travancore; light local showers also fell in South Arcot, Tanjore, Pudukkottai, Madura and the Nilgiris; elsewhere there was no rain. The water-supply for irrigation is generally insufficient, except in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavari, Malabar and in parts of the Deccan and under the Godavari, Kistna, Cauvery and Tinnevely irrigation systems. More rain is required everywhere. Agricultural operations continue, but are retarded by want of rain. Crops in rainfed areas except in the extreme north are generally suffering for want of rain. The harvest is in progress, the outturn of crops in the north being middling or slightly better; elsewhere middling or worse. Pasture is generally sufficient but is failing in parts of the Deccan and Carnatic. Fodder is generally available. The condition of cattle is normal. Prices are very high generally, but are steady or slightly easier in the Circars and the Deccan; steady on the West Coast; and generally steady or rising slightly elsewhere. Most staple dry grains are dearer than or are touching scarcity rates in Ganjam, Godavari, Kistna, Kurnool, Anantapur, Cuddapah, Nellore and North Arcot. There is no improvement in prospects except in Tinnevely. The numbers on test works in Nellore have not been fully reported.

Bombay.—For week ending 17th January.—The standing crops are in good condition except where damaged in eight districts by blight, excessive cold or locusts. The harvesting of the early crops has been completed except in four districts; that of the late crops has commenced in Bijapur. Preparations for next season continue in five districts. Supplies of fodder and water are sufficient. Agricultural stock is healthy. Prices have fallen in nine districts and are almost stationary elsewhere. Prices in affected districts were—Belgaum 18, Bijapur 17, Sholapur  $11\frac{1}{2}$  seers per rupee. The daily average number on relief works including dependants was—Bijapur 944, Sholapur 9,676, Belgaum 133, total 10,753; of whom 9,877 are relief workers and 876 dependants. Of relief workers, 3,407 are men, 4,423 women, and 2,047 children. Of dependants, 25 are men, 60 women, and 791 children. On gratuitous relief—Sholapur 1,954, of whom 627 are men, 959 women, and 368 children.

Bengal.—For week ending 17th January.—There was no rain during the week. A shower would be beneficial to the spring crops in parts and to the poppy crop in Monghyr; otherwise the prospects of the spring and poppy crops are favourable. The winter rice harvest is almost at an end. The gathering of the early spring crops continues, and the pressing of sugarcane in some districts is in progress. Reports of the indigo crop in Bengal are good. Prices are almost stationary. The supply of fodder and water is generally sufficient except, as previously reported, in the flooded area of Chittagong and at Kurigram in Rangpur.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 16th January.—The weather has been cold and rainless. Slight injury to the arhar crop (cajanus indicus) is reported from frost in many districts. The irrigated crops are doing well, but rain is much needed for those on unirrigable land. The poppy crop is flourishing. Locusts passed over one tahsil of the Jhansi district without doing any damage. Sugarcane pressing is approaching completion. Markets are well supplied and there is no scarcity of fodder for cattle. Prices are generally stationary with a tendency to fall.

Punjab.—For week ending 17th January.—Rainfall nil. Sugarcane pressing and cotton picking are still in progress in some districts. The irrigation of spring crops is going on. The condition of irrigated spring crops is good, but those on dry lands are suffering for want of rain which is urgently required throughout the province. The outturn of sugarcane is reported average in Peshawar, and that of cotton below average in Dera Ismail Khan. Crops have been slightly damaged by white ants in parts of Umballa and Jullundur; locusts appeared in three tahsils of Rawalpindi but did no damage. Cattle are reported in poor condition in Sialkot and in parts of Dera Ismail Khan and are in good condition elsewhere. Fodder is sufficient in all districts except Sialkot and parts of Amritsar and Dera Ismail Khan. Prices, especially of wheat, are rising in Delhi, Jullundur and Dera Ismail Khan; falling in Mooltan and Peshawar, and are unchanged elsewhere. Wheat is selling from  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to 14, gram 11 to 13 barley 16, bulrush millet 17 to 22, maize 17 to  $21\frac{1}{4}$ , great millet 19, and rice 9 to  $10\frac{1}{2}$  seers per rupee.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 17th January.—The weather is clear and cold. The prospects of the winter crops are generally fair but rain would now be everywhere beneficial. It is especially wanted in parts of Damoh and in Jubbulpore and Hoshangabad. Some damage is reported to pulses by frost in Damoh, Jubbulpore, Mandla and Hoshangabad; and by insects to wheat and linseed in Bhandara. The numbers on relief are confined to 1,508 in poor-houses. Prices of jwar and rice are falling in most districts. The numbers on gratuitous relief were—Damoh 230, Bhandara 238, Balaghat 167, Raipur 250 and Bilaspur 623, total 1,508. There were also 13,060 persons employed on railway works. Details of gratuitous relief—Poor-houses—men 262, women 238, and children 778. Otherwise relieved—children 230.

Burma.—For week ending 15th January.—In Lower Burma reaping, is nearly completed, and threshing continued. In Upper Burma the wet weather crops are being gathered in everywhere; ploughing and transplanting for dry weather and island crops continue. Crop prospects remain unchanged. The price of paddy has risen slightly in Akyab, Prome and Thayetmyo; and has fallen slightly in Thaton and Mandalay and considerably in Amherst; elsewhere it is stationary.

Assam.—For week ending 18th January.—The weather is seasonable. The reaping of the late rice still continues in Goalpara, Darrang and Nowgong, and the outturn is generally good. The gathering of pulses, pruning of tea, and pressing of sugarcane are in progress. The gathering of mustard has commenced. The prospects of mustard and pulses are fair. Prices—common rice—Silchar, Sylhet and Sibsagar 12, Dhubri  $11\frac{1}{2}$ , Gauhati 11, Tezpur and Dibrugarh 10, and Nowgong 9 seers per rupee. Fodder is scarce in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills and in parts of Cachar and Darrang.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 17th January.—MYSORE:—Prices have risen in Kolar, Tumkur and Shimoga and have fallen in Bangalore, Mysore and Kadur. Ragi (Eleusine coracana) has been harvested in Bangalore, Shimoga and in parts of Kolar.

COORG.—The rice harvest and coffee picking continue. Prices of food grains are stationary. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 17th January.—BERAR: The weather is cool and clear. Picking of cotton and threshing of jowar (Sorghum vulgare) continue. The winter crops are in good condition. Fodder and water are sufficient for requirements. Prices show a tendency to fall. Prices—jowar—Akola 20, Amraoti 21, Basim 20, Buldana 19, Ellichpur 22, and Wun 23 seers per rupee.

HYDERABAD: No rain during the week. The standing spring crops are affected in parts on account of the excessive cold. Winter-rice sowing continues. Prices of grain are generally stationary, but have slightly risen in parts. Prices—wheat 5, coarse rice  $6\frac{1}{2}$ , and jowari  $11\frac{1}{2}$ , seers per current sicca rupee.

Rajputana.—For week ending 19th January.—The standing crops and prospects are good. Rain is much needed in two tehsils of Bhurtpore for the standing crops. Agricultural stock is in fair condition in Meywar and Bikanir, and good elsewhere. Pasturage or fodder is sufficient. Prices are falling in 5 States, are fluctuating in one and are steady elsewhere. Sirohi and Jeysulmere reports not received.

Central India.—For week ending 17th January.—No rain fell in Central India during the week. Winter rains are wanted in Bundelkhand and Bhopawar. Agricultural operations are in progress in all agencies. Crops are in good condition, but arhar (Cajanus indicus) has been damaged by frost in parts of Nagode in Baghelkhand. Agricultural stock and pasturage are good in all agencies. Prices are steady in Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bhopawar; and are falling in Bundelkhand.

Kashmir.—For week ending 18th January.—The weather is cloudy. Prices continue below normal.

Jammu Province.—For week ending 18th January.—No rain during the week. Prices are stationary.

Nepal.—For week ending 17th January.—No rain. The weather is seasonable. There is generally fog in the mornings, while it is cloudy during the day. The wheat and barley plants are doing well. Prices—8 seers per rupee.

The total numbers in receipt of relief during the preceding and present weeks were as follows :—

rupee in some form or another at a fixed rate. All economists, without exception, admit that 'exchangeability' at a fixed rate can alone give fixity of exchange.

"My Lord, I hold in my hand a statement which shows the amount of money which would have been saved if the rupee had been maintained at 1s. 4d. during the financial years of 1894-95, 1895-96 and 1896-97. The figures are as follows:—

In thousands of rupees.
Council Bills—
Year.	Amount drawn.	Actual Exchange.	Exchange at 1s. 4d.	Difference in Exchange.
1894-95 . . .	30,96,99	14,06,48	10,32,33	3,74,15
1895-96 . . .	31,08,54	13,42,09	10,36,18	3,05,91
1896-97 . . .	25,78,70	10,26,05	8,59,57	1,66,48

Exchange Compensation Allowance—

Year.	Actual charges.	Average rate of year.	Estimated amount at 1s. 4d.	Difference.
1894-95 . . .	1,24,96	1s. 1 $\frac{6}{8}$ d. = 16,637 %	46,94	78,02
1895-96 . . .	1,33,82	1s. 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ d. = 17,930 %	46,64	87,18
1896-97 . . .	94,33	1s. 2 $\frac{1}{8}$ d. = 12,905 %	45,68	48,65

Pay of British Soldiers—

Year.	Actual rate of Exchange fixed.	Deficiency from 1s. 4d.	Estimated saving in expenditure.
1894-95 . . .	1s. 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ d.	2 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.	37,84
1895-96 . . .	1s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.	2 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.	49,38
1896-97 . . .	1s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.	2 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.	44,25

The savings may be taken at the following amounts :—

Year.	Council Bills.	Exchange Compensation Allowance.	Pay of British Troops.*	Total.

Summary.

Rs. 11,91,86,000 @ 1s. 4d. = £7,945,733.

"This sum would have paid interest on a conversion fund of £88 million sterling, which is equal to 132 crores of rupees. Mr F. C. Harrison, who is an authority on the subject, estimates the total rupees in circulation at 120 crores. While giving these figures, I have no intention of hazarding an opinion as to what sum is required to form an adequate conversion fund. I think it sufficient to point out that one of two things must be faced—

- (a) either an automatic machinery which will fix exchange and may cost something, or
- (b) a decline in exchange sooner or later.

Which of these courses, I would ask, would be the more costly? It is needless to ask which is the more beneficial. It is argued that it is impossible to estimate to what extent a conversion fund would be drawn upon, and that therefore the amount required to form a conversion fund is indefinite. Equally indefinite is the loss which will be occasioned by a decline in exchange. The cause is precisely the same in both cases. The unfavourable balance of indebtedness that would lead to large demands on a conversion fund would equally cause a decline in exchange. The figures which I have given would seem to show that it would be better in the interests of the finances of India to fix on a sound conversion scheme than to continue the policy of waiting with all its uncertainties, its disastrous fluctuations in exchange and its periods of excessive monetary stringency."

The Hon'ble PANDIT BISHAMBAR NATH said:—"While expressing my consent to the motion, I should like to say a word touching it. When a Bill is proposed to be passed only within a short interval of, or a week after, its introduction, without its even being referred to a Select Committee for consideration, the outside public generally view such an abrupt procedure with a certain degree of mistrust. It is simply to guard against any misconception of the kind that I consider it proper to explain how the matter stands. The Bill is purely of a technical and special character. It is a short and simple enabling measure hardly requiring any consideration by a Select Committee. Its object, as explained by the Hon'ble Mover, is evidently to provide an effectual means of relief against the extreme stringency through which the Indian money market is at present passing. The measure is, moreover, of a temporary nature, and, when passed into law, it is proposed to continue it in force only for the short period of six months, during which time, if the Secretary of State is required to draw on the Indian Treasury, beyond the limit to which its funds are available, he will, I understand, set apart the money received in England in the form of gold, and will take steps to transmit it to this country. It is obviously with the object of providing speedy relief for the banking and commercial communities that the Bill is to be passed without delay."

The Hon'ble SIR JAMES WESTLAND said:—"I am sure that my Hon'ble friend Mr. Allan Arthur will not consider that I in any way under-value his criticism of the measure before the Council and of the general measures to be taken by Government in the matter of exchange if I say that I am unable at the present juncture to enter upon a public discussion of the question. A Finance Minister speaks in this matter from a position of greater responsibility, and less freedom, than even a President of a Chamber of Commerce, and, however greatly we may value the criticisms that have been received from the mercantile community, I hope that they will not think that we in any way refrain from giving them our utmost attention, because we are unable to reply to them by giving any indication of our opinions on the matters under discussion. In fact, during the last week I have seen so many attempts in the newspapers to read between the lines and round the corners of what I said last Friday, that I feel that I must be extremely careful in any expression I use in a discussion on the matter. Until, therefore, the Government of India and the Secretary of State make some pronouncement of their opinion and of their intentions with reference to the question of exchange, I trust that I may be excused from stating any preliminary opinions as opinions that are either held by myself or held by the Government of India. I am glad to understand from the observations which have been made by the Hon'ble Pandit Bishambar Nath that the measure we have taken in asking the Council to pass the Bill within one week of its introduction commends itself to other members who do not profess to belong to the mercantile community. So far as the opinions of the mercantile community are known to me, I think they would have had no objection to the Bill being passed on the day on which it was introduced. The Government saw no occasion for promoting legislation in such a hurry, and we see one advantage of the short postponement in my having an opportunity of placing before the Council one amendment which renders the measure to be taken under the Bill in some respects more easy than it would have been under the Bill as it was first introduced; but the mercantile community, both in Calcutta and in Bombay, has, so far as I see, thoroughly approved of the Bill which is before the Council, and as a non-mercantile member, the Hon'ble Pandit Bishambar Nath, who last spoke, has indicated his approval of the proposal of Government that the Bill be taken into consideration and passed to-day, I hope that I may move with confidence that the Bill be now passed."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 4th February, 1898.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULA-TIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE INDIAN COUN-CILS ACTS, 1861 AND 1892 (24 & 25 VICT., CAP. 67, AND 55 & 56 VICT., CAP. 14).

The Council met at Government House, Calcutta, on Friday, the 21st January, 1898.

PRESENT :

His Excellency the Earl of Elgin, P.C., G.M.S.I., G.M.I.E., LL.D., Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding.
The Hon'ble Sir J. Westland, K.C.S.I.

The Hon'ble J. J. D. LaTouche, C.S.I.
The Hon'ble F. A. Nicholson.
The Hon'ble Rai Bahadur Pandit Suraj Kaul, C.I.E.
The Hon'ble Gangadhar Rao Madhav Chitnavis, C.I.E.
The Hon'ble Allan Arthur.

QUESTION AND ANSWER.

The Hon'ble GANGADHAR RAO MADHAV CHITNAVIS asked :—
"In view of the acute famine from which the Central Provinces are just emerging and the widespread exhaustion of resources which has taken place, will the Government be pleased to suspend the operation of the new revised jamas in the worst affected districts or tracts where the settlement-operations have been recently completed or are in progress, both in the case of malguzars and tenants, until such time as the people recover from the severe blow they have received."

The Hon'ble Mr. RIVAZ replied :—

"The Government of India do not consider it necessary to postpone the introduction of the revised assessments in tracts affected by famine in the Central Provinces where resettlement-operations have recently been completed or are in progress. Liberal suspensions and remissions of revenue and rent have been granted on account of the famine, and the Government of India are of opinion that the revised assessments form a more equitable basis than an assessment based upon the conditions of thirty years ago can form for calculating the amount of revenue and rent which should be collected or suspended or remitted."

LEPERS BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. RIVAZ presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings. He said :—The alterations proposed by the Select Committee are mainly in the direction of making the provisions of sections 8, 9 and 10, which deal with pauper lepers and which prohibit lepers from following certain callings or doing certain acts, more distinct and less stringent than they stood as originally drafted. We also propose to insert a new section in the Bill which will render persons who employ lepers in prohibited callings liable to punishment as well as the lepers themselves. I reserve any further remarks that I may have to make in explanation of the general scope of the Bill until the time comes for asking the Council to take the Report of the Select Committee into consideration."

STAGE-CARRIAGES ACT (1861) AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. RIVAZ moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to further amend the Stage-Carriages Act, 1861, be taken into consideration. He said :—"I need not add anything to the few remarks I made in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on this Bill a fortnight ago. The purport of the Bill is merely to correct a few minor defects in the Act of 1861 and does not alter that Act on any important points."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. RIVAZ moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN STAMP BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir JAMES WESTLAND moved that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamps be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Chalmers, the Hon'ble Babu Joy Gobind Law, the Hon'ble Mr. Nicholson, the Hon'ble Mr. Allan Arthur and the mover.

The motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN PAPER CURRENCY BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir JAMES WESTLAND moved that the Bill to provide for the issue of currency notes in exchange for gold received in England be taken into consideration. He said :—"In making this motion I have no further remark to make than to say that I am pleased to observe that the introduction of the Bill has been followed by considerable relief in the stringency of the money market, and this mere introduction therefore has attained much of the object which we sought in proposing the measure."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR JAMES WESTLAND said :—" Before the motion be made that the Bill be passed I have two amendments to make, both of them arising out of the correspondence that has taken place between the Government of India and the Secretary of State during the past week. It was necessary that we should be in close correspondence with him, because the measures which have to be adopted in pursuance of the Bill have to be adopted on his side and not on ours. The first of these two amendments is a purely verbal one. It is that in the title and preamble of the Bill the words "in exchange for" be deleted and the words "on the security of" be substituted. Both of these expressions are used in the Currency Act as it stands. The Currency Commissioner is authorised to issue notes in exchange for coin, but afterwards, in a subsequent section, it is declared that the notes in question shall be deemed to have been issued on the security of the said coin. The amendment is not a substantial one and practically only arises from the circumstance that in the official language which the Secretary of State has used in connection with the matter, he obviously prefers the term 'on the security of' to the term 'in exchange for'. He has not asked us to make this amendment in the Bill, but, in order that the wording should be in exact conformity with that which he prefers, I propose to make the substitution which he prefers, for the words which are to be found in the Bill as it at present stands."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR JAMES WESTLAND said :—" The second amendment has for its object to enable the Secretary of State to carry out a transaction in respect of the gold which he receives for the notes issued here, which is exactly the same as the transactions which are carried on every day in this country. One notable example is the way in which the Bank of Bengal and the Exchange Banks finance the trade in Burma. It would be impossible for us to lay down and to keep in our Treasury rupees in Burma so as to enable the Banks in Calcutta to draw upon the Treasury and thus obtain the funds which they require for the financing of the heavy trade that takes place there during the months of February, March and April; but it is extremely easy for us to keep a large balance in the Currency Reserve in Rangoon. The money comes in to us after the trade there has ceased, and it is very easy for us to keep the money in our Currency Reserve there until the trade becomes active again in the next cold weather. So that we keep it there for the use of the Banks, and when they want the money they give money over to us in the Currency Department in Calcutta and we pay it to them out of the Currency Department in Rangoon. The transactions take place both from Treasury and from Currency, because although we have no money in the Treasury we may very easily make it available by transferring money from the Treasury to the Currency Reserve in Calcutta and thus an equal amount of the Currency Reserve for transfer to the Treasury in Rangoon. This circulation goes on all over India and facilitates very largely the distribution of coin for the necessities of trade. The exchange of money between Calcutta and Bombay and the remittance of money between Calcutta and Bombay are carried on in much the same way. Well, the Secretary of State finds that it will be convenient for him to exercise the same power in respect to gold that he receives in England. If, during the time while he is holding the gold in England and has not yet transmitted it to this country, it becomes convenient for him to use that gold by transferring it to his cash balance at the India Office in England, at present, as the Bill is drawn, he would not be able to conduct this operation; but if we give him the facility of doing so he will be able to take that gold into his Treasury at home for treasury purposes on condition of our making an equal transfer from Treasury to Currency in this country. The operation will not in the least affect the facilities which the Bill gives to trade. As I explained last Friday, all that the trade will know of the operations that are being conducted is that the Secretary of State is enabled by it to give them telegraphic transfers at a time when he would be restricted from doing so by reason of the scarcity of money in the Treasury here. That will not in any way be interfered with by any proposals regarding the subsequent disposal of gold at home. The object therefore of the amendment is to declare that the Secretary of State is not bound to hold the gold in actual balance until he remits it to this country, but that if intermediately, and before he remits it to this country, he requires it for his Treasury balance, he may make it available for his Treasury balance by calling upon us to pay the money into Currency in this country. I beg, therefore, to move that the following be substituted for proviso (1) to section 13A of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, proposed to be added by section 2 of the Bill :—

'(1) the power conferred by this section shall not be exercised unless the Secretary of State for India shall consent to hold in gold coin or gold bullion what he shall determine to be equivalent in value to the notes so issued, as a reserve to secure the payment of such notes, until he shall transmit the same, or what he shall determine to be equivalent to the same, in gold coin or gold bullion to India, or until the Government of India shall appropriate and set apart in India, as a part of the Currency Reserve under section 19, an amount of coin of the Government of India equal in value to such notes.' "

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR JAMES WESTLAND moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed. He said :—" In doing this I have one explanation to make, namely, that as soon as the Bill passes—if the Council are good enough to pass it—a notification will be issued under the terms of the Bill permitting the operation under it to take place at once. I am afraid that that notification, as it stands, will not be altogether intelligible to the public. The difficulty throughout the whole business is this : that we have had to legislate for a transaction which is really to be carried out in England and therefore lies entirely outside our legislative powers. As the Bill expresses it, it comes into operation only by reason of the consent of the Secretary of State to do certain things. We declare in this country by the Act and by notification under it, what is required to be done, but it remains for the Secretary of State to lay down the precise action which is to be taken under it. The notification therefore merely talks of gold being received and specifies the number of grains of gold that have to be received for each rupee of notes issued in this country ; but the Secretary of State will to-day issue in London a notification of which the following are the terms, and this really is, to merchants at least, the interesting part of the business. The announcement to be made in London is that the Secretary of State in Council is prepared to sell, until further notice, telegraphic transfers, on Calcutta, Madras and Bombay at a price not exceeding 16½d. for the rupee. I have now the honour to move that the Bill as amended be passed."

The Hon'ble Mr. ALLAN ARTHUR said :—" My Lord, in the remarks, which I had the honour to make in this Council last week, I pointed out that, while the Bill introduced by the Hon'ble Sir James Westland would be received favourably by the banking and mercantile communities, the measure would in no way tend towards fixity of exchange. I also mentioned that the effect of the present policy was to drive loanable capital out of the country. The Hon'ble Sir James Westland in reply stated that what induced the holders of sterling capital to withdraw their capital under the system which existed prior to 1893, as well as under the present policy, was the feeling of insecurity which then existed, and now exists, in regard to the improbability of realising this capital in sterling form, at anything like the value at which it was sent to this country. The legislation of 1893 has, therefore, the same defect as the system which existed prior to 1893.

" It is not for me to advocate any one scheme or another. The mercantile community call for definite fixity of exchange or something approaching fixity. This can only be attained by the adoption of the convertibility of the

CHARITABLE ENDOWMENTS ACT, 1890.

In the matter of the G. V. Jugga Rao's Observatory, Vizagapatam.

No. 188—46-12.—NOTICE is hereby given that it is proposed that an order be made by the Governor General of India in Council after two calendar months, to be computed from the first publication of this notice, in exercise and by virtue of the powers conferred by sections 5 (2), 6 and 7 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, for the purpose of altering Schedule II of the Notification No. 1837 A, dated the 29th June 1895, and published in the Gazette of India of the 6th July 1895, in Part I, pages 598 to 601, by cancelling paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 of such Schedule II, and substituting therefor the following three paragraphs:—

3. The management of the said Observatory shall be entrusted to a Committee of not fewer than seven persons, subject to the general supervision and orders of the Government of India. Such Committee shall consist of—

- (1) the Collector of Vizagapatam for the time being;
- (2) the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India for the time being;
- (3) the Government Astronomer of Madras for the time being;
- (4) the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal for the time being;
- (5) the Second Assistant Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India for the time being; and such other persons as the Government of India may from time to time appoint.

4. An Executive Committee consisting of the Collector of Vizagapatam for the time being, and not fewer than two other members of the General Committee, to be selected from time to time by the Government of India, shall be appointed to carry on the work of the Observatory on the lines laid down from time to time by the General Committee, and shall exercise local supervision over the establishment and the passing of the accounts of the Observatory.

5. If any vacancy occurs among the members (other than the ex-officio members) of either of the said Committees, the fact shall at once be reported by the Committee to the Government of India.

Any objections to the proposed alterations, or suggestions thereon, may be submitted in writing to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture before the 29th day of March 1898.

Dated this 29th day of January 1898.

INVENTIONS AND DESIGNS.

The 28th January, 1898.

No. 264-P.—IN exercise of the power conferred by section 49 of the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following rules for dealing with applications presented under section 5 of the Act:—

1. Every application under section 5 of the Inventions and Designs Act, 1888 (V of 1888) for leave to file a specification shall, on receipt and before being entered in the register of inventions maintained under section 12, be examined by the Secretary with a view to ascertain whether it complies with the requirements of the said section 5. No application or duplicate application shall be notified in the Gazette or open to public inspection until such examination has been made, and unless and until the application has been entered in the register of inventions.

2. If, on examination, the application is found to be manifestly defective in respect of any of the said requirements, that is to say,—

- (a) if it is not signed by the inventor or by his duly authorised agent;
- (b) if the name, occupation or address of the inventor is not stated;
- (c) if there is any material departure from the form prescribed in the second or third schedule to the Act, as the case may be;
- (d) if, in the event of a patent in the United Kingdom having been obtained, the dates of such patent and of the actual sealing thereof are not stated;
- (e) if the nature of the invention is not described; or
- (f) if the particular novelty whereof the invention consists is not described;

the application shall not be deemed to be an application within the meaning of the section, and the Secretary shall return it and its duplicate to the applicant, with as little delay as possible, together with an order specifying the defects on account of which it is returned. An application so returned shall have the date of receipt endorsed upon it, but it shall not be numbered or entered in the register of inventions.

Explanation.—If the application contains a substantial and bona fide description of the invention and of its novelty, it shall not be held to be defective under clause (e) or clause (f) merely by reason of the description not being so full or explicit as may be desirable.

3. If the application is not manifestly defective in respect of any of the matters referred to in rule 2, the Secretary shall enter it in the register of inventions. If it appears to be defective in any other respect, or if the description of the invention or of its novelty is insufficient, the Secretary may return it for amendment with an order specifying the defects to be supplied, or may, under section 5, sub-section (3), call for further particulars relating to the invention or for drawings or photographs illustrative thereof. When the Secretary returns an application or calls for further particulars or for drawings or photographs under this rule, he shall fix a reasonable period, within which, if the application is not re-submitted, duly amended, or if the further particulars, drawings or photographs are not supplied, as the case may be, the application shall be deemed to have been abandoned and no further action shall be taken upon it. The period so fixed shall not be less than a month, and may, on good cause being shown, be extended from time to time by the Secretary, but not so as to exceed four months on the whole without the sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Modification of rule 110.

READ—

Section 47 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890.

Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 118, dated the 21st March 1895, publishing—in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 23rd March 1895—the Government of India circular No. 6 Railway, dated 12th March 1895, and the General Rules, therewith promulgated, for all open lines of railway in British India administered by the Government.

Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 257, dated the 28th May 1896, publishing—in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 30th May 1896—the Government of India circular No. 3 Railway, dated the 22nd May 1896, and the amended rules therewith promulgated.

Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 4, dated the 6th January 1898,—published in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 8th January 1898—appointing the Director of Railway Traffic and Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, as the officer who, in the case of a railway administered by Government, is to make General Rules under section 47 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890.

Letter from the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for Railways, Lucknow, No. 4791, dated the 2nd October 1897, forwarding letter from the Agent of the Bengal and North-Western Railway Company, No. 9907, dated the 23rd September 1897.

Memorandum No. 565 T., dated the 21st December 1897, from the Director of Railway Traffic, forwarding letter from the Manager, Oudh and Rohilkhand railway, No. 567 D.G., dated the 11th December 1897.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Agent of the Bengal and North-Western railway and the Director of Railway Traffic have applied that the following modification of rule 110, Part I, of the General Rules for working open lines of railway in British India which have been published under the Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 118, dated the 21st March 1895 (vide the Gazette of India of the 23rd March 1895), as modified by the Government of India circular No. 3 Ry., dated the 22nd May 1896, which was published under the Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 257, dated the 28th May 1896 (vide the Gazette of India of the 30th May 1896), may be made applicable to the Bengal and North-Western railway and to the railways worked by it, and to the Oudh and Rohilkhand railway :—

“Rule 110.—When a train has been shunted for another train to pass, the side lamp next the line on which the following train is to be admitted must be reversed, the other side lamp and the tail lamp being left in their normal position showing red.”

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under section 47 (4) of the Indian Railways Act (IX) of 1890, to sanction the application to the railways worked by the Bengal and North-Western railway administration and to the Oudh and Rohilkhand railway of the modification of rule 110 of the open line General Rules of 1895 cited in the foregoing observations.

ORDER.—Ordered that this resolution be published under a notification in Part I of the Gazette of India, as required by section 47, sub-section (3), of the Indian Railways Act, 1890; also that the General Rules referred to in the foregoing observations—which have already been published in the Gazette of India—with rule 110 as herein modified, be kept at railway stations as directed by sub-section (6) of the same section.

ORDERED, also, that this resolution be communicated to the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for Railways, Lucknow, and to the Director of Railway Traffic, for information and guidance.

NOTICES.

All communications relating to Act V (the Inventions and Designs Act) of 1888 should be addressed to the "Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture (PATENTS BRANCH), CALCUTTA".

The office of the Secretary under the Act is open for the transaction of business from 11 A.M. to 4 P.M. on all days except Sundays and gazetted holidays.

The Government of India are advised that, as trade marks are not "designs" within the meaning of the Act, they cannot be registered under Part II.

The fees payable under the fourth and sixth schedules are now collected in cash, and applicants are warned that they must be responsible for any delay in cashing cheques.

Copies of the weekly notifications, and of the quarterly lists, of applications and specifications filed in the Secretary's office are now on sale to the public at one anna and eight annas a copy respectively.

Attention is requested to the rules made by the Government on the 10th October, 1895, in regard to the preparation of applications, specifications and drawings.

All applications made under the Inventions and Designs Act, V of 1888, will from this date (December 19th, 1896) lie in the visitors' room of the Patents Office for ten days from the date of the Gazette of India in which their filing may have been notified; or, if the tenth day is a holiday, till the evening of the office day next following.

At the time of delivering or sending an application for leave to file a specification, the applicant shall cause a duplicate copy of the application to be delivered or sent therewith to the Secretary.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Camp Sibi, the 22nd January, 1898.

No. 378-C.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 5 and 13 of the Opium Act, 1878 (1 of 1878), as applied to the territories administered by the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan as such Agent, and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan is pleased to make the following rules in supersession of those published with his Notification No. 1624-A., dated the 19th April, 1890:—

DEFINITIONS.

1. In these rules, unless, there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

- (1) "Revenue Commissioner" means the Revenue Commissioner in Baluchistan;
- (2) "Political Agent" includes an officer authorised by the Political Agent to exercise all or any of the powers or to perform all or any of the duties conferred or imposed on a Political Agent by these rules;
- (3) "licensed contractor" means a person who has obtained a contract from the Political Agent under rule 18;
- (4) "opium" means the inspissated juice of the poppy;
- (5) "intoxicating drug" means any intoxicating or narcotic preparation of opium or of the poppy, including madak and chandu and every preparation or admixture thereof, but excluding poppy-heads.
- (6) "poppy-heads" means the dry capsules of the poppy plant;
- (7) "tola" means a weight of 180 grains troy;
- (8) "seer" means a weight 80 tolas; and
- (9) opium or an intoxicating drug, other than a preparation or admixture of opium used for smoking, when sold in any quantity not exceeding three tolas in weight, and poppy-heads, when sold in any quantity not exceeding one seer in weight, shall be deemed to be sold by "retail", and, when sold in any larger quantity, shall be deemed to be sold "wholesale."

MANUFACTURE.

2. (1) Preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking may be manufactured by any person for his own domestic use, but not for sale, in a quantity not exceeding one tola in weight, from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

(2) Intoxicating drugs, not being preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, may be manufactured:—

- (a) on account of the Government;
- (b) by a licensed contractor for sale by retail or wholesale in accordance with these rules and the conditions of his license;
- (c) by a licensed medical practitioner or druggist for medicinal purposes in a quantity not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight: provided that such manufacture is from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession;
- (d) by any person for his own domestic use in a quantity not exceeding three tolas in weight: provided that such manufacture is from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

POSSESSION.

3. Any person may possess—

- (a) preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking to the extent of one tola: provided that such preparations or admixtures have been manufactured by the possessor for private consumption and not for sale under the conditions of rule 2 (1);
- (b) opium or intoxicating drugs, not being preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, to the extent of three tolas and poppy-heads to the extent of one seer: provided that the said articles have been bought by retail from a licensed contractor or (for medicinal purposes) from a licensed medical practitioner or druggist, or have been manufactured from opium so bought.

4. (1) The possession of more than one seer of poppy-heads, and three tolas of opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor or by his agent, is permitted.

(2) (a) A medical practitioner or druggist may possess, under a license granted by the Political Agent, poppy-heads not exceeding five seers in weight, opium not exceeding one seer in weight, and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight, or such larger quantities of all or any of these articles as the Revenue Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

(b) If the holder of such a license as aforesaid violates any of the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, or of the rules thereunder, or any condition entered in his license, such license may be cancelled: provided that a license so cancelled may, at the discretion of the Political Agent, be renewed on payment of such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees as the Political Agent may fix.

(c) If the license is cancelled for any of the causes aforesaid, the holder shall have no claim to any compensation whatever, or to remission of any sum due from him to the Government.

(d) Every medical practitioner or druggist, to whom a license is granted under clause 2 (a) of this rule, shall pay for his license such fee as may from time to time be fixed with the sanction of the Revenue Commissioner, or a fee regulated in such manner and in accordance with such rules as the Revenue Commissioner may prescribe; and the fee shall be specified in the license and shall be payable in such instalments, and at such times and places, as the Revenue Commissioner may direct.

5. With the sanction of the Revenue Commissioner, the Political Agent may specially authorise the possession by any person of a quantity of opium not exceeding one seer in weight, and of intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight.

TRANSPORT.

6. The transport of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor within the limits of the area for which his contract is granted, is permitted. The transport of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor beyond those limits is permitted under a pass granted by the Political Agent.

7. (1) When a licensed contractor desires to transport poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, beyond the limits of the area for which his contract is granted, he shall obtain for each consignment a pass from the Political Agent in such form as the Revenue Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

(2) The pass shall specify:—

- (a) the time within which the transport is to be effected;
- (b) the place from which the consignment is to be transported;
- (c) the name of the person in charge of the consignment;
- (d) the name of the consignor;
- (e) the name of the consignee;
- (f) the number of packages, and the weight and contents of each; and
- (g) the place to which the consignment is to be transported, and the route to be followed.

(3) Each package in every such consignment shall be stamped by, or in the presence of, the officer granting the pass, with the official seal of such officer.

(4) Such pass shall be granted only on production, by the licensed contractor applying for it, of a written permission to apply for such pass from the Political Agent of the district to which the opium, intoxicating drugs, or poppy-heads is, or are, to be transported.

8. The bulk of a consignment shall not be broken during transport.

9. The Political Agent may, at his discretion or under orders from the Revenue Commissioner, make it a condition of the pass that the bulk of the consignment for which it is granted, shall not be broken after arrival at its destination as specified in the pass, until after the consignment has been examined by an officer deputed or authorised by the Political Agent for that purpose: provided that such examination shall be made within seven days from the date on which the Political Agent is informed of the arrival of the consignment.

10. If any officer competent to exercise the powers of seizure, detention and search conferred by sections 14 and 15 of the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, finds that the packages are fewer, or the amount of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, less (by more than the dryage allowance of one-quarter per cent.) than the number or amount specified in the pass, he shall immediately report the circumstances to the Political Agent.

IMPORT AND EXPORT.

11. (1) The importation by a licensed contractor of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, brought from British India is permitted, subject to the following conditions:—

(a) The importer shall obtain from the Political Agent a license specifying—

- (i) the quantity of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs required;
- (ii) the source of supply; and
- (iii) the name of the licensed contractor or his agent.

(b) The poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be covered by a pass granted by a duly authorised officer of the place from which they are imported.

(2) The Government may import and export poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, on its own account.

(3) A licensed medical practitioner or druggist may, with the special permission of the Political Agent and subject to the conditions specified in clause (1) of this rule, import opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs, not being preparations used for smoking, which he cannot obtain locally, to the extent of the quantities of the said articles of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

12. The bulk of a consignment shall not be broken during importation.

13. The Political Agent may, at his discretion or under orders from the Revenue Commissioner, make it a condition of the license that the bulk of the consignment for which a pass is granted, shall not be broken after arrival at its destination as specified in the pass, until after the consignment has been examined by an officer deputed or authorised by the Political Agent for that purpose: provided that such examination shall be made within seven days from the date on which the Political Agent is informed of the arrival of the consignment.

14. If any officer competent to exercise the powers of seizure, detention and search conferred by sections 14 and 15 of the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, finds that the packages are fewer or the amount of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs less (by more than the dryage allowance of one-quarter per cent.) than the number or amount specified in the pass, he shall immediately report the circumstances to the Political Agent.

IMPORT AND EXPORT WITHIN THE LOCAL LIMITS OF THE CONTRACTS OF LICENSED CONTRACTORS.

15. When the local area to which the contract of a licensed contractor extends, is partly in the territories administered by the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan as such Agent and partly in British Baluchistan, the licensed contractor may import and export poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, from one part of such local area to another, and in every such case rules 7 to 10, both inclusive, shall apply.

SALE.

16. (1) The sale of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, is permitted, subject to the following conditions:—

(a) The poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs must have been either imported under a license obtained under rule 11 or bought from a licensed contractor.

(b) If the sale is by wholesale, it shall, unless it is made by one licensed contractor to another, be made under the special order of the Political Agent: provided that a licensed contractor or a licensed medical practitioner or druggist may sell to a licensed medical practitioner or druggist at one time any quantity of poppy-heads not exceeding five seers in weight, or of opium not exceeding one seer in weight, or of intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight.

(c) If the sale is by retail, it shall be made by a licensed contractor or his agent at a shop authorised for that purpose by the Political Agent.

(2) Subject to the conditions of his license granted under rule 4 (2), a medical practitioner or druggist may sell by retail poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, for medicinal purposes.

17. Any shop at which the sale of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs has been authorised, may be closed or removed at the discretion of the Political Agent.

18. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures used for smoking, may be granted by the Political Agent with the previous sanction of the Revenue Commissioner. Such contracts shall, unless the Revenue Commissioner otherwise specifically directs, be put up to auction before the commencement of each official year.

19. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Revenue Commissioner.

20. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be granted for one year only, unless the Revenue Commissioner otherwise specially directs.

21. (1) In the event of non-fulfilment of the terms of a contract for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, granted under rules 18, 19 and 20, or of any breach by the contractor or his agent of any of the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, or of these rules, such contract may be cancelled: provided that a contract so cancelled may, at the discretion of the Political Agent, be renewed on payment of such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Political Agent may fix.

(2) If a contract is cancelled for any of the causes aforesaid, the contractor shall have no claim to any compensation whatever, or to remission of any sum due from him to the Government.

(3) The Political Agent may cancel a contract on any other public ground on making such compensation or remission as he may consider reasonable.

22. If any licensed contractor, on the expiry of his contract, has in his possession any poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs which he is unable to dispose of to the satisfaction of the Political Agent by private sale to other licensed contractors, he shall surrender the same to the Political Agent; and the in-coming licensed contractor, or, if the expired contract is not renewed, any licensed contractor within the district, shall, when required by the Political Agent, be bound to purchase the poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs aforesaid to the extent of two months' supply, at such price, and in such quantities, as the Political Agent shall adjudge: provided that the price of the poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs so adjudged shall in no case exceed the rate at which poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs can be procured under a license obtained under rule 11: provided also that, if such poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs be declared by the Civil Surgeon or other Principal Medical Officer to be unfit for use, the Political Agent shall cause the same to be destroyed.

DISPOSAL OF THINGS CONFISCATED.

23. Opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs confiscated under the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, shall be examined by the Civil Surgeon or other Principal Medical Officer, and, if declared by him to be fit for use, shall be sent to the nearest Government treasury, and be disposed of as the Political Agent may direct. If declared to be unfit for use, the opium or intoxicating drugs shall be immediately destroyed.

24. All property, other than opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs, which is confiscated under the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, shall be sold under the orders of the Magistrate or other officer by whom the confiscation was adjudged.

REWARDS.

25. (1) Any Magistrate convicting an offender under section 9, or any Magistrate or other authorised officer ordering the confiscation of opium or intoxicating drugs under section 12 of the Opium Act, 1878, as applied to the Agency territories, may grant a reward not exceeding the value of the opium or intoxicating drugs confiscated, together with the amount of any fine realised, in such proportions as he may think fit, to any person or persons who have contributed to the seizure of the opium or the conviction of the offender.

(2) In cases in which a conviction has not been procured, but in which the grant of a reward is expedient, the Revenue Commissioner may, for special reasons, grant such reward, not exceeding fifty rupees, as he deems fit.

The 24th January, 1898.

No. 393-C.—In exercise of the powers conferred on the Local Government by sections 12 and 39 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, as applied, by section 4 of the Baluchistan Agency Criminal Justice Law, 1896, to the territories administered by the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan as such Agent, the Agent to the Governor-General is pleased to appoint Mr. Ardeshir Dossabhoy Marker to be a special Magistrate of the 3rd class within the limits of the Quetta Municipality.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BALUCHISTAN.

NOTIFICATION.

Camp Sibi, the 22nd January, 1898.

No. 379-C.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 5 and 13 of the Opium Act, 1878 (1 of 1878), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Chief Commissioner of British Baluchistan is pleased to make the following rules in supersession of those published with his Notification No. 1623-A., dated the 19th April, 1890 :—

DEFINITIONS.

1. In these rules, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

- (1) "Revenue Commissioner" means the Revenue Commissioner in Baluchistan ;
- (2) "Deputy Commissioner" includes an officer authorised by the Deputy Commissioner to exercise all or any of the powers or to perform all or any of the duties conferred or imposed on a Deputy Commissioner by these rules ;
- (3) "licensed contractor" means a person who has obtained a contract from the Deputy Commissioner under rule 18 ;
- (4) "opium" means the inspissated juice of the poppy ;
- (5) "intoxicating drug" means any intoxicating or narcotic preparation of opium or of the poppy, including madak and chandu and every preparation or admixture thereof, but excluding poppy-heads.
- (6) "poppy-heads" means the dry capsules of the poppy plant ;
- (7) "tola" means a weight of 180 grains troy ;

(8) "seer" means a weight of 80 tolas : and

(9) opium or an intoxicating drug, other than a preparation or admixture of opium used for smoking, when sold in any quantity not exceeding three tolas in weight, and poppy-heads, when sold in any quantity not exceeding one seer in weight, shall be deemed to be sold by "retail," and, when sold in any larger quantity, shall be deemed to be sold "wholesale."

MANUFACTURE.

2. (1) Preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking may be manufactured by any person for his own domestic use, but not for sale, in a quantity not exceeding one tola in weight, from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

(2) Intoxicating drugs, not being preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, may be manufactured—

(a) on account of the Government ;

(b) by a licensed contractor for sale by retail or wholesale in accordance with these rules and the conditions of his license ;

(c) by a licensed medical practitioner or druggist for medicinal purposes in a quantity not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight : provided that such manufacture is from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession ;

(d) by any person for his own domestic use in a quantity not exceeding three tolas in weight : provided that such manufacture is from opium of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

POSSESSION.

3. Any person may possess—

(a) preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking to the extent of one tola : provided that such preparations or admixtures have been manufactured by the possessor for private consumption and not for sale under the conditions of rule 2 (1) ;

(b) opium or intoxicating drugs, not being preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, to the extent of three tolas, and poppy-heads to the extent of one seer : provided that the said articles have been bought by retail from a licensed contractor or (for medicinal purposes) from a licensed medical practitioner or druggist, or have been manufactured from opium so bought.

4. (1) The possession of more than one seer of poppy-heads and three tolas of opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor or by his agent, is permitted.

(2) (a) A medical practitioner or druggist may possess, under a license granted by the Deputy Commissioner, poppy-heads not exceeding five seers in weight, opium not exceeding one seer in weight, and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight, or such larger quantities of all or any of these articles as the Revenue Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

(b) If the holder of such a license as aforesaid violates any of the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, or of the rules thereunder, or any condition entered in his license, such license may be cancelled : provided that a license so cancelled may, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, be renewed on payment of such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Deputy Commissioner may fix.

(c) If the license is cancelled for any of the causes aforesaid, the holder shall have no claim to any compensation whatever, or to remission of any sum due from him to the Government.

(d) Every medical practitioner or druggist, to whom a license is granted under clause 2 (a) of this rule, shall pay for his license such fee as may from time to time be fixed with the sanction of the Revenue Commissioner, or a fee regulated in such manner and in accordance with such rules as the Revenue Commissioner may prescribe ; and the fee shall be specified in the license and shall be payable in such instalments, and at such times and places, as the Revenue Commissioner may direct.

5. With the sanction of the Revenue Commissioner, the Deputy Commissioner may specially authorise the possession by any person of a quantity of opium not exceeding one seer in weight, and of intoxicating drugs, other than preparations and admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight.

TRANSPORT.

6. The transport of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor within the limits of the area for which his contract is granted, is permitted. The transport of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, by a licensed contractor beyond those limits is permitted under a pass granted by the Deputy Commissioner.

7. (1) When a licensed contractor desires to transport poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, beyond the limits of the area for which his contract is granted, he shall obtain for each consignment a pass from the Deputy Commissioner in such form as the Revenue Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

(2) The pass shall specify :—

- (a) the time within which the transport is to be effected ;
- (b) the place from which the consignment is to be transported ;
- (c) the name of the person in charge of the consignment ;
- (d) the name of the consignor ;
- (e) the name of the consignee ;
- (f) the number of packages, and the weight and contents of each ; and
- (g) the place to which the consignment is to be transported, and the route to be followed.

(3) Each package in every such consignment shall be stamped by, or in the presence of, the officer granting the pass, with the official seal of such officer.

(4) Such pass shall be granted only on production, by the licensed contractor applying for it, of a written permission to apply for such pass from the Deputy Commissioner of the district to which the opium, intoxicating drugs or poppy-heads is, or are, to be transported.

8. The bulk of a consignment shall not be broken during transport.

9. The Deputy Commissioner may, at his discretion or under orders from the Revenue Commissioner, make it a condition of the pass that the bulk of the consignment for which it is granted, shall not be broken after arrival at its destination as specified in the pass until after the consignment has been examined by an officer deputed or authorised by the Deputy Commissioner for that purpose : provided that such examination shall be made within seven days from the date on which the Deputy Commissioner is informed of the arrival of the consignment.

10. If any officer competent to exercise the powers of seizure, detention and search conferred by sections 14 and 15 of the Opium Act, 1878, finds that the packages are fewer, or the amount of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, less (by more than the dryage allowance of one-quarter per cent.) than the number or amount specified in the pass, he shall immediately report the circumstances to the Deputy Commissioner.

IMPORT AND EXPORT.

11. (1) The importation by a licensed contractor of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, brought from British India by rail through territories administered by the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan, is permitted, subject to the following conditions :—

(a) The importer shall obtain from the Deputy Commissioner a license specifying—

- (i) the quantity of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs required ;
- (ii) the source of supply ; and
- (iii) the name of the licensed contractor or his agent.

(b) The poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be covered by a pass granted by a duly authorised officer of the place from which they are imported.

(2) The Government may import and export poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, on its own account.

(3) A licensed medical practitioner or druggist may, with the special permission of the Deputy Commissioner and subject to the conditions specified in clause (1) of this rule, import opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs, not being preparations used for smoking, which he cannot obtain locally, to the extent of the quantities of the said articles of which he is permitted by these rules to be in possession.

12. The bulk of a consignment shall not be broken during importation.

13. The Deputy Commissioner may, at his discretion or under orders from the Revenue Commissioner, make it a condition of the license that the bulk of the consignment for which a pass is granted, shall not be broken after arrival at its destination as specified in the pass, until after the consignment has been examined by an officer deputed or authorised by the Deputy Commissioner for that purpose : provided that such examination shall be made within seven days from the date on which the Deputy Commissioner is informed of the arrival of the consignment.

14. If any officer competent to exercise the powers of seizure, detention and search conferred by sections 14 and 15 of the Opium Act, 1878, finds that the packages are fewer or the amount of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs less (by more than the dryage allowance of one-quarter per cent.) than the number or amount specified in the pass, he shall immediately report the circumstances to the Deputy Commissioner.

IMPORT AND EXPORT WITHIN THE LOCAL LIMITS OF THE CONTRACTS OF LICENSED CONTRACTORS.

15. When the local area to which the contract of a licensed contractor extends, is partly in British Baluchistan and partly in the territories administered by the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan as such Agent, the licensed contractor may import and export poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, from one part of such local area to another, and in every such case rules 7 to 10, both inclusive, shall apply.

SALE.

16. (1) The sale of poppy-heads, opium and intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, is permitted, subject to the following conditions :—

- (a) The poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs must have been either imported under a license obtained under rule 11 or bought from a licensed contractor.

- (b) If the sale is by wholesale, it shall, unless it is made by one licensed contractor to another, be made under the special order of the Deputy Commissioner: provided that a licensed contractor or a licensed medical practitioner or druggist may sell to a licensed medical practitioner or druggist at one time any quantity of poppy-heads not exceeding five seers in weight, or of opium not exceeding one seer in weight, or of intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, not exceeding sixteen tolas in weight.
- (c) If the sale is by retail, it shall be made by a licensed contractor or his agent at a shop authorised for that purpose by the Deputy Commissioner.
- (2) Subject to the conditions of his license granted under rule 4 (2), a medical practitioner or druggist may sell by retail poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures of opium used for smoking, for medicinal purposes.
17. Any shop at which the sale of poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs has been authorised, may be closed or removed at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner.
18. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, other than preparations or admixtures used for smoking, may be granted by the Deputy Commissioner with the previous sanction of the Revenue Commissioner. Such contracts shall, unless the Revenue Commissioner otherwise specifically directs, be put up to auction before the commencement of each official year.
19. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Revenue Commissioner.
20. Contracts for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs shall be granted for one year only, unless the Revenue Commissioner otherwise specifically directs.
21. (1) In the event of non fulfilment of the terms of a contract for the exclusive right to sell poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs, granted under rules 18, 19 and 20, or of any breach by the contractor or his agent of any of the provisions of the Opium Act, 1878, or of these rules, such contract may be cancelled: provided that a contract so cancelled may, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, be renewed on payment of such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Deputy Commissioner may fix.
- (2) If a contract is cancelled for any of the causes aforesaid, the contractor shall have no claim to any compensation whatever, or to remission of any sum due from him to the Government.
- (3) The Deputy Commissioner may cancel a contract on any other public ground on making such compensation or remission as he may consider reasonable.
22. If any licensed contractor, on the expiry of his contract, has in his possession any poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs which he is unable to dispose of to the satisfaction of the Deputy Commissioner by private sale to other licensed contractors, he shall surrender the same to the Deputy Commissioner; and the in-coming licensed contractor, or, if the expired contract is not renewed, any licensed contractor within the district, shall, when required by the Deputy Commissioner, be bound to purchase the poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs aforesaid to the extent of two months' supply, at such price, and in such quantities, as the Deputy Commissioner shall adjudge: provided that the price of the poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs so adjudged shall in no case exceed the rate at which poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs can be procured under a license obtained under rule 11: provided also that, if such poppy-heads, opium or intoxicating drugs be declared by the Civil Surgeon or other Principal Medical Officer to be unfit for use, the Deputy Commissioner shall cause the same to be destroyed.

DISPOSAL OF THINGS CONFISCATED.

23. Opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs confiscated under the Opium Act, 1878, shall be examined by the Civil Surgeon or other Principal Medical Officer, and, if declared by him to be fit for use, shall be sent to the nearest Government treasury, and be disposed of as the Deputy Commissioner may direct. If, declared to be unfit for use, the opium or intoxicating drugs shall be immediately destroyed.
24. All property, other than opium, poppy-heads or intoxicating drugs, which is confiscated under the Opium Act, 1878, shall be sold under the orders of the Magistrate or other officer by whom the confiscation was adjudged.

REWARDS.

25. (1) Any Magistrate convicting an offender under section 9, or any Magistrate or other authorised officer ordering the confiscation of opium or intoxicating drugs under section 12 of the Opium Act, 1878, may grant a reward not exceeding the value of the opium or intoxicating drugs confiscated, together with the amount of any fine realised, in such proportions as he may think fit, to any person or persons who have contributed to the seizure of the opium or the conviction of the offender.
- (2) In cases in which a conviction has not been procured, but in which the grant of a reward is expedient, the Revenue Commissioner may, for special reasons, grant such reward, not exceeding fifty rupees, as he deems fit.

Return of the number of persons in receipt of relief in districts affected by scarcity.

NOTE.—The figures are compiled from the Local Gazettes, and give the District details of the Provincial totals published weekly in the Crop and Weather Summary in the Gazette of India.
Non-labouring children and other dependants of relief workers are classed as on relief works when distinguished in the local returns from persons gratuitously placed in poor-houses or at their homes.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 15th, 1898.

During the week under review the barometer has been almost uninterruptedly high over Northern and Central India and low in the South. Pressure has, however, been unsteady and has changed considerably from day to day, but on most days of the week there has been an excess of pressure over Northern India and a deficiency in the South so that the pressure differences have been larger than usual. Within the area of deficient pressure in the South the weather has been slightly unsettled and on different days showers have been received over Ceylon and the extreme south of the Peninsula. In addition light rain fell over Lower Burma on the 9th and Upper Burma on the 10th, but except for this rainfall in Burma and the extreme South the weather was rainless throughout India. One of the most marked features in the weather of the week has been the large temperature variations reported. Throughout the whole week the mean temperature has been in considerable to large defect of the normal over the central parts of India, the Gangetic Plain and Bengal, while over North-West India and the South of the Peninsula throughout the week and in Burma during most of the week the heat has been more or less excessive. The following variations of the mean temperature from the normal on January 10th explain the distribution of temperature relatively to the normal average:—Quetta  $+13^{\circ}\frac{1}{2}$ ; Jubbulpore, Chanda and Cuttack  $-7^{\circ}\frac{1}{2}$ ; Thayetmyo  $+10^{\circ}0$  and Trichinopoly  $+2^{\circ}9$ .

Daily Summary.—Sunday, January 9th.—The barometer had risen almost everywhere. The rise had been brisk to very rapid over Northern India. Pressure was high in the north-west and centre and low in the extreme south and was above the normal average everywhere. The winds were between north-west and north-east around the Bay and easterly over the centre and west of the Peninsula while elsewhere the directions were more or less variable and calms were numerous. The mean temperature was generally higher than usual over North-Western India, over Burma and over the south of the Peninsula and lower than usual elsewhere. Showers of rain had been received over parts of Lower Burma and at Trincomalee.

Monday, January 10th.—The barometer had fallen slightly in the extreme south and extreme north-west, but elsewhere the increase of pressure had continued. The increase had been greatest over Assam and Upper Burma and the barometer read as high in that locality as over North-Western and Central India. Pressure remained lowest in the extreme south and the pressure differences over India were very large. The winds were more northerly in Bengal and the Central Provinces than on the preceding day, but otherwise the directions were little changed. The distribution of the mean temperature relatively to the normal was unchanged. Showers were reported from Upper Burma, but elsewhere the weather had been rainless.

Tuesday, January 11th.—The barometer had fallen in nearly all parts of the country. The change had been brisk over Lower Burma, Bengal and part of the North-Western Provinces and over the extreme south of the Peninsula. The general conditions of pressure were unchanged and the pressure differences were unusually large. The winds had shifted to east over the Central Provinces, but in other parts of the country the directions were generally similar to those reported on the 10th. The excess of heat was more marked over the south of the Peninsula and less marked over Burma than on the preceding day, but in other respects the temperature conditions were unaltered. Light showers were reported from Trincomalee, Wellington and Thayetmyo.

Wednesday, January 12th.—The barometer had continued to fall, the decrease having been brisk over Central and North-Western India. The pressure difference between Northern and Southern India had hence decreased, but the general pressure conditions were unchanged. Variable winds and calms were reported from the north-west and centre and northerly to easterly winds in most other places. Temperature had fallen over Burma and the excess recently noticed there had disappeared, but otherwise the temperature conditions were little changed. Trincomalee and Tinnevelley reported showers, but elsewhere the weather had been rainless.

Thursday, January 13th.—Pressure had decreased almost everywhere. The fall had been generally slight. Pressure was high and fairly uniform over Northern and Central India and low over the south-east of the Arabian Sea and the south of the Bay. The pressure differences were considerable over the Bay and the Peninsula and were large over the Bombay Coast districts. The winds varied between north-west and north-east around the coasts of the Bay, while easterly to northerly winds prevailed over the centre and west of the Peninsula and variable winds and calms elsewhere. The mean temperature was excessive over North-West India and over the west and south of the Peninsula and was below the normal elsewhere. The weather had been rainless over India.

Friday, January 14th.—The pressure changes had been generally slight, but along the foot of the Himalayas there had been a brisk fall. A shallow low pressure area had appeared over the north of the North-West Provinces and North Bihar, but with this exception the pressure conditions were little changed. A westerly wind had appeared down the Gangetic Plain, but elsewhere the wind directions were generally unaltered. The temperature conditions relatively to the normal were unaltered. Light rain had been received over Ceylon and the extreme south of the Peninsula.

Saturday, January 15th.—The pressure changes had been slight and unimportant, and there had been no important change in the general distribution. The winds were westerly down the Gangetic Plain and northerly to easterly in most other places with calms over the central parts of the country and North-West India. The general temperature conditions were the same as on the preceding day. Light showers had again fallen over the extreme south, but elsewhere the weather remained rainless.

Temperature.—The temperature conditions of the week have been marked by very large variations from the normal. At the commencement of the week the heat was excessive over North-West India, over the south of the Peninsula and over Burma and in defect all over the central parts of the country. These conditions lasted until the 12th, when a sudden fall occurred over Burma and the area of deficient temperature extended eastward and included Burma and Assam. This distribution lasted till the close of the week.

PROVINCE.	JANUARY 1898.							Mean variation of week.
	9th.	10th.	11th.	12th.	13th.	14th.	15th.
	o	o	o	o	o	o	o	o
Burma . . . . .	+4.5	+3.5	+2.2	—0.3	—1.2	—1.4	—1.1	+0.9
Bengal and Assam . . . .	—4.3	—3.8	—2.1	—1.9	—2.6	—2.8	—2.3	—2.8

Punjab . . . . .	—0.8	+0.4	+0.2	+1.0	+0.8	+2.6	+3.7	+1.1
Bombay . . . . .	—1.1	—0.5	—0.2	+0.2	+0.3	+1.3	+1.9	+0.3
Central Provinces and Berar . . . . .	—4.7	—5.5	—5.3	—5.1	—4.2	—2.0	—1.0	—4.0
Central India and Gujarat . . . . .	—1.8	—0.8	+0.1	—0.8	—0.4	+1.6	+1.1	—0.1
Sind and Rajputana . . . .	+1.8	+2.4	+2.3	+2.2	+3.2	+3.3	+3.1	+2.6
Madras . . . . .	+0.2	—0.3	+0.4	+0.4	+1.8	+1.8	+0.3	+0.7
Mean for whole of India . . . . .	—1.1	—0.8	—0.4	—0.6	—0.3	+0.6	+0.9	—0.2

The mean temperature of the whole country was about normal for the week. It was slightly below the normal from the 9th to the 13th and slightly above the normal on the 14th and 15th. The variations for the whole country were thus very small, but the provincial departures from the normal were much larger. Thus there was a deficiency of  $4^{\circ}0$  in the Central Provinces, and of  $2^{\circ}8$  in Bengal, an excess of  $2^{\circ}6$  in Sind and Rajputana and of  $1^{\circ}1$  in the Punjab.

Rain.—The preceding portions of the summary have shown that the weather over India has continued practically rainless. Last week six divisions reported some light rain and this week the number is seven. These seven divisions are deltaic, Central and Upper Burma, Malabar, South-Central and South Madras and the south of the East Coast. In the case of Upper Burma and of South-Central Madras, the average actual rainfall for the week has been less than  $0.10''$ , while the average amounts in the remaining five divisions are as follows:—Deltaic Burma  $0.19''$ ; Central Burma  $0.15''$ ; Malabar  $0.44''$ ; the East Coast (south)  $0.11''$  and South Madras  $0.71''$ . In all the seven divisions in which rain was received, the actual average amount slightly exceeded the normal average amount, the excess being as much as half an inch in the extreme south of the Peninsula.

The three concluding columns of the table show that for the two weeks, January 2nd to January 15th, the weather has been very dry over the greater part of the country, though in the few divisions which have received rain, the small normal fall has in a few cases been exceeded.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 22nd January.—There was no rain during the week, except light showers in parts of Madura and Tinnevely. The water-supply for irrigation is generally insufficient in rainfed areas, except in Malabar and in parts of the Northern Circars and the Deccan. More rain is required everywhere. Agricultural operations continue but are retarded by the want of rain. Crops in rainfed areas, except in the extreme north and in parts of the Deccan, are suffering for want of rain. The harvest is in progress; the outturn of crops in the north is middling or slightly better; elsewhere it is middling or worse. Pasture is generally sufficient, but is failing in parts of the Deccan and the Carnatic; fodder is generally available. The condition of cattle is normal. Prices are very high; they are slightly easier in the Circars and the Deccan; steady on the West Coast; and have risen slightly elsewhere. Most staple grains are dearer than or are touching scarcity rates in Ganjam, Godavari, Kistna, Kurnool, Anantapur, Cuddapah, Nellore, North Arcot and Salem. There is no improvement in prospects. The numbers on relief were—Nellore—test workers—men 1,617, women 2,979, children 1,886, total 6,482. Fed in kitchens—dependants—men 4, children 231. Others—men 10, women 13, total 258. Grand total on relief 6,740. The figures are incomplete.

Bombay.—For week ending 24th January.—Slight rain fell in parts of Sind. The standing crops have been damaged by blight, excessive cold, drought, or locusts in parts of eleven districts. Cotton is diseased in parts of Bijapur. The harvesting of early crops continues in four, and of late crops in two, districts. Preparations for the next season are progressing in six districts. Fodder is sufficient. Agricultural stock is healthy. Prices have risen in Bijapur; fallen in eleven other districts; and are stationary elsewhere. Prices in affected districts were—Bijapur 16½, and Sholapur 11½ seers per rupee. The average number on relief works, including dependants, was—Bijapur 890, Sholapur 9,128, total 10,018; of whom 9,369 are relief workers and 649 dependants. Of relief workers—3,207 are men, 4,252 women, and 1,910 children. Of dependants—24 are men, 57 women, and 563 children. On gratuitous relief—Sholapur 2,122, of whom 695 are men, 1,026 women, and 401 children.

Bengal.—For week ending 24th January.—No rain fell during the week. The reports of the spring crops continue generally favourable, but rain is now required in parts of Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and also in Nadia. The poppy crop is flourishing except the late-sown plants in Monghyr, which are stunted. The harvesting of winter rice is practically over, and threshing is now going on. The gathering of pulses, mustard and other early spring crops, and the pressing of sugarcane are in progress. The price of rice is the same as in the previous week. There is no want of fodder or water for cattle, except in the flooded tracts of Chittagong and at Kurigram in Rangpur.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 26th January.—Slight rain fell during the week in Naini Tal and Garhwal, and cloudy weather is reported in some of the western districts. The irrigated crops are doing well but rain is urgently needed generally. Frost has done slight damage in places. The poppy crop is generally thriving, though caterpillars have made their appearance in Lucknow and Cawnpore. Locusts passed over the Fatehpur district without doing any harm. Markets are well supplied and prices are easier in many districts; in three districts they have an upward tendency.

Punjab.—For week ending 24th January.—Rain averaging from  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch has fallen in Hissar, Amritsar, and Rawalpindi; slight falls are also reported from Umballa, Jullundur, Lahore, and Shahpur. Sugarcane is still being pressed in some districts. The irrigation of spring crops is going on. The condition and prospects of irrigated spring crops are generally reported good; but are average in Peshawar. The crops on dry land are suffering from want of rain which is urgently needed. The condition of crops has been improved by the recent rain in Jullundur. Locusts appeared in parts of Shahpur and Rawalpindi but did no damage. Cattle are said to be in poor condition in Sialkot and in parts of Dera Ismail Khan. Fodder is scarce in Sialkot and in parts of Amritsar and Dera Ismail Khan and is sufficient elsewhere. Prices are generally unchanged; they are rising in Jullundur, Ferozepur, Sialkot, and Rawalpindi; and are falling in Peshawar. Wheat is selling from  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to 14, gram 11 to  $12\frac{1}{2}$ , barley 15, bulrush millet 16 to 22, maize 17 to  $20\frac{1}{2}$ , great millet 18, and rice 9 to  $10\frac{1}{2}$  seers per rupee.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 24th January.—The weather is clear and cold. The condition of the winter crops is generally fair to good; those late sown and on high lands are scanty for want of winter showers; they are suffering most in the Hoshangabad district on this account. Some damage is also reported by frost and excessive cold to pulse in Damoh, Hoshangabad, and Betul; to sugarcane by blight in Betul; and to wheat and linseed in Mandla, Nimar and Bhandara. Prices of juar and rice are easy with a downward tendency. The numbers on relief are confined to 770 in poor-houses and orphanages, of whom 462 are orphan children awaiting disposal, and the rest sick persons, chiefly lepers, the remnants of prior relief. They are thus distributed—Bandara 142, Balaghat 143, Raipur 230, and Bilaspur 255. Total 770.

Burma.—For week ending 22nd January.—In Lower Burma reaping and threshing continue. In Upper Burma reaping of the wet weather paddy is nearly completed. Cultivation of dry weather paddy and of island and miscellaneous crops is progressing favourably. The price of paddy has risen slightly in Amherst and Thayetmyo; fallen largely in the Upper Chindwin; considerably in Thaton and Pakokku; and slightly in Prome and Mandalay; elsewhere it is stationary.

Assam.—For week ending 25th January.—The weather is seasonable. Harvesting of late rice still continues at Darrang and the outturn is generally good. Land is being prepared for early rice in Goalpara and Kamrup. The gathering of pulses, pressing of sugarcane, and pruning of tea continue. The mustard crop is being gathered. Prospects of mustard and pulses are fair. Prices of common rice—Sylhet  $12\frac{1}{2}$ , Dhubri and Sibsagar 12, Silchar and Gauhati 11, Darrang and Lakhimpur 10 and Nowgong 9 seers per rupee. Fodder is scarce in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills and in parts of Cachar and Darrang.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 24th January.—MYSORE:—Prospects are favourable. The standing crops are in fair condition. Prices have fallen in Bangalore, Tumkur, Mysore and Kadur, and have risen in Kolar.

COORG:—The rice harvest and coffee-picking continue. Prices of food grains are stationary. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 24th January.—BERAR: The weather is cool. Cotton picking and threshing of jowari (Sorghum vulgare) are in progress. The winter crops are reported to be in poor condition in Akola only. The fodder and water-supply are ample. Prices are almost stationary. Prices jowari—Akola 21, Amraoti 21, Basim 20, Buldana 21—Ellichpur 21, Wun 23 seers per rupee.

HYDERABAD: There was no rain during the week. The winter rice sowings continue. The standing spring crops have suffered in some places from cold. Prices of grain are generally stationary ; but have risen in parts. Prices—wheat 5, coarse rice 6½, and jowari 11½ seers per current sicca rupee.

Rajputana.—For week ending 26th January.—Standing crops and prospects continue good. Crops are dying for want of rain in Suket in Jhalla-war. Agricultural stock is in fair condition in Bikanir; good elsewhere. Pasturage or fodder is sufficient. Prices are falling in four States and are steady elsewhere. Sirohi and Meywar reports not received.

Central India.—For week ending 24th January.—No rain fell in Central India during the week. Rain is wanted in the Bhopawar and Bundelkhand agencies. Agricultural operations are in progress in all agencies. The condition of the standing crop is good. Condition of agricultural stock is good except in Bhopawar. Pasturage is good and sufficient everywhere. Prices are falling in Bhopawar, Bundelkhand and two districts of Gwalior; and are steady elsewhere. The opium crops are good in Bhopal and Malwa.

Kashmir.—For week ending 25th January.—Snow has fallen. The weather is now fine. Prices continue a little below normal.

Jammu Province.—For week ending 15th January.—There was slight rain during the week. Prices are stationary.

the States mentioned in the margin have ceded to the British Government full jurisdiction, or all the jurisdiction they had, within the lands which lie within their respective territories and are, or may be hereafter, occupied by the Kathiawar extensions of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway, and by the Western Rajputana State Railway (including the lands occupied by stations, by out-buildings, and for other railway purposes);

In exercise of this jurisdiction and of the powers conferred by sections 4 and 5 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879 (XXI of 1879), and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, the Governor General in Council is pleased to apply the provisions, so far as they may be suitable, of the Police Act, 1861 (V of 1861), to the aforesaid lands.

3. The Notification of the Government of India in the Foreign Department, No. 26-I. J., dated the 20th January, 1881, is hereby cancelled.

No. 332-I-B.—Whereas His Highness the Gaekwar of Baroda has ceded to the British Government full jurisdiction within the lands which lie within the Baroda State and are, or may be hereafter, occupied by the Godhra Branch of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway (including the lands occupied by stations, by out-buildings, and for other railway purposes);

And whereas the Governor General in Council has full jurisdiction within the lands occupied, as aforesaid, within the Pandu Mewas;

In exercise of this jurisdiction and of the powers conferred by sections 4 and 5 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879 (XXI of 1879), and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, the Governor General in Council is pleased to provide as follows for the administration of justice within the said lands :—

- I. All laws for the time being in force in the Panch Mahals District of the Presidency of Bombay shall be in force in the said lands.
- II. The Governor of Bombay in Council and all officers subordinate to the Government of Bombay, for the time being exercising executive authority (other than in connection with the administration of the Police) in the Panch Mahals District, shall exercise the like authority within the said lands.
- III. All Courts having for the time being jurisdiction within the Panch Mahals District shall have the like jurisdiction within the said lands.
- IV. The administration of the Police within the said lands shall be vested in the Superintendent of Police, Bombay, Baroda and Central India and Rajputana-Malwa Railways, who shall exercise within the said lands the same police powers as he may for the time being exercise on the portion of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway which lies within the Panch Mahals District, in subordination to the authorities to whom he may be, for the time being, subordinate when exercising those powers on that portion of that railway.
- V. The said lands shall be deemed to be included for the purposes of clauses 2 and 3 of this Notification within such taluka or other sub-division of the Panch Mahals District as the Governor of Bombay in Council shall from time to time, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette, direct.

GEORGE WATT,

Reporter on Economic Products to the Government of India.
CALCUTTA,
The 6th September, 1897.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depot, and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January, 1889, the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows for current issues, as well as for back numbers of the Reports from 1876:—

Bengal Secretariat Book Depot, Writers' Buildings, Calcutta. Remittances to be forwarded to the Accountant and Treasurer, Bengal Secretariat, Writers' Buildings, Calcutta.

All the wanting parts of the INDIAN LAW REPORTS (complete series) having now been reprinted, the complete Reports from 1876 to 1893 may be purchased for all the years, or for any particular year, on application to the Officer in charge of the Bengal Secretariat Book Depot.

The subscription, Rs 2-8 per annum, should be remitted in advance to the Accountant and Treasurer, Bengal Secretariat.

NOTICE.

It is hereby notified, for general information, that subscription to the complete series of the Indian Law Reports should be registered during the first three months of each calendar year. Subscribers are therefore requested to send in their subscriptions of the complete series before the 31st March in each year. Those who register their names after that date will understand that copies will be supplied only if available.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

By Dr. Geo. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III, & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 2, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source, history, properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L; and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of Q; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts I to IV of Vol. VI), but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The index is practically a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Index to Do. do. 8vo. Rs 2 (4s.)

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ACT NO. III OF 1898.

An Act to provide for the segregation and medical treatment of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the segregation and medical treatment of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Lepers Title, extent and Act, 1898. commencement.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, inclusive of Upper Burma, British Baluchistan, the Santal Parganas and the Pargana of Spiti; but

(3) It shall not come into force in any part thereof until the Local Government, as herein-after provided, has declared it applicable thereto.

(4) The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply this Act or any part thereof to the whole or any portion of the territories for the time being under its administration, and may in like manner amend or cancel any such notification.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

Definitions.

(1) "leper" means any person suffering from any variety of leprosy in whom the process of ulceration has commenced;

(2) "pauper leper" means a leper—

(a) who publicly solicits alms or exposes or exhibits any sores, wounds, bodily ailment or deformity with the object of exciting charity or of obtaining alms, or

(b) who is at large without any ostensible means of subsistence;

(3) "leper asylum" means a leper asylum appointed under section 3;

(4) "Board" means a Board constituted under section 5; and

(5) "District Magistrate" includes a Chief Presidency Magistrate.

3. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint any place to be a leper asylum for the purposes of this Act and specify the local areas from which lepers may be sent to such asylum, and may, in like manner, alter or cancel any such notification.

4. Subject to any rules which may be made under section 16, the Local Government may appoint any Medical Officer of the Government or other qualified Medical man to be an Inspector of Lepers and any person to be a Superintendent of a Leper Asylum, with such establishment as may, in its opinion, be necessary, and every Inspector or Superintendent so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant.

5. The Local Government shall constitute for every leper asylum appointed under section 3 a Board consisting of not less than three members, one of whom at least shall be a Medical Officer of the Government.

6. (1) Within any local area which has been specified under section 3, any police-officer may arrest without a warrant any person who appears to him to be a pauper leper.

(2) Such police-officer shall forthwith take or send the person so arrested to the nearest convenient police-station.

7. Every person brought to a police-station under the last foregoing section shall, without unnecessary delay, be taken before an Inspector of Lepers, who,—

(a) if he finds that such person is not a leper within the meaning of section 2, shall give him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule, whereupon such person shall be forthwith released from arrest;

(b) if he finds that such person is a leper within the meaning of section 2, shall give to the police-officer, in whose custody the leper is, a certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule, whereupon the leper shall, without unnecessary delay, be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act.

8. (1) If it appears to any Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class or to any other Magistrate authorised in this behalf by the Local Government, upon the certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule, that any person is a leper, and if it further appears to the Magistrate that the person is a pauper leper, he may, after recording the evidence on the above-mentioned points, and his order thereon, send the pauper leper in charge of a police-officer, together with an order in Form C set forth in the schedule, to a leper asylum, where such leper shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board or the District Magistrate :

Provided that, if the person denies the allegation of leprosy, the Magistrate shall call and examine the Inspector of Lepers, and shall take such further evidence as may be necessary to support or to rebut the allegation that the person is a leper, and may for this purpose adjourn the enquiry from time to time, remanding the person for observation or for other reason to such place as may be convenient, or admitting him to bail :

Provided also that if any friend or relative of any person found to be a pauper leper shall undertake in writing to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that such pauper leper shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from publicly begging in any area specified under section 3, the Magistrate, instead of sending the leper to an asylum, may make the leper over to the care of such friend or relative, requiring him, if he thinks fit, to enter into a bond with one or more sureties, to which the provisions of section 514 of the Code of Criminal Procedure shall be applicable.

(2) If the Magistrate finds that such person is not a leper, or that, if a leper, he is not a pauper leper, he shall forthwith discharge him.

9. (1) The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, order that no leper shall, within any area specified under section 3,—

(a) personally prepare for sale or sell any article of food or drink or any drugs or clothing intended for human use; or

(b) bathe, wash clothes or take water from any public well or tank debarred by any municipal or local bye-law from use by lepers; or

(c) drive, conduct or ride in any public carriage plying for hire other than a railway carriage; or

(d) exercise any trade or calling which may by such notification be prohibited to lepers.

(2) Any such notification may comprise all or any of the above prohibitions.

(3) Whoever disobeys any order made pursuant to the powers conferred by this section shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees :

Provided that, when any person is accused of an offence under this section, the Magistrate before whom he is accused shall cause him to be examined by an Inspector of Lepers, and shall not proceed with the case unless such Inspector furnishes a certificate, in Form B set forth in the schedule, in respect of such person.

10. (1) Whenever any leper who has been convicted after previous conviction, of an offence punishable under the last foregoing section is again convicted of any offence punishable under that section, the Magistrate may, in addition to, or in lieu of, any punishment to which such leper may be liable, require him to enter into a bond, with one or more sureties, binding him to depart forthwith from the local area specified under section 3 in which he is, and not to enter that or any other local area so specified until an Inspector of Lepers shall have given him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule.

(2) If any such leper fails to furnish any security required under sub section (1), the Magistrate may send him in charge of a police-officer, with an order in Form D set forth in the schedule, to a leper asylum, where such leper shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board or the District Magistrate.

(3) The powers conferred by this section shall only be exercised by a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class.

11 Any person who, within any area specified under section 3, knowingly employs a leper in any trade or calling prohibited by order under section 9 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees :

Provided that the alleged leper shall be produced before the Magistrate and the Magistrate shall cause him to be examined by an Inspector of Lepers, and shall not proceed with the case unless such Inspector furnishes a certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule in respect of such alleged leper.

12. Whoever, having been sent to a leper asylum under an order of a Magistrate in Form C or Form D set forth in the schedule, escapes from, or leaves, the asylum without the permission in writing of the Superintendent thereof, may be arrested by any police-officer without a warrant, and upon arrest shall be forthwith taken back to the leper asylum.

13. Two or more members of the Board, one of whom shall be the Medical Officer, shall, once at least in every three months together inspect the leper asylum for which they are constituted, and see and examine (a) every leper therein admitted since the last inspection, together with the order for his admission, and (b), as far as circumstances will permit, every other leper therein, and shall enter in a book to be kept for the purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the management and condition of the asylum and the lepers therein.

14. Any two members of the Board, one of whom shall be the Medical Officer, may at any time, by an order in writing in Form E set forth in the schedule and signed by them, direct the discharge from the leper asylum of any leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act.

15. Any person, other than a pauper leper, in respect of whom an Inspector of Lepers has issued a certificate, in Form B set forth in the schedule, declaring him to be a leper, or has refused to issue a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule, may appeal against the issue or refusal of any such certificate to such officer as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, and the decision of such officer shall be final.

16. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and in particular—

- (a) for the guidance of all or any of the officers discharging any duty under this Act; and
- (b) for the management of, and the maintenance of discipline in, a leper asylum.

17. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment with respect to the purposes to which the funds or other property of a local authority may be applied, any local authority may—

- (a) establish or maintain, or establish and maintain, or contribute towards the cost of the establishment or maintenance or the establishment and maintenance of, a leper asylum either within or without the local limits of such local authority;
- (b) with the previous sanction of the Local Government and subject to such conditions as that Government may prescribe, appropriate any immoveable property vested in, or under the control of, such body, as a site for, or for use as, a leper asylum.

18. No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any officer or person in respect of anything in good faith done or intended to be done under, or in pursuance of, the provisions of this Act.

19. When any part of this Act has been applied under sub-section (4) of section 1 to the whole or any portion of the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by notification in the official Gazette, direct that the whole or any part of the Lepers Act, 1895, shall, except as regards anything done or any offence committed or any fine or penalty incurred or any proceedings commenced, cease to have effect in the portion of the said territories to which this Act has been so applied.

PART V.

Bills introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for making Laws and Regulations, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council, and Bills published under Rule 23.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code in relation to Extra-territorial Offences was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th February 1898 :—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code in relation to Extra-territorial Offences was referred, have considered the Bill with the further amendments in the Penal Code given notice of at the meeting of Council held on the 21st December, 1897, and the papers noted in the list appended, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. Clause 2.—We have altered Illustration (b) to this clause by making it apply to a Native State in India. We think it is unsafe to attempt to define the status of tribal territory in an illustration.

3. Clause 4.—We have carefully considered the new clause proposed by the Government, and we have inserted it in the Bill with the following amendments :—

(a) For the expression "the Government" we have substituted the phrase "the Government established by law in British India." This restores the language of the Act of 1870. Having regard to the terms of section 17 of the Indian Penal Code, which defines "Government," the omission of the words "established by law in British India" might be held to give an extended meaning to the term "Government," whereas it ought to have exactly the same meaning as in the Act of 1870.

(b) We have altered the term of imprisonment from ten years to three, thus restoring the law of 1870. The term of ten years is provided as an alternative for transportation in sections 121A and 122; but apparently the framers of the Act of 1870, in section 124A, wished to draw a marked distinction between minor offences and offences of a very serious character where transportation would be the only appropriate punishment.

(c) We have omitted the words "or promotes or attempts to promote feelings of enmity or ill-will between different classes of Her Majesty's subjects," and have framed a new clause to deal with the offence thereby indicated. It appears to us that the offence of stirring up class-hatred differs in many important respects from the offence of sedition against the State. It comes more appropriately in the Chapter relating to offences against the public tranquillity. The offence only affects the Government or the State indirectly, and the essence of the offence is that it predisposes classes of the people to action which may disturb the public tranquillity. The fact that this offence is punishable in England as seditious libel is probably due to historical causes, and has nothing to do with logical arrangement.

(d) We have omitted the words "or ill-will" at the conclusion of explanation 1. The expression "all feelings of ill-will" appears to us to be too wide and vague. It is only when feelings of ill-will amount to disloyalty or enmity that they constitute such disaffection as is contemplated by the clause. A certain amount of ill-will may be compatible with genuine loyalty.

(e) We have added explanation 3 to make it clear that criticism on the action of Government is not confined to cases in which it is sought to bring about an alteration of what has been done. For example, suppose the Government make an appointment which is considered objectionable. That appointment may be criticised, although the criticism may not have in view the cancellation of the appointment. We have made consequential amendments in explanation 2 to make the language of the two explanations uniform.

4. Clause 5.—The object of framing this clause has already been detailed. In framing it we have altered the words "enmity or ill-will" into "enmity or hatred," and we have fixed the maximum punishment at two years' imprisonment.

We recommend that the clause when passed should be included in section 196 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, so that offences under it should only be prosecuted under the authority or with the sanction of the Government.

5. Clause 6.—We have inserted the clause proposed by the Government, but we have altered and enlarged the scope of the exception to the clause. No doubt the statements, rumours and reports referred to are of a highly mischievous character, but, having regard to the conditions under which modern journalism and the discussion of public questions are necessarily carried on, we think that, when the statement, rumour or report is published without any criminal intent, it is going too far to require the person who published it to prove its actual truth. To require such proof might be throwing an impossible burden upon him, and it should be sufficient for him to show that he had reasonable grounds for believing it, as, for instance, by showing that he made due inquiry before he published it.

6. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

LAKSHMISHWAR SINGH.‡

The 31st January, 1

* I sign subject to the objections embodied in my minute of dissent.

† I think the words "tending to the disturbance of public tranquillity" or words to that effect might be advantageously inserted in section 153A.

‡ Note of dissent appended.

So far as I know, there never has been any serious doubt expressed as to the true meaning of section 124A now in the Penal Code. No difficulty could arise except upon the view that the explanation attached to the section cannot be read along with it as virtually defining the term "disaffection." It has thus become urgent to remove the difficulty interposed by that view. This is best met by throwing the substance of the explanation into the form of a definition as follows:—

"Feelings of disaffection mean all feelings incompatible with a disposition to render obedience to the lawful authority of the Government established by law in British India and to support the lawful authority thereof against unlawful attempts to subvert or resist that authority."

This, which has come from the Defence Association, I suggested in the Committee and the majority were against me. By adding to such a definition provisos such as Mr. Stephen has made part of his section 102 in his "Draft Code," the law will, in my judgment, be elucidated far better than by the proposed explanations, which I am for omitting as a necessary consequence.

The proposed words "hatred, contempt and enmity" are, in my opinion, the very worst that could be chosen. Standing by themselves, they are, in the last degree, vague, misleading and obscure. By giving room for no small amount of fanciful speculation, they cannot fail to prove most hurtful to public interests by spreading a sense of uncertainty and virtually stifling all frank discussion of public questions. I would therefore score out, from the clause now proposed, the words "to bring or attempt to bring into hatred or contempt or". I may also point out that the definition I have recommended would be wide enough to cover all forms of real political hatred, which should be penalised. I very much doubt whether what is proposed in the Bill as contained in these objected words is good or sound law at the present day.

I am for eliminating the penalty of transportation from the section. A study of the history of this section shews how it is a mistake in the section and how the Law Commissioners, who sat on the original Draft Penal Code, criticised it in strong terms. The danger of retaining it has been already once exemplified, and may be, any day, exemplified again and again. The danger lies in its being viewed—as it is too sure to be by not a few—as the maximum, permissible in all cases except where extenuating circumstances or other grounds for leniency exist.

I am opposed to the proposed clause 153A as a dangerous piece of legislation and as being impolitic (among other reasons) by necessitating Government to side with, or to appear to side with, one party as against another. In my humble judgment it will only accentuate the evil which it is meant to remove. Far from healing the differences which still linger, or which now and then come to the surface, it would widen the gap by encouraging insidious men to do mischief in stealth, with the sure hope that the Government would come down on such as openly resented. It would have all the repressive effects which the proposed amendments on 124A cannot fail to have, much to the detriment of undoubted rights and useful work.

In clause 505, as proposed to be altered, I would omit the words "or which is likely to cause" from each of (a), (b) and (c) and substitute the words "and thereby to induce any person" for the words "whereby any person may be induced" in (b). Intent being in this, as in 124A, the essence of the offence, the words which I have objected to must of necessity introduce a world of confusion which might be easily illustrated. They are bound to operate prejudicially to public good. It is perhaps necessary to add, with reference to clause 153A and the changes in 505, that, whereas the prior sanction of Government which is prescribed will be something of a guarantee, it will mostly depend on the strength with which the case is urged by the District Officer; for I fear that, in the face of a strong representation by the latter, the Government would, naturally and perhaps not improperly, hesitate to take upon itself the responsibility of withholding sanction. The mischief of these sections lies not so much in the natural results which will follow, as in the unnatural and exaggerated dread they would undesirably inspire in most cases. In such a result the balance of advantage will not be on the side of the public.

P. ANANDA CHARLU.

I sign the report subject to the following observations:—

1. I think that, in accordance with the opinion of the majority of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court, it should be clearly stated in section 124A that the intention to produce the effects mentioned therein is the basis of the offence. A similar alteration should be made in explanation 2, and after the words "by lawful means" the words "or for the purpose merely of showing that they are erroneous but" should be inserted, and after the word "without" the words "the intention of" should be added. As the High Court has pointed out, comments made for such a purpose and without the intention of exciting hatred or disaffection are legitimate and allowable. Criminal intent is the essence of the law of sedition as it prevails in England. It should be made quite clear that in all prosecutions under sections 124A, 153A and 505, the onus shall lie on the prosecution to prove the intention in the mind of the accused at the time, or at all events to adduce such evidence as to enable the Court reasonably to infer the same from his acts. In this as in all other penal cases the accused is entitled to demand that his guilt shall be fully proved against him by the prosecution beyond all reasonable doubt. I submit that this class of prosecutions should not be exceptionally dealt with, but that they should be called upon to discharge the duties which ordinarily belong to all prosecutions in criminal cases, vis., that the burden of proving the offence lies on them.

2. Having regard to the language of explanation 1 and to recent judicial rulings on the meaning of "disaffection" it seems to me that the words "brings or attempts to bring into hatred or contempt or" are superfluous and may lead to unnecessary difficulties. As regards "hatred" I must confess that I am no better able than is Worcester's Dictionary to distinguish between the meaning of that word and "enmity," the term which is employed in explanation 1. As regards "contempt" the idea conveyed by that word seems to be fully covered by the rest of the section, unless indeed it is desired to give so dangerous an extension to the scope of the section as will enable Government to prosecute to a conviction persons responsible for those cartoons, skits or other comic productions with which newspapers and other periodicals not infrequently try to enliven their readers.

3. I think further that the definition of "disaffection" in explanation 1 to section 124A is far too vague, and would recommend the adoption in its place of some such definition as that suggested by the European and Anglo-Indian Defence Association. I quote it here for the sake of convenience:—"Feelings of disaffection means all feelings incompatible with a disposition to render obedience to the lawful authority of the Government established by law in British India and to support the lawful authority thereof against unlawful attempts to subvert or resist that authority."

4. The remarks I have made in paragraph 1 with regard to the importance of making the intention the basis of the offence contemplated by section 124A apply equally to the offence contemplated by the new section 153A. It should be clearly stated in the section that mens rea is an essential ingredient of the offence under section 153A.

5. Both section 153A and section 505 when passed should be included in section 196 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, so that offenders under them should be prosecuted only under the authority and with the sanction of the Local Government.

6. There is one more point with regard to section 124A which has, I think, been overlooked and which to my mind is of great importance. The section as it stands is far too comprehensive. It appears to me that some attempt should be made to restrict the discretion of Judges in inflicting punishment. For instance, under the proposed section it is quite possible to punish a journalist or a public speaker who is only guilty of using indiscreet language calculated at most to give rise to trifling feelings of irritation. Surely such action on the part of the journalist or the public speaker ought not to be considered as a penal offence. I think there should be some differentiation between the punishment allotted for acts like those mentioned above and for intentional acts of sedition.

No. II.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Short title and Penal Code Amendment commencement. Act, 1898; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

2. Section 4 of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed, and the following section is substituted therefor, namely:—

"4. The provisions of this Code apply also to Extension of Code to any offence committed by—extra-territorial offences.

(1) any Native Indian subject of Her Majesty in any place without and beyond British India;

(2) any other British subject within the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India;

(3) any servant of the Queen, whether a British subject or not, within the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India.

Explanation.—In this section the word 'offence' includes every act committed outside British India which, if committed in British India, would be punishable under this Code.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a coolie, who is a Native Indian subject, commits a murder in Uganda. He can be tried and convicted of murder in any place in British India in which he may be found.

(b) B, a European British subject, commits a murder in Kashmir. He can be tried and convicted of murder in any place in British India in which he may be found.

(c) C, a foreigner who is in the service of the Punjab Government, commits a murder in Jhind. He can be tried and convicted of murder at any place in British India in which he may be found.

(d) D, a British subject living in Indore, instigates E to commit a murder in Bombay. D is guilty of abetting murder."

3. After section 108 of the Indian Penal Code the following section shall be added, namely:—

"108A. A person abets an offence within the meaning of this Code who, Abetment in British India of offences outside it in British India, abets the commission of any act without and beyond British India which would constitute an offence if committed in British India.

A, in British India, instigates B, a foreigner in Goa, to commit a murder in Goa. A is guilty of abetting murder."

4. Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed, and the following section is substituted therefor, namely:—

"124A.—Whoever by words, either spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representation, or otherwise, brings or attempts to bring into hatred or contempt, or excites or attempts to excite disaffection towards, Her Majesty or the Government established by law in British

India, shall be punished with transportation for life or any shorter term, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment which may extend to three years, to which fine may be added, or with fine.

Explanation 1.—The expression "disaffection" includes disloyalty and all feelings of enmity.

Explanation 2.—Comments expressing disapprobation of the measures of the Government with a view to obtain their alteration by lawful means, without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection, do not constitute an offence under this section.

Explanation 3.—Comments expressing disapprobation of the administrative or other action of the Government without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection do not constitute an offence under this section."

5. After section 153 of the Indian Penal Code the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"153A. Whoever by words, either spoken Promoting enmity or written, or by signs, between classes. or by visible representations, or otherwise, promotes or attempts to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of Her Majesty's subjects shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both."

6. Section 505 of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed and the following section is substituted therefor, namely:—

"505. Whoever makes, publishes or circulates Statements conducing to public mischief. any statement, rumour or report,—

(a) with intent to cause, or which is likely to cause, any officer, soldier or sailor in the army or navy of Her Majesty or in the Royal Indian Marine or in the Imperial Service Troops to mutiny or otherwise disregard or fail in his duty as such; or

(b) with intent to cause, or which is likely to cause, fear or alarm to the public, or to any section of the public whereby any person may be induced to commit an offence against the State or against the public tranquillity; or

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, January 22nd, 1898.

The charts of the seven days under review exhibit another week of very settled pressure conditions and of very little change of weather. From the first day of the week to the last, pressure was high over North-West and Central India, relatively high over Assam and Upper Burma, and low over the south of the Bay, Ceylon, and the south-east of the Arabian Sea. The pressure difference between these areas of high and low pressure, has varied from day to day, according as the barometer has risen in the north and fallen in the south or fallen in the north and risen in the south, but the main features of the distribution have remained unchanged throughout, and the winds accompanying this distribution have been very steady. Light airs and calms have prevailed over the central districts, westerly winds down the Gangetic Plain, northerly winds over the Bay of Bengal and easterly winds elsewhere. The weather has been practically rainless throughout India. The temperature conditions have shown large variations from the normal. Over North-West India, but more particularly over the western desert, the heat has been largely above the normal, while over the central parts of the country and the north of the Peninsula the mean temperature has been almost equally largely in defect.

Daily Summary.—Sunday, January 16th.—Pressure had increased briskly to rapidly over Baluchistan and had changed slightly over India. In most places the change had been upward. Pressure was highest over North-West and Central India, and lowest in the extreme south. Calms and variable breezes prevailed within the high pressure area in the north-west and centre, westerly winds down the Gangetic Plain, north-westerly to north-easterly winds around the Bay and easterly winds elsewhere. The mean temperature was low over the east and north of the Peninsula, Bengal, Assam, and part of Burma, and was excessive elsewhere. Local showers were reported from Darjeeling, Tinnevely and Trivandrum, but elsewhere the weather was rainless.

Monday, January 17th.—The pressure changes over India were again slight or small, and the general conditions of pressure were generally the same as on the 16th. The barometer read slightly above the normal average over the central parts of the country and slightly below both in the north and south. The winds were the same as on the preceding day. The mean temperature of the preceding 24 hours had exceeded the normal average over North-West India and the west of the Peninsula, and been generally lower than usual elsewhere. The principal positive variations were  $6^{\circ}2$  at Mooltan and  $5^{\circ}3$  at Bombay, the principal negative variations were about  $4^{\circ}$  at Sibsagar, Kindat, Moulmein and Tavoy.

Tuesday, January 18th.—Pressure had increased almost everywhere and over a considerable part of the country briskly. Pressure was highest, and considerably above the normal, over the central parts of the country and was lowest and slightly below the normal over Tenasserim. There was again no important change to record in the wind directions. The mean temperature remained high over North-West India and the west of the Peninsula, and low elsewhere. The excess was as much as  $8^{\circ}7$  at Quetta, the deficiency as much as  $6^{\circ}1$  at Sambalpur. There had been no rain.

Wednesday, January 19th.—The barometer had fallen briskly over Kashmir, risen briskly along the foot of the Himalayas, and changed slightly elsewhere. These changes had not introduced any important alteration in the general distribution of pressure. The winds had, however, changed somewhat. The westerly wind down the Gangetic Plain had died down and been replaced by calms, while northerly to easterly winds had appeared over the Punjab and Sind. The area of excessive temperature over North-West India had spread eastward down the Gangetic Plain to Bengal, but elsewhere the temperature distribution was practically unaltered. Tavoy reported a few drops of rain, but elsewhere the weather was rainless.

Thursday, January 20th.—The barometer had risen over Baluchistan and the extreme north-west of India, but had fallen elsewhere. Pressure was high in the north-west and centre, relatively high over Assam and Burma and low over the south of the Bay. The barometer read higher than usual almost everywhere—more particularly in the north-west. The winds were generally similar to those reported on the 19th. The mean temperature was now lower than usual only in Upper Burma, the east, north and centre of the Peninsula, the Central Provinces, and South-West Bengal, and was excessive elsewhere. The Kashmir stations reported light snow, and Chaman and Tavoy light rain.

Friday, January 21st.—The barometer had fallen everywhere—more in the north than in the south. Pressure remained high in the north-west and centre and low in the south, but the pressure difference was less than on the preceding day. Westerly winds had reappeared down the Gangetic Plain, but elsewhere the winds were unaltered. The mean temperature was low over the Peninsula and the central parts of the country and excessive elsewhere. The excess was as much as  $8^{\circ}8$  at Karachi, the deficiency as much as  $7^{\circ}4$  at Chanda. Light snow had again fallen in Kashmir, but over India the weather was rainless.

Saturday, January 22nd.—The barometer had fallen briskly over the Indus Valley and had changed slightly and irregularly elsewhere. A shallow low pressure area had appeared over North Bihar, and the pressure differences had still further decreased, but these were the only changes in the pressure conditions. Calms were reported from Bengal and the central parts of the country, westerly winds down the Gangetic Plain and northerly to easterly breezes elsewhere. The mean temperature remained lower than usual over the Peninsula and higher than usual elsewhere. The greatest excess was  $9^{\circ}2$  at Bhuj, the greatest defect  $5^{\circ}4$  at Kurnool. Light showers were reported from Quetta and Negapatam.

Temperature.—The general temperature conditions, like the general pressure conditions, have been very steady during the week under review. For the first three days the heat was less than usual over the east and north of the Peninsula, North-East India and Burma, and was excessive over North-West India and the west of the Peninsula. On Wednesday, the 19th, the area of excessive heat in the north-west began to move eastward down the Gangetic Plain and gradually covered North-East India and Burma, so that the area of relatively low temperature was confined, by the close of the week, to the Peninsula and the south of the Central Provinces. In both cases the variations of the mean temperature from the normal were large, the excess on several days ranging between  $7^{\circ}$  and  $10^{\circ}$  and the deficiency between  $4^{\circ}$  and  $6^{\circ}$ .

The mean temperature of the whole country for the whole week was  $1^{\circ}0$  above the normal average, and for each day of the week the heat for the whole country was slightly excessive. The provincial variations exhibit a lower temperature than usual over Madras and the Central Provinces, a normal temperature over Burma, Bengal, and Bombay, and excessive heat elsewhere. The greatest excess was reported from North-West India and amounted to over  $4^{\circ}$  over the Punjab, Sind, and Rajputana. The variations from the normal on the last day of the week were very remarkable in the north-west of India.

Rain.—As mentioned above the weather during the week under review has been practically rainless and the conditions exhibited by the rainfall table at the close are most exceptional. Four divisions only report any rainfall and of these four divisions three, vis., the Assam Hills, the submontane Punjab and the Baluchistan Hills report average actual falls of less than one-tenth of an inch of rain. The fourth division, vis., Madras (South) received an average fall for the week of  $0\cdot34$ ", so that it was only in this single division that effective rain was received during the whole week.

For the three weeks, January 2nd to January 22nd, there are only five divisions in which the total rainfall for that period has exceeded the normal average, vis., deltaic, Central and Upper Burma, Malabar and the south of Madras. In all other divisions the rainfall has been short, and in many divisions rain has been altogether absent.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 29th January.—There were fair showers during the week in Tanjore and light scattered showers in other southern districts; elsewhere there was no rain. The water-supply for irrigation is generally insufficient in rainfed areas, except in Malabar and in parts of the Northern Circars and the Deccan. More rain is required everywhere. Agricultural operations continue but are retarded by want of rain. Crops in rainfed areas, except in the extreme north and in parts of the Deccan, are suffering for want of rain. The harvest continues and the outturn is generally middling. Pasture is generally sufficient, but is failing in parts of the Deccan and the Carnatic. Fodder is generally available but is growing dear. The condition of cattle is normal. Prices are very high; they are slightly easier on the West Coast, in the Deccan and in the Circars except in Ganjam; elsewhere they are fairly steady with a tendency to rise. Most staple grains are above or touching scarcity rates in Ganjam, Godavari, Kistna, Kurnool, Anantapur, Cuddapah, Nellore, North Arcot, and Salem. There is no improvement in prospects. The numbers on relief were—Nellore—testworks—workers—men 1,222, women 2,070, children 1,372, total 4,664. Fed in kitchens—dependants—children 117. Others—men 10, women 12, children 11, total 150. Grand total on relief 4,814.

Bombay.—For week ending 31st January.—Slight rain fell in two districts of Sind. The standing crops are good except in parts of ten districts where they have been damaged by blight, cold, drought, or locusts. Cotton in one taluka of Bijapur and poppy in one of Baroda are diseased. The reaping of the early crops continues in four, and of late crops in three districts. Preparations for next season are progressing in six districts. Fodder is sufficient. Agricultural stock is healthy. Prices have risen in three, and have fallen in eight districts; elsewhere they are stationary. The price of jowari in Sholapur was 12½ seers per rupee. The average number on relief works, including dependants, was—Sholapur 9,195, of whom 8,624 are relief workers and 571 dependants. Of relief workers—3,041 are men, 3,957 women, and 1,626 children. Of dependants—19 are men, 36 women, and 516 children. On gratuitous relief—Sholapur 2,650, of whom 1,045 are men, 1,168 women, and 437 children.

Bengal.—For week ending 31st January.—There was general rain over Bengal Proper and in the north of Bihar during the week. The rain has benefited all standing crops, but slight damage is reported to have been done by hail in parts of Nadia, Champaran, and Darbhanga. In parts of South Bihar and Chota Nagpur, where no rain has fallen, it is required for the spring crops. Poppy is in good condition except the late-sown plants in Monghyr. Sugarcane and the early spring crops are being gathered. There is practically no change in the price of rice since last week. Scarcity of fodder is reported from the flooded tracts of Chittagong and from Kurigram in Rangpur.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 2nd February.—Rain has fallen in the hills and in many of the submontane districts, but more is urgently wanted for the unirrigated crops. Irrigated crops and poppy are doing well. Sowing of sawan (Panicum miliaceum) has commenced in places. Markets are well stocked and prices remain practically stationary.

Punjab.—For week ending 31st January.—Rain averaging from  $\frac{1}{10}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  of an inch has fallen in Ferozepore, Multan, Sialkot, Shahpur, Rawalpindi, and Peshawar. Sugarcane-pressing still continues in some districts. The condition of the irrigated crops is generally good; those on dry land are suffering from want of rain which is badly needed in most districts. The recent rain has benefited the standing crops. The stock of food-grains is sufficient. Locusts appeared in parts of Shahpur but did no damage. The condition of cattle is poor in Sialkot and in parts of Dera Ismail Khan; fair in Delhi; and good elsewhere. Fodder is scarce in Sialkot and in parts of Amritsar and Dera Ismail Khan, but is sufficient elsewhere. Prices have fallen in Jullundur, Ferozepore, Shahpur, and Dera Ismail Khan, and have remained unchanged elsewhere. Wheat is selling from  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to  $14\frac{1}{2}$ , gram  $11\frac{1}{2}$  to 12, barley 15, bulrush millet 16 to 22, great millet 18, maize 17 to  $20\frac{1}{2}$ , and rice 10 to  $10\frac{1}{2}$  seers per rupee.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 31st January.—The weather is clear. The days are becoming somewhat warmer. The condition of the winter crops is generally fair to good, but they have suffered to some extent from want of rain in the Hoshangabad and Bilaspur districts, and some of them, more especially pulses, have been slightly damaged by cold and frost in parts of other districts. The reaping of a few of them has commenced. The price of jowari has fallen in Saugor, Damoh, and Chanda and has risen in Hoshangabad; elsewhere it is stationary. The numbers in receipt of relief are confined to 580 in poor-houses and orphanages, of whom 312 are orphan children awaiting disposal, and the rest sick persons, chiefly lepers, the remnants of prior relief. They are thus distributed—Bhandara 53, Balaghat 99, Raipur 203, and Bilaspur 225. Total 580.

Burma.—For week ending 29th January.—In Lower Burma reaping and threshing are almost completed. In Upper Burma reaping of wet weather paddy has been completed in five districts. The cultivation of dry weather paddy and miscellaneous and island crops is in fair progress. Insects have caused slight damage to wheat, onions, and peas in Mandalay and to wheat and gram in Sagaing. The price of paddy has fallen slightly in Rangoon town, Thongwa, Pakokku, and Mandalay; largely in Toungoo; and has risen slightly in Prome, Thayetmyo, and Shwebo; elsewhere it is stationary.

Assam.—For week ending 1st February.—There was slight rain in all districts during the week. The reaping of winter paddy is finished and the outturn is generally good. Land is being prepared for early rice in Goalpara, Kamrup, and Nowgong. Gathering of pulses and mustard, pressing of sugarcane, and pruning of tea continue. Prices of common rice—Sylhet 13, Gauhati and Sibsagar 12, Dhubri  $11\frac{1}{2}$ , Silchar and Tezpur  $10\frac{1}{2}$ , Nowgong and Dibrugarh 9 seers per rupee. Fodder is scarce in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills and in parts of Cachar, Darrang, and the Naga Hills districts.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 31st January.—MYSORE: Prospects are fair. Prices have risen slightly in Kolar and have fallen in Mysore. Paddy has been sown in parts of Bangalore, Kolar, Tumkur, and Chitaldrug and has been harvested in Mysore and Shimoga.

COORG: The reaping of rice is almost completed. Picking of coffee continues. Prices of food-grains are stationary. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 31st January.—BERAR: The weather is cool. Picking of cotton and threshing of jowar continue. The winter crops are in fair condition. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are fluctuating. Prices—jowar—Akola 21, Amraoti 22, Basim 20, Buldana  $12\frac{1}{2}$ , Ellichpur 22, Wun 25 seers per rupee.

HYDERABAD: There was no rain during the week. Winter rice sowing continues. The standing spring crops have been affected by cold. Prices of grain are rising. Prices—wheat 5, coarse rice  $6\frac{1}{2}$ , and jowari  $11\frac{1}{2}$  seers per current sicca rupee.

Rajputana.—For week ending 2nd February.—The standing crops are in good condition except in Bhurtpore where they are in want of rain. Prospects are fair in Haraoti; good elsewhere. Agricultural stock is in fair condition in Meywar and Bikanir; good elsewhere. Pasturage or fodder is sufficient. Prices are falling in three States; rising in one; and are steady elsewhere.

Central India.—For week ending 31st January.—There was no rain during the week. Rain is urgently needed in the Bundelkhand and Bhopawar agencies. Agricultural operations have been completed in Malwa and Bhopawar and are in progress in other agencies. The condition of the standing crops is good throughout Central India. Agricultural stock and pasturage are good. Prices are steady in Gwalior, Bhopal, Baghelkhand, and Malwa; and are falling in Bundelkhand and in Bhopawar. The opium crops are in good condition in Bhopal and Malwa.

Kashmir.—For week ending 1st February.—The weather is fine. Prices continue below normal.

Jammu Province.—For week ending 1st February.—There was no rain during the week. Prices are stationary.

Nepal.—For week ending 31st January.—No rain. The weather has been cloudy for the last three days, and it is getting appreciably warmer. Some very late sowings of wheat and barley are still going on. The plants of the early sowings are doing well. Prices—8 seers per rupee.

The total numbers in receipt of relief during the preceding and present weeks were as follows:—

No. 1975, dated Calcutta, the 31st December 1897.

From—The Comptroller and Auditor General,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

I have the honour to submit my Annual Report on the operations of the Savings Banks in India during the year 1896-97.

2. These Banks are of two descriptions, vis., Banks open to the public and Service Institutions; the former head now includes the Post Office Banks only, the Presidency Banks having been abolished in the year under review; and the latter, the State Railways Provident Institution, the Civil Engineers' Provident Fund, the Forest Officers' Provident Fund (opened in the year under review), and the Military Banks. The State Railways Provident Institution is for the non-pensionable employes of the State Railways, the Civil Engineers' Provident Fund is for the Officers of the Public Works and Telegraph Departments, the Forest Officers' Provident Fund is for the officers of the Imperial and Provincial branches of the Forest Service, and for the officers of the Geological Survey Department, and the Military Banks are for the benefit of Non-Commissioned Officers and Privates of British Regiments.

3. I enclose the usual Statements marked I to VII, containing the accounts and statistics for the year.

4. The principal features of the returns are shown in the following table, which also compares them with those of the previous year:—

5. The Statement shows that on the 31st March 1897 there were 6,596 Government Savings Banks in India, containing 742,215 accounts, which earned interest from Government to the amount of R34,65,559, and held balances aggregating R10,88,67,916, exclusive of Government Securities held on behalf of the depositors to the nominal value of R6,28,800. As compared with the year 1895-96, there has been an increase of 76 in the number of banks, of 25,661 in the number of depositors, and of R80,601 in the amount of interest earned. On the other hand, the balance of deposits has declined by R23,44,608.

6. The Presidency Savings Banks Accounts were transferred finally to the Post Office with effect from the 1st October 1896. The transfer was made gradually, commencing from the beginning of the year, and no new depositors were admitted to the Presidency Savings Banks in the year under review.

7. Upon the working of the Post Office Banks, the Director-General of the Post Office has submitted a detailed report, and it is therefore necessary here to make some observations in respect of the other Banks only.

8. There has been a large decrease of R2,55,274 in the balances at the Military Banks. The decrease occurs in all the commands. The balances in these Banks, affected as they are by the transfer of troops between India and England, are liable to considerable fluctuations.

9. The Forest Officers' Provident Fund was created during the course of the year under review for the benefit of the members of the Imperial and Provincial branches of the Forest Department. The Officers of the Geological Survey of India Department are also permitted to subscribe to this Fund. The balance stands at R45,167.

10. The balances of the other Service Institutions still continue to increase, and now amount to R1,09,40,112, an increase over the previous year of R8,96,578.

11. The balances of the Savings Banks proper, including the Military Banks, amount to R9,78,82,637, which represents a decrease of R32,86,353 as compared with the balances of 1895-96. These balances are held by Government at call. This large decrease is due in a large measure to several special causes, the most prominent of which are the closing of the Presidency Savings Banks, the limitation to R10,000 of the balances in what are called "Public accounts" and the closing of the account of the East Indian Railway Provident Fund. The closing of the Presidency Savings Banks resulted in the withdrawal of twenty lakhs of rupees, the limitation of the balances of Public Accounts caused a withdrawal of two and a quarter lakhs, and the closing of the Account of the East Indian Railway Provident Fund produced a net withdrawal of twenty-three lakhs. There has been an increase of R99,700 in the balance of Government Promissory Notes held on account of depositors at the close of 1896-97, which now stands at R6,28,800.

12. Statement No. V distributing Savings Bank transactions between (1) European and Eurasian and (2) Native Depositors shows that it is in the accounts of European and Eurasian Depositors that the decrease in the balances of the Savings Banks proper has occurred. The decrease in the balances of European and Eurasian Depositors amounted to nearly fifty-six lakhs. This decrease is, however, in some degree not a real one, and is due to the extent of some 13 lakhs to a rectification in 1896-97 of misclassification in previous years in the Post Office of Native as Eurasian Depositors, and to a difference between the classification of Eurasian and Native Depositors adopted by the Presidency and that adopted by the Post Office Savings Banks. Allowing, however, for all the explanations given in this paragraph and in paragraphs 8 and 11, there has been a considerable withdrawal from the balances of European and Eurasian Depositors.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

MOHMAND.

No. 145.—In continuation of G. G. O. No. 1318 of 1897, the Right Honourable the Governor General of India in Council directs the publication of the sub-joined communication from the Adjutant General in India, submitting, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief in India, a subsidiary despatch by Brigadier-General E. R. Elles, C.B., bringing to notice the names of officers of Civil Departments, who were employed with the Mohmand Field Force :—

Letter from the Adjutant General in India, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department, No. 490-F. "Field Operations—N.-W. F.", dated Fort William, the 1st February 1898.
Mohmand

In continuation of this office letter No. 2080-F., dated 10th November 1897, I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to forward, for the information of Government, the enclosed subsidiary despatch from Brigadier-General E. R. Elles, C.B., bringing to notice the names of certain officers of Civil Departments who were employed with the Mohmand Field Force.

2. His Excellency has much pleasure in endorsing Brigadier-General Elles' commendation of the officers now brought to notice.

Letter from Brigadier-General E. R. ELLES, C.B., Commanding Peshawar District, late Commanding the Mohmand Field Force, to the Adjutant General in India.—No. 581, "Field Operations," dated Peshawar, the 22nd January 1898.

In continuation of my No. 520 of the 13th October 1897, I have the honour to bring to the notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the names of the following officers for their good services during the Mohmand Expedition:—

Mr. W. R. H. Merk, C.S.I., Civil Service, rendered very valuable services as political officer. The prompt settlement obtained was entirely due to his knowledge of the tribes, his perfect command of their language, which enabled him to deal directly with the jirgas, and his firmness in dealing with the jirgas. His judicious selection of subordinates greatly contributed to the success of the expedition. My movements were almost entirely based on information obtained by him regarding distances and water. I am under the greatest obligations to Mr. Merk for the manner in which he conducted the political business throughout.

Lieutenant B. C. Waterfield, Assistant Political Officer, carried out his work very firmly and in great harmony with the military officers at the various posts.

Captain H. V. Cox, in charge of the Imperial Service Troops, the Patiala and Nabha Regiments, carried on all work connected with them with great smoothness and was most zealous in his work.

Major W. J. Bythell, Royal Engineers, Survey Officer, did excellent work under the difficulty of marching daily and was most keen and energetic.

Mr. C. J. Stowell carried out all postal arrangements entirely to my satisfaction. Everything was carried on most creditably by him and his subordinates.

Mr. H. S. Pike, Assistant Superintendent of Telegraphs, ably assisted by his subordinate, Mr. J. C. Murphy, laid the telegraph line rapidly and well, and the telegraph work was most satisfactory; all concerned working very willingly.

TIRAH.

No. 146.—The following appointment is made with effect from the date the officer assumes his duties:—

Lieutenant H. G. W. Chandler, 2nd Infantry, Hyderabad Contingent, to be Commandant, Native Troops Depot, Peshawar, vice Captain W. Prior, 13th Regiment of Bengal Infantry, who has vacated.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT—RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

Calcutta, the 3rd February 1898.

READ—

Sections 3 (4), 16 (2), 47 and 148 (1) of the Indian Railways Act (IX) of 1890.

Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 480 $\frac{1}{2}$ , dated the 30th October 1890, publishing—in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 8th November 1890—the Government of India resolution No. 736 R. T., dated the 17th October 1890, and the General Rules, therewith promulgated, for working railways under construction and not used for the public carriage of passengers, animals or goods.

Government of India, Public Works Department, notification No. 4, dated the 6th January 1898, published in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 8th January 1898—appointing the Director of Railway Traffic as the officer who, in the case of a railway administered by Government is to make General Rules under section 47 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890.

Letter from the Director of Railway Traffic, No. 32 T., dated the 17th January 1898.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Director of Railway Traffic has applied for leave to adopt, on the Cooch Behar State Railway extensions across the Torsa river to the town of Cooch Behar and thence to a point on the Jhainti river near Santrabari, the General Rules for working railways under construction and not used for the public carriage of passengers, animals or goods, which rules were published in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 8th November 1890, under Public Works Department notification No. 480 $\frac{1}{2}$ , dated the 30th October 1890.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the application of the General Rules referred to in the foregoing observations to such portions of the said extensions of the Cooch Behar State Railway as are situate in British territory and have been sanctioned for construction.

ORDER.—Ordered that the General Rules, which have already been published in the Gazette of India of the 8th November 1890, be further notified to the railway servants and to the public by a copy thereof being kept open to inspection free of any charge, in the office of the Engineer in charge of the construction of the railway.

ORDERED, also, that this resolution be communicated to the Director of Railway Traffic, for information and guidance, and that it be published under a notification in Part I of the Gazette of India.

F. R. UPCOTT,

Secretary to the Government of India.

The 7th February, 1898.

No. 57.—Mr. J. W. L. Toors, Executive Engineer, 2nd grade, Central Provinces, has, at his own request, been permitted to resign the service, with effect from the afternoon of the 21st December, 1897.

This cancels Notification No. 523, dated 22nd December, 1897.

The 8th February, 1898.

No. 59.—With reference to Public Works Department Notification No. 452, dated the 29th October 1897, the services of Captain R. S. MacLagan, R.E., Executive Engineer, 2nd grade, are replaced at the disposal of the Government of the Punjab, with effect from the 1st January, 1898.

TELEGRAPHY.

The 10th February, 1898.

No. 63.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 7 of the Indian Telegraph

Act, 1885 (XIII of 1885), the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that for Rules 76, 94 and 142 (d), respectively, of the Rules for Inland telegrams published with the Notification of the Government of India in the Public Works Department, No. 245, dated the 25th June, 1897, the following rules shall be substituted, namely:—

76. If the sender of an Inland telegram wishes to cancel it before transmission has begun, he can do so; and the charges, less a fee of four annas, will be returned. If, however, the telegram has been stamped either by the sender or by the booking office, and the stamps have been obliterated, the charges can only be refunded on application being made to the Superintendent, Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta, within one month of the date of booking the message. If the telegram is in course of transmission, or has already been despatched, it can be cancelled only by a paid Service Advice (Rule 46) addressed to the Terminal Office. If, in addition, the sender wishes to be informed by telegraph, in what manner his request has been acted upon, he must deposit the cost of the return telegram; otherwise he is informed by post.

94. The Pass is available for only thirty days (date of issue included), after which it lapses. When the addressee does not use the Pass, its value will be refunded to the sender on production of the Pass should he apply for the same within the prescribed period. (See Rules 142 (d) and 144.)

142 (d). The full amount of every sum deposited in advance with the object of obtaining a reply (Rule 91) when the addressee has not made use of the Pass (Rule 94).

NOTICES.

All communications relating to Act V (the Inventions and Designs Act) of 1888 should be addressed to the "Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture (PATENTS BRANCH), CALCUTTA".

The office of the Secretary under the Act is open for the transaction of business from 11 A.M. to 4 P.M. on all days except Sundays and gazetted holidays.

The Government of India are advised that, as trade marks are not "designs" within the meaning of the Act, they cannot be registered under Part II.

The fees payable under the fourth and sixth schedules are now collected in cash, and applicants are warned that they must be responsible for any delay in cashing cheques.

Copies of the weekly notifications, and of the quarterly lists, of applications and specifications filed in the Secretary's office are now on sale to the public at one anna and eight annas a copy, respectively.

Attention is requested to the rules made by the Government on the 10th October, 1895, in regard to the preparation of applications, specifications and drawings.

All applications made under the Inventions and Designs Act, V of 1888, will from this date (December 19th, 1896) lie in the visitors' room of the Patents Office for ten days from the date of the Gazette of India in which their filing may have been notified; or, if the tenth day is a holiday, till the evening of the office day next following.

At the time of delivering or sending an application for leave to file a specification, the applicant shall cause a duplicate copy of the application to be delivered or sent therewith to the Secretary.

A. T. PRINGLE,

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF ASSAM IN THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Return of the number of persons in receipt of relief in districts affected by scarcity.

NOTE.—The figures are compiled from the Local Gazettes, and give the District details of the Provincial totals published weekly in the Crop and Weather Summary in the Gazette of India.
Non-labouring children and other dependants of relief workers are classed as on relief works when distinguished in the local returns from persons gratuitously fed in poor-houses or at their homes.

Saturday, January 29th, 1898.

The weather has been a good deal more disturbed over Northern India during the present than during last week, but over the central parts of the country and the Peninsula the weather has remained fine and quiet. Light snow commenced over the Kashmir Himalayas and light rain in Baluchistan on Sunday the 23rd. This rain and snow extended to other parts of the North-Western Himalayas and rain to several plains stations in North-Western India on the 24th and 25th. On the 26th the showers were fewer and widely scattered over Northern India, but on the 27th there was general moderate rain over Bengal and showers continued to fall over North-East India until the close of the week. This rainfall was due directly, in North-West India and indirectly in North-East India, to a barometric depression which appeared over Sind on the 23rd and slowly travelled eastward across Northern India. During the whole week there has been a large area of high pressure over the central parts of the country, and from this area pressure has decreased southward and has been steadily low over the South of the Bay and the South-East of the Arabian Sea. Accompanying these pressure conditions, there have been very steady winds over Central and Southern India and very unsteady changeable winds over Northern India. The mean temperature has been generally lower than usual during the week over the central parts of the country and the north and east of the Peninsula, and higher than usual elsewhere. The variations of the mean temperature have been large in different parts of the country but more particularly in the north-west where the heat has been very excessive.

Daily Summary.—Sunday, January 23rd.—Pressure had risen over the greater part of the country. Pressure was highest in the North Punjab, relatively high over the central districts and low over the south of the Bay. A very shallow depression had appeared over Sind. The winds were generally westerly down the Gangetic Plain, north-east over the Bay and easterly elsewhere. On the North-West Himalayas the force was rising. The mean temperature was low over the central parts of India and the northern half of the Peninsula, and was high elsewhere. At Montgomery, the variation from the normal was  $+9^{\circ}7$  and at Chanda  $-5^{\circ}6$ . Light snow had fallen over Kashmir, light rain over Baluchistan and light to moderate rain over the south of the Peninsula.

Monday, January 24th.—The barometer had begun to rise in Baluchistan but was falling in almost all parts of India. The fall had been brisk to rapid over Rajputana, and the shallow depression noticed over Sind on the previous day was passing through Rajputana. In other respects the general distribution of pressure was little changed. The winds were irregularly cyclonic in the north-west and were little changed elsewhere. The mean temperature remained low over the east and north of the Peninsula and excessive elsewhere. The excess amounted to  $11^{\circ}8$ , at Montgomery, the deficiency to  $3^{\circ}9$ , at Vizagapatam. Light rain and snow had fallen at the north-west hill stations and light rain at a few plains stations in the north-west.

Tuesday, January 25th.—The barometer had risen in the north-west and continued to fall elsewhere. The fall was greatest over the west of the North-Western Provinces, and the depression, which had been passing through Rajputana on the 24th, had reached the Gangetic Plain. A large high pressure area had appeared over North-West India where the winds were northerly; calms prevailed over Bengal. Northerly winds over the Bay and easterly winds elsewhere. The temperature had fallen rapidly in the north-west and was below the normal at Rawalpindi and Karachi. The highest temperatures relatively to the normal were reported from the west of the North-Western Provinces, while over the east of the Peninsula the weather remained cooler than usual. Showers continued to be reported from the north-western hill stations and from a few plains stations.

Wednesday, January 26th.—Pressure had increased slightly to rapidly over the North-Western and Central Provinces, Rajputana and Central India, while it had decreased or been steady elsewhere. The depression had continued to move eastward and lay over North Bihar, while the highest pressures were reported from Eastern Rajputana. A small local depression was shown over Lower Bengal. The winds were westerly and north-westerly over Northern India, irregularly cyclonic over Bengal, northerly over the Bay, and easterly elsewhere. The mean temperature was low over Rajputana and Gujarat as well as over the east of the Peninsula, but was high elsewhere. The greatest excess was reported from the North-Western Provinces. A few scattered showers had been received over Northern India.

Thursday, January 27th.—The barometer had fallen over North-Western India and had risen elsewhere. The depression noticed over North Bihar had filled up, while the small Bengal depression had passed eastward to south-east Bengal. The winds were little changed. The temperature was low over the central parts of the country and the east of the Peninsula, and high in all other parts of the country. Thunderstorms had given light or moderate rain to all parts of Bengal except West Bengal and Orissa, but the rainfall had ceased in the north-west.

Friday, January 28th.—The barometer had risen everywhere. A large high pressure area covered Northern and Central India, while the lowest pressures were reported from the south of the Bay. Northerly winds continued over the Bay, but elsewhere variable or easterly winds were reported. The mean temperature was low over the Central Provinces, the east of the Peninsula and Lower Bengal, but elsewhere the heat remained excessive. Light rain had been received over Assam, East Bengal and Upper and Central Burma.

Saturday, January 29th.—Pressure had increased briskly over the Indus Valley and part of the Peninsula, but elsewhere the changes were slight. Pressure remained high over Northern and Central India, and low over the south-east of the Arabian Sea. Northerly to easterly winds prevailed, the force being light to moderate. The mean temperature remained low over the south, east and north of the Peninsula and Lower Bengal, and high elsewhere. A shower had been received over parts of Upper Burma, but, with this exception, the weather had been rainless.

Temperature.—The distribution of the mean temperature relatively to the normal has been very steady during the week. Thus, the south, east and north of the Peninsula, part of the Central Provinces and also of Lower Bengal, have had throughout the greater part of the week under review, a lower temperature than usual, while in other parts of the country the temperature has been steadily in excess. The only exception has been in North-Western India where a sudden and large fall of temperature occurred after the rainfall in the beginning of the week, a fall which temporarily reduced temperature to below the normal average in some districts.

The following table gives the temperature data for the week.

In Madras, the Central Provinces and Burma, the mean temperature of the week has been about normal; in Bengal and Bombay it has been in slight excess, in the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, Central India and Gujarat in considerable excess, and in Sind and Rajputana in large excess. The mean temperature of the whole country for the whole week has been  $2\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  above the normal.

Rain :—The weather has been much more disturbed, and the rainfall area much wider than was the case last week. Last week there were only four divisions which reported any rain at all, and only one division which reported effective rainfall, while during the present week no less than twenty-four divisions report some rain, and of these, no less than eighteen have received effective rainfall. Rain has been received over Upper Burma, all the Assam divisions, East, Deltaic, Central and North Bengal, Chota Nagpur, North and South Bihar, North Oudh, the West Submontane and the Hill divisions of the North-Western Provinces, the South, Central, Submontane, Hill, North and West divisions of the Punjab, the South-Central division of Madras, the Baluchistan hill division, the south of the East Coast and the south of Madras. In the case of Upper Burma, Chota Nagpur, South Bihar, the West Submontane division of the North-Western Provinces, South-Central Madras, and the Baluchistan Hills, the average actual rainfall of the week was less than one-tenth of an inch, but in all the remaining divisions mentioned above, the rainfall was effective and ranged from 0.76" in Deltaic Bengal, and 0.69" in East Bengal and the Punjab Hills, to 0.11" in North Oudh and 0.12" in the West Punjab.

The rainfall was practically confined to the Punjab, Bengal and Upper Burma, the remaining parts of the country having been rainless or nearly so. The average actual rainfall of the week exceeded the average normal rainfall in no less than eleven divisions, vis., all the Assam divisions, East, Deltaic, Central and North Bengal, the South Punjab, South-Central Madras, the south of the East Coast and South Madras. This rainfall has diminished the deficiency in the seasonal rainfall which has hitherto prevailed over Northern India, and in the case of Deltaic, Central and North Bengal, has changed it into an excess. Elsewhere there has not been much change, and the three last columns of the table show that for the four weeks January 2nd to January 29th, no rain whatever has been received over Tenasserim, Arakan, South-West Bengal, the greater part of the North-Western Provinces, the South-East Punjab, Coorg, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Khandesh, Berar, the Central Provinces, North Bombay, Rajputana, Central India and the greater part of Madras. In many of these regions the anticipated rainfall is light, and the absence of rain more or less unimportant, but in parts of the Punjab the actual deficiency is large, while over Madras, though the actual deficiency is small, the continued absence of rain is important.

The following important falls of rain are reported during the week under review:—Narayanganj 1.90", Faridpur 3.24", Magura (Jessore) 2.30", Bahera (Darbhanga) 1.27", Jhelum 1.62" and Hazara 1.46".

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 5th February.—There was no rain during the week, except a few light scattered showers in Tanjore. The water-supply for irrigation is generally insufficient in rain-fed areas, except in Malabar and in parts of the Northern Circars and the Deccan. Agricultural operations continue, but are retarded by want of rain, which cannot now be expected for some weeks. Crops in rain-fed areas, except in the extreme north and in parts of the Deccan, are suffering from want of rain. The harvest continues and the outturn of crops is generally middling, but is poor in parts. Pasture is generally sufficient, but is failing in parts of the Deccan and the Carnatic. Fodder is generally available, but is growing dear. The condition of cattle is normal. Prices are very high generally; they are steady or are slightly easier, except in Bellary, Coimbatore, and Trichinopoly. Most staple grains are dearer than or are touching scarcity rates in Ganjam, Godavari, Kistna, Anantapur, Cuddapah, Nellore, North Arcot, and Salem. There is no improvement in prospects. For Nellore test work the figures are incomplete.

Bombay.—For week ending 7th February.—Reaping of early crops continues in three and of late crops in seven districts. The standing crops have been injured by blight, cold, or locusts in parts of seven districts. Cotton is diseased in parts of Bijapur. Preparations for next season are progressing in four districts. Fodder is sufficient. Agricultural stock is healthy. Prices have risen in three and fallen in seven districts; elsewhere they are stationary. The prices of jowari in Sholapur was 13½ seers per rupee. The average number on relief works, including dependants, was—Sholapur—8,962—of whom 8,376 are relief workers and 586 dependants. Of relief workers—2,955 are men, 3,866 women, and 1,555 children. Of dependants—19 are men, 46 women, and 521 children. On gratuitous relief—Sholapur 3,813, of whom 2,131 are men, 1,215 women, and 467 children.

Bengal.—For week ending 7th February.—There was general rain in Bihar and the north of Bengal, and slight showers are also reported from parts of East Bengal and Chota Nagpur. The spring crops in general have benefited by the rain, but a few crops in flower have suffered. In Jalpaiguri the standing crops are reported to have suffered from a severe hailstorm on the night of the 5th instant. Reports of the poppy crop in Bihar are favourable, but round Motihari it has been damaged by hail, and in Siwan some blight has appeared in light soils. The ploughing of lands for bhadoi and jute has begun in the Rajshahi Division. The pressing of sugarcane is proceeding, and potatoes, mustard, and other early spring crops are being gathered. The price of rice has fluctuated in a few places, but on the whole it has been stationary for some weeks past.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 9th February.—Light rain has fallen in most districts and has benefited the unirrigated crops; in some districts, however, the showers were accompanied by hail. The crops on irrigated lands are reported to be doing well. More rain is required. Sowings of sawan (Panicum miliaceum) and other extra crops are in progress and peas are being gathered. Markets are fully supplied. Prices remain steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 7th February.—A fall of  $\frac{1}{2}$  of an inch is reported from one tahsil of the Rawalpindi district, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch in Umballa district. No rain elsewhere. Sugarcane is still being pressed in some districts.

Extra spring sowings have commenced in Amritsar. The condition of irrigated crops is generally good; unirrigated crops are suffering from want of rain, which is badly needed in most districts. Stocks of food-grain are sufficient. Locusts are reported in parts of Shahpur, but no damage has been done. Crops on land dependent on rain have been damaged by insects in Delhi. Caterpillars are reported to have injured the rapeseed crop in parts of Ferozepore. The condition of cattle is poor in Sialkot and in parts of Dera Ismail Khan; fair in Delhi, and good elsewhere. Fodder is scarce in Sialkot and in parts of Amritsar and Dera Ismail Khan and is becoming scarce in Jullundar; elsewhere it is sufficient. Prices have risen in Shahpur, fallen in Peshawar, and are almost unchanged elsewhere. Wheat is selling from  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to  $13\frac{1}{2}$ , gram  $11\frac{1}{2}$  to  $12\frac{1}{2}$ ; barley 19, great millet 19, bulrush millet 16 to 22, maize  $17\frac{1}{2}$  to  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , and rice 10 to  $10\frac{1}{2}$  seers per rupee.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 7th February.—The weather was somewhat cloudy during the latter part of week with light rain in Saugor, Jubbulpore, Raipur, and Sambalpur. The winter crops are generally in fair to good condition, though they have suffered to some extent in places from want of rain and from the attacks of insects. Some of them are being reaped and others are ripening. An estimated yield of 12 annas is reported from Chhindwara. Fodder is growing scarce in portions of Sambalpur. The price of jowar has risen in Nimar and Chanda, and of rice in Mandla, Nagpur, and Chanda; the rise is due to exports to Madras; elsewhere prices have fallen or are stationary. Relief is confined to 228 sick in poor-houses and 195 children in orphanages.

Burma.—For week ending 5th February.—In Lower Burma threshing is nearly completed. In Upper Burma reaping of wet weather paddy is completed. Cultivation of dry weather paddy and miscellaneous crops is progressing and crops promise well. Reaping of jowar and maize is completed in Myingyan and of sesamum in Sagaing. Hailstorms have caused slight damage to peas in Mandalay. The price of paddy has risen slightly in Rangoon, Thongwa, Bassein, Tavoy, Thayetmyo, Pakoku, and Mandalay, and has fallen slightly in Prome; elsewhere it is stationary.

Assam.—For week ending 8th February.—Slight rainfall in all districts has been beneficial to fodder crops and to new tea clearances. Land is being prepared for summer paddy in most districts of the Assam Valley. Ploughing of land for low land late rice has commenced in Sylhet. Gathering of pulses and mustard, pressing of sugarcane, and pruning of tea continue. Condition of cattle is fair. Prices—common rice—Sylhet  $12\frac{1}{2}$ , Gauhati and Sibsagar 12, Dhubri  $11\frac{1}{2}$ , Tezpur  $10\frac{1}{2}$ , Silchar 10, Nowgong and Dibrugarh 9 seers per rupee. Fodder is scarce in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills and Naga Hills and in parts of Cachar.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 7th February.—MYSORE: The standing crops are in good condition. Prices have fallen slightly in Mysore and Hassan and have risen in Shimoga. Ragi (Eleusine coracana) has been harvested in parts of Kolar.

COORG: Threshing of rice and ragi (Eleusine coracana) has commenced. Coffee-picking continues. Prices of food-grains are stationary. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 7th February.—BERAR: The weather is cool. Picking of cotton and threshing of jowar are in progress. The winter crops are in fair condition. Fodder and water-supply are ample. Prices are almost stationary. Prices—Jowar—Akola 22, Amraoti 21, Basim 20, Buldana 22, Ellichpur 22, Wun 23 seers per rupee.

HYDERABAD: No rain during the week. The spring harvest has commenced in parts. Prices of grain are almost stationary. Prices—wheat—5, coarse rice  $6\frac{1}{2}$ , and jowari  $11\frac{1}{2}$  seers per current sicca rupee.

Rajputana.—For week ending 9th February.—Rainfall—Bikanir 7 cents and Suratgarh 12 cents. Standing crops are in good condition and prospects are fair to good. Agricultural stock is in fair condition in Meywar and Bikanir and good elsewhere. Pasturage or fodder is sufficient. Prices are falling in three States ; fluctuating in one ; and are steady elsewhere.

Central India.—For week ending 7th February.—Some rain fell at Indore during the week. Rain is urgently needed in the Bundelkhand and Bhopawar Agencies. The condition of the standing crops is good throughout Central India. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Pasturage is good and sufficient in all Agencies. Prices are falling in Bundelkhand, Baghelkhand and Bhopawar ; and are steady elsewhere. The opium crops are in good condition in Gwalior, Bhopal, and Malwa.

Kashmir—For week ending 8th February.—The weather is fine. Prices continue below normal.

Jammu Province.—For week ending 8th February.—No rain. Prices are stationary.

Nepal.—For week ending 7th February.—Rain 1.42. From the evening of the 4th to the evening of the 5th there have been several good showers accompanied by thunderstorms, and for a few minutes by very small hailstones. The rains have considerably intensified the cold, but they will do good to the crops. Price 8 seers per rupee.

THE RESIDENT IN MYSORE.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Bangalore, the 8th February, 1898.

No. 595.—The Resident in Mysore is pleased to direct that the following amendments be made in the Rules issued under his Notification No. 2798, dated the 5th July, 1897:—

In Rule 1 for the words "District Magistrate" substitute "Collector".
Omit Rule 6.

The 5th February 1898.

No. 544.—Notice is hereby given that the right to sell country Beer and Porter in each of the 30 taverns in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, specified in the subjoined schedule, for the year beginning 1st April, 1898 and ending 31st March, 1899, will be put up to public auction at the up-set annual prices specified therein. The sale will be conducted by the Collector, or by an officer specially deputed with the sanction of the Resident for this purpose, in the Mayo Hall, commencing at 12 noon on Thursday, the 10th March, 1898.

2. Each bidder at the auction will deposit a sum of Rs50 previous to bidding. The taverns will, subject to the provisions of the next succeeding clause, be knocked down to the approved highest bidder above the up-set price mentioned in the aforesaid schedule, subject to formal confirmation by the Collector, who will be at liberty to accept or reject the bid at his discretion, without assigning reasons for the same; such formal confirmation will, unless revised by the Resident for special reasons, be tantamount to an acceptance of the bid, and will be necessary whether the sale be held by the Collector himself, or by any other officer deputed as mentioned in clause 1. Parties intending to bid must attend either in person or by duly accredited agents.

3. As soon as the auction is completed, the deposits made by the unsuccessful bidders, if not forfeited as hereinafter provided, will be returned to them. As the auction proceeds, the person whose bid is accepted for each tavern, shall at once deposit a sum equal to a half a month's rent for that tavern. Should he fail to do so, the deposit made by him under clause 2 will be forfeited, the tavern will at once be put up again on the above conditions, and he will be debarred from bidding again for the same, or for any other tavern.

4. Persons to whom taverns have been knocked down, and who have made deposits as provided in clauses 2 and 3, shall also within seven days from the date of the auction, deposit such further sum as, with the 1st and 2nd deposits will make up an amount equal to two months' rent of each tavern knocked down to them, and shall take out licenses in the appended form A, on the conditions hereinafter set forth. On the failure of any person to make the deposit, or to take out licenses as aforesaid, the tavern or taverns will be re-sold at the risk of such person, or, if the auction hereby notified, has already been completed, will be otherwise disposed of at the discretion of the Collector of the Civil and Military Station.

5. Re-sales effected under clause 4 will be at the risk of the defaulting bidder, who will forfeit all gain, and in the event of a loss by re-sale, he will make good the deficiency between the total amount payable for the whole period under the terms of the original sale, and the total amount payable by the successful bidder at the re-sale. In the latter case, the forfeited deposit will be deducted from the loss arising from the re-sale, and the remainder, if any, will be recovered from the bidder in the same manner, as if it were an arrear of land revenue. Should, however, the forfeited deposit be greater than the loss by re-sale, the whole of such deposit will be credited to Government.

6. Sales in the 33 taverns at present licensed for 9 months ending 31st December, 1897, are given in the schedule.

CONDITIONS.

1. The privilege conferred by the license, extends only to the sales of country Beer or Porter manufactured by the licensed brewers in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore or in the Nilgiris.
2. Each tavern shall be maintained in or close to the existing tavern as described in the schedule.
3. The amount for which the privilege has been purchased, shall be payable into the Resident's treasury in equal monthly instalments commencing from April 1898; each instalment shall be regarded as the rent for the month in respect of which it is payable. Each month's rent shall be payable on the 25th of the same month. The deposit of two months' rent made by the licensee will be taken in payment of the rents due for the last two months of the period of the license. Failing payment by the 25th of the same month, the Collector shall at once proceed to recover the arrears together with interest at 6 per cent. under the rules in force for the collection of land revenue, and may at his discretion cancel the license. No remission or abatement of the rent shall, on any account whatever, be claimable by the licensee.
4. The licensee shall purchase the beer to be sold in his tavern from any of the licensed brewers in the Civil and Military Station or from any licensed brewer in the Nilgiris or from their authorised agents, and shall sell the same to the public at a price not less than 9 annas per imperial gallon.
5. The licensee of every tavern in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore shall pay to the Municipal Commission a registration fee of Rs180 in two half-yearly instalments, and also a license fee of 2 rupees per hogshead on all beer sold by him in excess of 7½ hogsheads a month in each tavern.
6. The licensee shall use such measures for retail sale as may from time to time be prescribed by Government. He shall also provide himself with printed forms of account and permits, or passes for transport for beer, which forms shall be purchased from the Collector's office.

7. The remaining terms and conditions shall be as set forth in Appendix (A).
8. In case of any breach of the above conditions, either by the licensee or with his connivance or privity, by any person in his employment, or in the event of the licensee neglecting to open his shop or to carry on his business with due care and attention, it shall be competent to the Collector, to impose upon the licensee a fine not exceeding Rs 10 for every such breach, or at his discretion to declare the money deposited with him forfeited, and to cancel the license. When a license is so cancelled, the Collector may, at his discretion, re-sell the exclusive privilege at the risk of the licensee, and in such case all loss thereby caused shall be made good by the licensee, or the Collector may place the tavern under the direct management of Government. When a license is cancelled, and the shop is not re-sold, the rent for the remaining portion of the lease shall become due at once and shall be recovered as if it were an arrear of land revenue.
9. The penalties laid down in the last preceding clause shall not exempt the licensee or his employes from prosecution for any offence committed against the Excise Laws or Rules in force.

By Order,

K. D. ERSKINE, Captain,

First Assistant to the Resident.

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ACT NO. IV OF 1898.

An Act to amend the Indian Penal Code.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Penal Code ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

XLV of 1860. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Short title and Penal Code Amendment commencement. Act, 1898 ; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

XLV of 1860, 2. Section 4 of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed, and the following Substitution of new section for section 4, Act XLV, 1860. ing section is substituted therefor, namely :—

" 4. The provisions of this Code apply also to Extension of Code to any offence committed extra-territorial offences. by—

- (1) any Native Indian subject of Her Majesty in any place without and beyond British India ;
- (2) any other British subject within the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India ;
- (3) any servant of the Queen, whether a British subject or not, within the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India.

Explanation.—In this section the word 'offence' includes every act committed outside British India which, if committed in British India, would be punishable under this Code.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a coolie, who is a Native Indian subject, commits a murder in Uganda. He can be tried and convicted of murder in any place in British India in which he may be found.

(b) B, a European British subject, commits a murder in Kashmir. He can be tried and convicted of murder in any place in British India in which he may be found.

(c) C, a foreigner who is in the service of the Punjab Government, commits a murder in Jhind. He can be tried and convicted of murder at any place in British India in which he may be found.

(d) D, a British subject living in Indore, instigates E to commit a murder in Bombay. D is guilty of abetting murder."

3. After section 108 of the Indian Penal Code XLV of the following section shall be added, namely :—

" 108A. A person abets an offence within the meaning of this Code who, Abetment in British India of offences outside it. in British India, abets the commission of any act without and beyond British India which would constitute an offence if committed in British India.

Illustration.

A, in British India, instigates B, a foreigner in Goa, to commit a murder in Goa. A is guilty of abetting murder."

4. Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed, and the Substitution of new section for section 124A, Act XLV, 1860. following section is substituted therefor, namely :—

" 124A. Whoever by words, either spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representation, or Sedition.

otherwise, brings or attempts to bring into hatred or contempt, or excites or attempts to excite disaffection towards, Her Majesty or the Government established by law in British India, shall be punished with transportation for life or any shorter term, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment which may extend to three years, to which fine may be added, or with fine.

Explanation 1.—The expression “disaffection” includes disloyalty and all feelings of enmity.

Explanation 2.—Comments expressing disapprobation of the measures of the Government with a view to obtain their alteration by lawful means, without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection, do not constitute an offence under this section.

Explanation 3.—Comments expressing disapprobation of the administrative or other action of the Government without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection do not constitute an offence under this section.”

5. After section 153 of the Indian Penal Code the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

“153A. Whoever by words, either spoken or written, or by signs, or otherwise, promotes or attempts to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of Her Majesty’s subjects shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.”

Explanation.—It does not amount to an offence within the meaning of this section to point out, without malicious intention and with an honest view to their removal, matters which are producing, or have a tendency to produce, feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of Her Majesty’s subjects.”

6. Section 505 of the Indian Penal Code is hereby repealed and the following section is substituted therefor, namely:—

“505. Whoever makes, publishes or circulates any statement, rumour or report,—

(a) with intent to cause, or which is likely to cause, any officer, soldier or sailor in the army or navy of Her Majesty or in the Royal Indian Marine or in the Imperial Service Troops to mutiny or otherwise disregard or fail in his duty as such; or

(b) with intent to cause, or which is likely to cause, fear or alarm to the public, or to any section of the public whereby any person may be induced to commit an offence against the State or against the public tranquillity; or shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

(c) with intent to incite, or which is likely to incite, any class or community of persons to commit any offence against any other class or community;

Exception.—It does not amount to an offence, within the meaning of this section, when the person making, publishing or circulating any such statement, rumour or report has reasonable grounds for believing that such statement, rumour or report is true and makes, publishes or circulates it without any such intent as aforesaid.”

J. M. MACPHERSON.

Secretary to the Government of India.

Return of the number of persons in receipt of relief in districts affected by scarcity.

NOTE.—The figures are compiled from the Local Gazettes, and give the District details of the Provincial totals published weekly in the Crop and Weather summary in the Gazette of India.

Non-labouring children and other dependants of relief workers are classed as on relief works when distinguished in the local returns from persons gratuitously lodged in poor-houses or at their homes.

Weather Review of India for the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, February 5th, 1898.

Pressure has been unsteady during the week and the weather has been slightly disturbed over Northern India. A small depression appeared over Lower Sind on January 31st, and this was followed by showers over the North-Western Himalayas and the North Punjab on February 1st. A second depression appeared over the West Punjab on February 4th, but its effect on the weather was extremely slight. In the meantime easterly winds had set in over North-East India. These winds gave showers to Sibsagar and Silchar on the 3rd, to all the Assam stations and to North Bengal on the 4th, and to North and Central Bengal and the Gangetic Plain on the 5th. In Oudh the fall had been heavy. Over the central parts of India and the Peninsula the pressure during the week has been uniform and the weather fine. The mean temperature has been steadily lower than usual over Burma and Madras during the week and has been higher than usual elsewhere, the excess being steadily very large over the Punjab, Sind and Rajputana.

Daily Summary.—Sunday, January 30th.—Pressure had decreased everywhere and over the greater part of the country briskly to rapidly. Pressure was high over the central parts of the country and North-East India and was low over the south of the Bay. The winds were between south and east over Western, Central and North-West India and northerly over the Bay, while calms were reported from Bengal. The temperature was low for the time of year over the south and east of the Peninsula, the Central Provinces, Lower Bengal and Tenasserim, and higher than usual elsewhere. At Bickaneer the excess was 12° and at Saugor Island the deficiency was 3°·9. There was no rain or snow over India.

Monday, January 31st.—Pressure had continued to give way briskly to rapidly everywhere. The change was greatest in the north-west and a small depression was shown over Sind, while the highest pressures were reported from Assam and Upper Burma. The winds were practically unchanged in direction, but the force had risen in the north-west. The mean temperature was low over part of Burma and over the greater part of the Peninsula and was high elsewhere. At Jeypore the excess was 11°·7 and at Cuddapah the deficiency was 2°·9. Light snow had fallen over Kashmir and a shower had been received at Negapatam.

Tuesday, February 1st.—The barometer had risen briskly over North-West India and had fallen briskly in Upper Burma. In other places the changes had been slight. The small depression in the north-west had moved north-eastward to the Southern Punjab and had almost filled up. Pressure was highest over the central parts of the country and was low over North-West India, the south of the Bay and Central Burma. The winds were easterly over Northern India and along the west coast of the Peninsula, generally northerly over the Bay area and generally westerly elsewhere. The force had been strong at some north-western stations. The mean temperature remained low over Tenasserim and the greater part of the Peninsula, while it was excessive elsewhere. At Ajmere the excess was as much as 14°, while at Cocanada the deficiency was 3°·6. Showers had been received in Kashmir and the North Punjab as well as at the stations of Wellington and Negapatam.

Wednesday, February 2nd.—Pressure had decreased slightly over Bengal and the Gangetic Plain and had changed slightly and rather irregularly elsewhere. Pressure was low over the Gangetic Plain and Bengal and was high over Burma and over the Peninsula and the central parts of India, but the pressure differences were small. The wind was south-westerly at the head of the Bay, westerly over Northern India and more or less variable elsewhere. The mean temperature remained low over the greater part of the Peninsula and of Burma and high elsewhere. At Ludhiana and Jhansi the excess equalled  $12^{\circ}$ , while at Vizagapatam the deficiency was  $4^{\circ}$ . Light scattered showers of hail or rain had been received at a few stations in Northern India.

Thursday, February 3rd.—The barometer had fallen over the whole country. Pressure was low over Bengal and over the south of the Bay with a broad intervening band of high pressure. Easterly winds were setting in over Assam and North Bengal, but elsewhere the wind directions were generally unchanged. The mean temperature remained low over Burma and the southern half of the Peninsula and excessive over Northern and Central India. At Jeypore the excess was  $10^{\circ}$  and at Madras the deficiency was  $4^{\circ}$ . Assam reported light showers but there was no other rainfall.

Friday, February 4th.—The barometer had fallen briskly to rapidly over Central and North-West India and had risen briskly to rapidly over North-East India. A small depression had appeared over the Southern Punjab, while readings were highest over Assam. Easterly winds were extending over Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, but this was the only change of importance. The mean temperature remained low over Burma and the Peninsula and high elsewhere. The excess was  $8^{\circ}4$  at Mooltan,  $8^{\circ}6$  at Sialkot,  $8^{\circ}5$  at Jhansi and  $9^{\circ}4$  at Balasore, while the deficiency was  $4^{\circ}7$  at Madras. Showers had extended from Assam into North Bengal.

Saturday, February 5th.—A large irregularly shaped low pressure area covered Northern India, while pressure was high over East Bengal, Assam and Burma. Over the central parts of India and the Peninsula the barometric readings were very uniform. A further extension of easterly winds into North-West India had occurred, but otherwise the winds were little changed. The mean temperature was lower than usual on both sides of the Peninsula, but elsewhere the heat was excessive. The variations from the normal were:—  $+8^{\circ}7$  at Sialkot,  $+8^{\circ}9$  at Lucknow,  $+8^{\circ}3$  at Burdwan,  $-4^{\circ}2$  at Madras and  $-2^{\circ}4$  at Belgaum. Light showers of rain and hail had been received over the North-West Himalays, and rain at several stations in the North-Western Provinces, Bihar, North Bengal, Assam and South-East Bengal. The heaviest rainfall was reported from Oudh.

Temperature.—The temperature conditions during the week have been very steady. Over Burma and the greater part of the Peninsula the weather has been steadily cooler than usual, while over the central parts of the country and Northern India the heat has equally steadily been excessive.

The following table gives the temperature data for the week:—

The above shows that on each day of the week the mean temperature of the whole country was excessive, the coolest day being the 30th January with.

a mean excess of  $2^{\circ}9$  and the hottest being the 2nd of February when the mean excess was  $4^{\circ}6$ . The provincial figures show that over Madras and Burma the mean temperature of each day was low relatively to the normal, and that in all other provinces, with the single exception of Bombay on the 5th, the heat was daily excessive. The excess in Sind and Rajputana on January 31st and February 1st and in the Punjab on February 1st and 2nd was very remarkable.

Rain.—The rainfall table at the close of the summary shows that during the week under review rain has been received in twenty-one of the rainfall divisions as compared with twenty-four divisions last week. Of these twenty-one divisions fifteen received an average actual rainfall exceeding  $0.10''$  and six received an average fall of less than  $0.10''$ . The fifteen divisions which received effective rainfall included the three Assam divisions, Central and North Bengal, the Bengal Hills, the two Bihar divisions, the two Oudh divisions, the North-Western Provinces Submontane and Hills divisions, and the North and Hills divisions of the Punjab. In all other parts of the Indian region rain was either altogether absent or so light as to be unimportant. The average actual rainfall in the divisions reporting effective falls ranged from  $1.35''$  in Assam (Surma),  $0.92''$  in the Assam Hills,  $0.88''$  in the Brahmaputra Valley,  $0.87''$  in South Bihar,  $0.82''$  in the Bengal Hills and  $0.77''$  in North Oudh to  $0.12''$  in the Hill division of the North-Western Provinces. The rainfall of the week was in excess of the normal average in ten divisions, viz., all the Assam divisions, North Bengal, the Bengal Hills, South and North Bihar, South and North Oudh, and the North-Western Provinces (East Submontane). In all other places the rainfall was less than usual.

From January 2nd to date the rainfall has been heavier than usual in Central Burma, Assam, East Bengal, Deltaic Bengal, Central Bengal, North Bengal, South Bihar, Malabar and South Madras and has been lighter than usual in all the remaining divisions. Over the west of the Peninsula, the central parts of the country, North Bombay, and the greater part of the centre and east of the Peninsula there has been no rain throughout, and over the Punjab and part of the North-Western Provinces the deficiency is considerable to large.

The following were the principal large totals during the week under review :—

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 12th February.—Except in Cuddapah there was general rain during the week. Heavy local storms occurred averaging over two inches in Vizagapatam, and over one inch in Godaveri and Kistna. There were slight showers in parts of Bellary, Chingleput, Tanjore, and South Canara. The water-supply is generally insufficient, except in Malabar and in parts of the Circars and the Deccan. Agricultural operations continue. The effect of the recent local storms on crops has not yet been ascertained, but some benefit to late dry crops must result. The harvest continues and the outturn of crops is generally middling. Pasture and fodder are getting scanty. The condition of cattle is normal. Prices are generally slightly easier, except in Chingleput, South Arcot, North Arcot, and Trichinopoly. There is no marked improvement in prospects.

Bombay.—For week ending 14th February.—There was rain throughout the presidency and it has been slightly injurious to crops in four districts. Crops have been damaged by blight, cold, or locusts in six districts. Cotton is poor in Bijapur and Dharwar. Harvesting of late crops is progressing in seven, and preparations for next season in four, districts. Fodder is sufficient. Agricultural stock is healthy. Prices have fallen in six districts and are almost stationary elsewhere. The price of jowari in Sholapur was 14½ seers per rupee. The average number on relief works, including dependants, was—Sholapur 8,648; of whom 8,078 are relief workers and 570 dependants. On gratuitous relief—Sholapur 4,095.

Bengal.—For week ending 14th February.—There was rain over the greater part of the province during the week. The rain has benefited the spring crops generally, but in parts of Darbhanga and Monghyr the crops in flower are reported to have been slightly damaged. Prospects of the poppy crop are favourable. In Monghyr the late-sown poppy plants have improved. Boro or spring rice is being transplanted and is doing well. Ploughing is going on in several parts of Bengal Proper. Mustard, potatoes, and other early spring crops are still being gathered, and the pressing of sugarcane is in progress. There has been no marked change in prices for some weeks past. The fodder-supply is generally sufficient except at Kurigram in Rangpur and in the flooded tracts of Champaran.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 16th February.—Good rain fell throughout the provinces, greatly benefiting the spring crops, especially those on unirrigated lands. Slight damage from hail is reported in some districts. Poppy is doing well and prospects are very favourable. Markets are well supplied and prices show a tendency to fall in places.

Punjab.—For week ending 14th February.—Rain has fallen all over the province, averaging from  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch to 5 inches. Sugarcane-pressing is still going on in some districts. Extra spring crops are being sown in Amritsar. The recent rains have benefited the crops and improved their condition in all districts and good harvests are expected. Stocks of food-grain are sufficient. Cattle are generally in good condition except in parts of Dera Ismail Khan. Fodder is scarce in parts of Amritsar and Dera Ismail Khan; and sufficient elsewhere. Prices are rising slightly in Peshawar, are unchanged in Delhi, Mooltan, and Lahore; and are falling elsewhere.

Wheat is selling from 10½ to 15, gram 11½ to 13, barley 19, bulrush millet 18 to 23, maize 17½ to 22½, and great millet 19 seers per rupee.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 14th February.—General rain fell at the beginning of the week but the weather has since cleared. The heaviest falls were in Chanda 5½ inches; Seoni nearly 4½; Bhandara 3½; Damoh, Jubbulpore, and Mandla over 3; elsewhere the falls varied between a half and two and a half inches, except in Nimar which received only a few cents. Hail-storms are reported from Saugor, Jubbulpore, Narshinghpur, Hoshangabad, Betul, and Nagpur, but the damage done is believed to have been slight. The rain has done a little harm to some of the spring pulses and to produce lying on the threshing floors, but its general effect has been to materially improve the condition of the wheat crop, especially all that was sown late. The price of jwar is generally steady or falling, except for a slight rise in Wardha and Nagpur; the price of rice has risen in Bhandara, Balaghat, and Raipur. Relief confined to 187 sick in poor-houses and 151 children in orphanages.

Burma.—For week ending 12th February.—In Lower Burma threshing is completed in five districts. In Upper Burma sowing of dry weather crops continues. Harvesting of cotton, wheat, gram, peas, and beans has begun in some districts. The standing crops are generally in good condition. The price of paddy has risen slightly in Akyab, Thongwa, and Pakokku; and fallen slightly in Rangoon, Amherst, Thayetmyo, Mandalay, and Bhamo; elsewhere it is stationary.

Assam.—For week ending 15th February.—The weather is seasonable. Land is under preparation for summer paddy in most districts of the Assam Valley and for low land late rice in Sylhet. Gathering of pulses and mustard, pressing of sugarcane, and pruning of tea are in progress. Prices of common rice—Sibsagar 12, Sylhet and Dhubri 11½, Gauhati 11, Tezpur 10½, Silchar 10, and Nowgong and Dibrugarh 9 seers per rupee. Fodder is insufficient in Cachar, the Khasi and Jaintia Hills and the Naga Hills.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 16th February.—MYSORE: Prospects are fair. Paddy has been harvested in parts of Kolar and Shimoga, and sown in Chitaldrug. Prices have risen slightly in Kolar, Chitaldrug, and Kadur, but have fallen in Tumkur and Shimoga.

COORG: Threshing of rice and ragi (Eleusine coracana) continues. Coffee-picking is nearly completed. Prices of food-grains are stationary. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 14th February.—BERAR: Weather is cool and cloudy. Standing crops are in good condition. Cotton-picking and threshing of jowar continue. Of the winter crops wheat is in ear and linseed in pod. Ploughing of fields for the next monsoon crop has commenced. Fodder and water are enough for requirements. Prices show a tendency to fall. Prices—jowar—Akola 22, Amraoti 22, Basim 20, Buldana 24, Ellichpur 22, and Wun 23 seers per rupee.

HYDERABAD: Rainfall during the week 69 cents. The spring crops which are fit for harvest are likely to suffer by the rain which has been general throughout; but the winter rice crops of the Telingana district are much benefited. Prices of grain are almost stationary. Wheat—5½, coarse rice 6½, and jowari 11½ seers per current sicca rupee.

Rajputana.—For week ending 16th February.—There was general rain during the week amounting to four inches in Bhurtpore, two inches in Tonk and Dholepore, over one inch in Deoli, Kerowlee, Bundi, Ulwar, Jeypore, Pertabgarh, Jhallawar, Kotah, and Jeysulmere, and half an inch in Kherwara, Meywar, Marwar, Sirohi, Abu, and Ajmere. There were showers also in Shahpura, Bikanir, and Kishengarh. The standing crops and prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good. Pasturage or fodder is sufficient. Prices are rising in two States; falling in five; and are steady elsewhere.

Central India.—For week ending 14th February.—Rain fell throughout Central India during the week. More rain is wanted in the Bhopawar agency. The condition of the standing crops and the probable outturn are good in all agencies. Agricultural stock and pasturage are good everywhere. Prices are falling in Bundelkhand, Baghelkhand, and Bhopawar; and are steady elsewhere. The opium crops are in fairly good condition in Gwalior, Bhopal, Malwa, but are slightly injured by the rain in Bhopawar.

Kashmir.—For week ending 15th February.—The weather is cloudy. Prices continue below normal.

Nepal.—For week ending 14th February.—Rainfall 0·57. The recent rains have done much good to the crops. The weather is now sunny and bright although some mornings are foggy. Price—8½ seers per rupee.

PART V.

Bills introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for making Laws and Regulations, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council, and Bills published under Rule 28.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th February 1898:—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the list appended, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

1. All the amendments proposed by us are printed in antique type. Of these a large proportion are merely verbal and do not call for explanation or comment. All the more important are detailed in the following paragraphs of this Report.

3. Clause 4. Definitions.—We have omitted the proposed new definitions of "accused," "Court of Session" and "trial".

"Complaint."—We have restored this definition to its original form, and amended the definition of "offence" so as to make it cover acts on which proceedings under section 20 of the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871, may be founded.

"Judicial proceeding."—We have added the words "on oath" in this definition, because the power to take evidence on oath is the characteristic test of judicial proceedings. We have omitted the new words providing for consequent proceedings which the Bill as introduced proposed to add to the definition, as they appear to be too wide. On the other hand, we have altered the word "means" at the commencement of the definition into "includes" and have thus given the Courts a certain latitude of construction.

"Pleadings."—At the suggestion of the Bengal Government we have restored the definition as it is in the Code of 1882.

4. Clause 9.—We have inserted here as in a more appropriate place sub-section (2) of clause 269 and sub-section (2) of clause 193 of the Bill as introduced.

5. Clause 10.—In sub-section (2) we have altered the limit of time from three months to six months to meet a suggestion of the Bengal Government.

6. Clause 14.—We have added a provision to sub-section (2) to enable Special Magistrates to be appointed for a term only. This will empower Local Governments to appoint Special Magistrates on probation and also to make appointments to meet temporary emergencies.

7. Clause 17.—We have recast sub-section (4) so as to provide for urgent applications being disposed of by the District Magistrate in the frequent case where there is no Additional or Assistant Sessions Judge for the division in question.

8. We have omitted clause 20 of the Bill as introduced, on the representation of the Bombay Government that the provision has now become obsolete and is no longer required. We have broken up clause 18 into two, which will prevent any alteration in the numbering of the following clauses.

9. Clause 21.—The Government of Madras recommend that all Presidency Magistrates should be subordinate to the Chief Presidency Magistrate in the like manner as, in a district, Magistrates are subordinate to the District Magistrate. This appears to be sound in principle, and the clause as it stands enables the Chief Presidency Magistrate, with the sanction of the Local Government, to make rules on this footing. We are informed, however, that in Calcutta the Presidency Magistrates are not considered as subordinate to the Chief Presidency Magistrate. If this be so, we have no doubt that the Local Government in sanctioning rules under this clause will pay such regard as it thinks right to any existing practice.

10. Clause 25.—We have added to the list of ex officio Justices of the Peace, Governors, Lieutenant-Governors and Chief Commissioners.

11. Clause 29.—We have omitted the proviso to this clause and specified in the second schedule the respective Courts by which offences under other laws are triable.

12. Clause 30.—We have amended this clause so as to make it capable of application to all non-regulation provinces. We have further, on the recommendation of the Punjab Government, authorized Local Governments to invest first class Magistrates with powers under the clause.

13. Clause 31.—In accordance with the recommendation of the Judges of the Bombay High Court, we have dispensed with the necessity for confirmation of sentences passed by Assistant Sessions Judges where such sentences exceed four years. For the most part such confirmation is simply a preliminary to an appeal and interposes a useless formality which delays the hearing of the appeal on the merits.

14. Clause 34.—Similar considerations apply to the confirmation of sentences passed by specially empowered Magistrates. We have therefore dispensed with such confirmation.

15. Clause 35.—On the recommendation of the High Court, North-Western Provinces, we have empowered Courts in India, as in England, to pass concurrent, as well as consecutive, sentences of transportation and imprisonment. The effect of this change will probably be to mitigate sentences and at the same time also to discourage frivolous appeals. We have also omitted the first of the proposed illustrations to this clause, as we think it might give rise to difficulties.

16. Clause 40.—We have omitted the illustration to this clause, as we think that in the case proposed to be covered by it the officer should be re-appointed.

17. Clause 42.—We have omitted sub-clause (c), as we think the matters for which it proposed to provide are sufficiently provided for by sub-clause (b) of this clause and Chapter IX.

18. Clause 54.—We have omitted the proposed sub-section (3), as we consider that the matter can best be dealt with by local legislation relating to chaukidars and village-policemen.

19. Clause 61.—We have omitted the proposed sub-section (2), as various difficulties have been pointed out in connection with its provisions.

20. Clause 83.—We have omitted the proposed sub-section (3), as we consider that the powers in question should only be exercised by the Commissioner of Police in Presidency-towns. Similar consequential alterations have also been made in clauses 85 and 86.

21. Clause 88.—We have omitted sub-section (3), as the trial of what is practically an interpleader suit in a Criminal Court might give rise to difficulty.

22. Clause 103.—We have added a new sub-section (4) so as to provide that where a person is searched under a search-warrant he shall be entitled to a list of all things taken from him.

23. Clause 107.—We have amended this clause. As it stood, proceedings could not be taken against a person outside the jurisdiction although he might be instigating a breach of the peace within the jurisdiction, but, as such extended power requires careful exercise, we have provided that the power of taking action in such cases shall only be exercised by Chief Presidency or District Magistrates.

We can find no reason for conferring powers under sub-section (3) of this clause (formerly clause 108), which relates to inferior Courts, on Courts of Session and High Courts; so we have limited the sub-section to Magistrates not empowered to act under sub-section (1).

24. Clause 108.—We have inserted as clause 108 the clause of which notice was given by the Government on the 21st December last. In inserting it we have made the following modifications:—

We have confined the jurisdiction to Chief Presidency and District Magistrates and to specially empowered Presidency and First Class Magistrates, and we have provided that the bond may be with or without sureties.

We have cut out the reference to "obscene matter," as we think that that is sufficiently provided for by the ordinary law. We have explained the reference to "seditious matter" by reference to the provisions of the proposed new section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, and we have included matter punishable under the proposed new section 153A of that Code.

We have cut out the reference to "defamatory matter" as that term is much too wide, and after consideration we have substituted the words "any matter concerning a Judge which amounts to criminal intimidation or defamation under the Indian Penal Code". The term "Judge" will, of course, have the meaning assigned to it by the Indian Penal Code. This perhaps does not protect all the public officers who, we think, are entitled to protection, but it is difficult to draw any other satisfactory line.

We have considered the question whether these orders should be subject to appeal or revision, and we have come to the conclusion that they ought to be subject to revision, as the High Court can then act of its own motion as well as on the petition of the party aggrieved. In case there should be any doubt on the point, we have provided in clause 439 (6) that all orders under the Code (not expressly excepted) made by an inferior Court shall be subject to revision by the High Court.

25. Clause 110.—We have added the offence of habitual cheating to sub-clause (d), we have omitted sub-clause (c) as unnecessary, and we have substituted a more specific provision for sub-clause (f) [now sub-clause (e)], which seemed dangerously wide.

26. Clause 118.—The proposal to substitute police supervision for giving security has received very little support from any quarter, and has been strongly condemned by the Government and High Court of the North-Western Provinces. We have therefore omitted sub-section (2) of this clause.

27. Clause 124.—We have re-drafted this clause in accordance with suggestions from Bombay.

28. Clause 131.—We are of opinion that the proposed extension of the powers contained in this clause to officers of volunteers is undesirable for the reasons stated by the Government of Bengal, and have therefore omitted the reference to volunteers.

29. Clause 139.—We have after consideration restored sub-section (2) of this clause to its original form, as on the whole it seems to us to be better that the verdict of the jury should be final.

30. Clause 145.—As the law stands at present, the date of the order under sub-section (1) of this clause is taken as the critical date for the purpose of determining actual possession. This appears to give an unfair advantage to a person who has forcibly dispossessed another. But difficulties arise when the test of actual possession at the time of the institution of the proceedings is departed from. We think that the proviso we have added to sub-section (4) goes as far as is possible to meet the evil in question without involving the Magistrate in an inquiry into title or right to possession, which is the function of a Civil Court.

31. Clause 157.—We have omitted the proposed addition to this clause as unnecessary.

32. Clause 160.—We have omitted the proposed proviso to this clause, as we think that the question of the attendance of parda-nashin ladies may be left to custom and controlled by executive orders.

33. Clause 161.—We have amended this clause by reverting to the law as it stood under the Codes of 1861 and 1872. Under those Codes a person examined by a police-officer was bound to answer all material questions, but was not liable to be prosecuted for giving false evidence in respect of his answers under section 193 of the Indian Penal Code (see I. L. R. 7 Cal. 121 and 10 Cal. 405). It seems to us unfair that a man should be liable to be convicted of giving false evidence on the strength or by the aid of a statement supposed to have been given to a police-officer, but which is not given on oath, which he has not signed, and which he has had no opportunity of verifying. Such statements may be hurriedly taken down as rough notes, the police-officer is not trained in taking evidence, and the notes are often fairied out by another officer. They bear no resemblance to depositions, and ought to have no weight as such attached to them. We are aware that there are inconveniences in abolishing the direct liability for giving false evidence to the police, but the balance of expediency seems to us to be in favour of the old law. The provisions of sections 202 and 203 of the Indian Penal Code appear to us to afford a sufficient safeguard against false information.

34. Clause 162.—This clause, as drafted, proposed to affirm the decision of the Allahabad High Court, which was in conflict with the decision of the Calcutta High Court. The Governments of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, Madras, Bombay and Burma and most of the authorities consulted approve the decision of the Allahabad High Court, but the question involved (namely, whether the accused is entitled to inspect statements taken down by the police under section 161) is full of difficulty. In the first place, it is essential in the interests of public justice that the sources of police information should be kept secret. If the names of informers or detectives and the nature of their information be disclosed, the detection of crime would be seriously crippled. In the second place, it is unfair to a witness that his evidence should be discredited on the strength of an alleged statement made to a policeman, which he may have had no opportunity of verifying or correcting. Such statements must necessarily be often taken down hurriedly and may be incorrectly copied out. They are not taken down as depositions, or with regard to the rules of evidence, but merely to aid the police in the course of their investigation. But, in the third place, it may be most important for the accused to show that a witness called for the prosecution is telling a story substantially different from that which he told when first questioned by the police. We have endeavoured to reconcile these conflicting interests by reverting to the language of the Codes of 1861 and 1872 and adding a proviso, compelling the Court, on the application of the accused, to refer to such statements and then empowering it in its discretion to allow him to have copies of them. We then provide for the mode in which these statements are to be used. It is clear that a witness ought not to have his credit impeached on the strength of a statement alleged to have been made to a policeman unless and until it is shown that he has made that statement.

35. Clause 167.—It has been held by the High Court of Madras that the clause does not contemplate remands for successive periods of fifteen days. We think this decision is right and have put in words to make the point clear. Any further proceedings should be taken under section 344.

36. Clause 169.—We have omitted the proposed sub-section (2), as we think that the point is sufficiently covered by clause 173 (3).

37. Clause 174.—On the suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces, we have omitted the proposed new sub-section (6) as unnecessary.

38. Clause 181.—On the recommendation of the High Court, North-Western Provinces, we have made provision in this clause for the Court by which the offences of kidnapping and abduction may be inquired into or tried.

39. Clause 191.—We have recast this clause so as to make it clear, first, that the accused shall be informed of his right to be tried by another Court; and, secondly, that, if he elects not to be tried by the Magistrate, he must signify his election as soon as possible.

40. Clause 194 (2).—The practice and procedure relating to criminal informations differs in many respects from the ordinary procedure laid down by this Code, as, for example, by dispensing with the preliminary inquiry before Magistrates. Now that the provisions of section 144 of Act X of 1875 are included in the Code instead of being contained in a separate Act, it is desirable to show that they are not subject to the general provisions of this Code. We have therefore prefixed the words "Notwithstanding anything in this Code contained" to this sub-section.

41. Clause 195.—We have, after consideration, restored this section to its original form, adding provisions to explain the ambiguous expression "the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie."

42. Clause 196.—We have added to the list of offences which can only be proceeded against under the order of the Government offences under sections 108A, 153A and 505. The two latter offences resemble in substance offences against the State, and offences under section 108A involve questions affecting foreign States.

43. Clause 202.—We have substituted the words "is not satisfied as to the truth of a complaint" for "sees reason to distrust the truth of a complaint" in this clause in order to give a little further latitude to the Magistrate's discretion.

44. Clause 222.—We have inserted the proposed sub-section (3) of clause 234 in this clause and have added a qualification to prevent the charge being framed in so vague a manner as to embarrass the accused.

45. Clause 225.—In accordance with the recommendation of the Calcutta High Court, we have omitted the proposed sub-section (2), as the point aimed at appears to be sufficiently covered by clause 537.

46. Clause 250.—We have inserted a heading to this clause to show that it applies to proceedings under the following Chapters as well as under Chapter XX.

47. Clauses 256 and 257.—After careful consideration we have adopted the redraft of these clauses suggested by the Judges of the Calcutta High Court. Even under these amended clauses, the right of cross-examination may be abused and witnesses unnecessarily harassed; but we think, on the whole, that the possible abuse of the system does not justify us in making any severer restriction on the existing right of the accused.

48. Clause 260.—We have included in sub-section (1) the offence of dishonest misappropriation of property under section 403 of the Penal Code.

49. Clause 292.—We have restored this clause substantially to the form which it had in the Code of 1872 and in the High Courts Criminal Procedure Act, 1875. We think that the right of reply should depend on the fact whether the accused does or does not produce evidence.

50. Clause 310.—We have omitted the proposed new clause (c) as unnecessary.

51. Clause 320.—The definition of "Judge" given by the Indian Penal Code is too wide, as it would include Honorary Magistrates and other persons not intended to be exempted from serving on juries. We have therefore limited the exemption to salaried Judges, whose public duties occupy their whole time. We have also made express provision for the exemption of legal practitioners in actual practice. They are exempt in England, and Local Governments have already exempted them in many parts of India. We think the exemption should be universal.

52. Clause 322.—On the recommendation of the North-Western Provinces High Court, we have provided for the local publication of extracts from the jury-list instead of the whole list.

53. L.—Special Provisions for High Court.—A question was raised in connection with these clauses whether the provisions of clause 275 relating to juries in Sessions Courts should not be extended to the High Court. We consider, however, that any alteration in the existing jury laws raises far-reaching questions of great difficulty upon which it is beyond the province of this Committee to enter.

54. Clause 345.—We have omitted the proposed references to sections 428, 429 and 430 of the Indian Penal Code in sub-section (2), as many objections have been raised to making offences under these sections compoundable.

55. Clause 376.—We considered a suggestion of the Calcutta High Court that, where one accused is sentenced to death and the other accused is sentenced to transportation only, the Court should have power to inquire into the facts of the case so far as relates to the latter. We think that the law should be left as it stands, as the Court can always communicate with the Local Government if it thinks that the sentence on the accused not sentenced to death should be remitted or reduced.

56. Clause 380.—We have omitted this clause in the Bill as introduced, as for reasons already given under clause 31 we think that the appeal should lie at once without the intermediate formality of confirmation. We have substituted a clause providing the procedure to be followed when a Magistrate not empowered under clause 562 is of opinion that a first offender should be dealt with under that provision.

57. Clause 388.—We have recast the proposed new sub-section (2) so as to enable a Court at once to pass sentence of imprisonment where a person ordered to pay money fails to enter into a bond undertaking to appear if the money is not paid or recovered by distress.

58. Clause 391.—We have altered the proposed new sub-section (3) in accordance with the suggestion of the North-Western Provinces High Court.

59. Clause 392.—A question has been raised as to the meaning of the term "by way of school discipline" in this clause. We have omitted the term and empowered the Local Government to provide for the whipping of juveniles in such manner as they may think fit.

60. Clause 399.—We have amended the drafting of the proposed new sub-section (3) to make its meaning clearer.

61. Clause 408.—We have recast the first proviso [now proviso (b)] to this clause to bring it into accord with clauses 31 and 34 as proposed to be amended by us. We have also provided that, when any person is convicted by a District Magistrate for an offence under section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, the appeal shall lie direct to the High Court. In the case of a Chief Presidency Magistrate this is already provided for.

62. Clause 411.—Our attention has been called to this clause, which confers on all Presidency Magistrates, whether stipendiary or honorary, final powers six times as great as those of a Sessions Judge or District Magistrate. Outside of Calcutta, we believe that Presidency Magistrates are all stipendiary Magistrates, but we are informed that in Calcutta there are over 100 Honorary Presidency Magistrates, many of whom have no legal training. We do not think it right that these extensive powers should be exercisable by non-stipendiary Magistrates, but, as there appears to be difficulty about differentiating their powers from those of stipendiary Magistrates, we have substituted three months for six months as the amount of the maximum sentence which can be given by any Presidency Magistrate without appeal.

63. Clause 431.—We think that an appeal against a sentence of fine should not abate by reason of the death of the accused, because it is a matter which affects his estate. We have accordingly excepted this case.

64. Clause 435.—We have restored this clause to its original form except that we have included in sub-section (3) proceedings under Chapter XII.

65. Clause 437.—We have restored this clause to its original form, as the proposed addition might give rise to difficulties.

66. Clause 438.—We have added a sub-section to enable an Additional Sessions Judge to exercise the power of a Sessions Judge under this chapter in cases transferred to him by the Sessions Judge.

67. Clause 439.—In accordance with various suggestions made we have modified sub-section (5) of this clause by providing that a party who is entitled to appeal and does not choose to exercise his right shall not be entitled to apply for revision. This will not interfere with the right of a revisional Court to interfere of its own motion where it is of opinion that substantial justice has not been done. We have also, as noticed above under clause 108, added a saving [sub-section (6)] of the general right of revision.

68. Clause 465.—We have omitted the proposed new sub-section (3) to which objection has been taken.

69. Clause 476.—We have omitted the proposed new sub-section (3) as the matter can more conveniently be dealt with in clause 537.

70. Clause 480.—We have omitted the proposed reference to section 174 of the Penal Code as we think that the procedure of this clause should be confined to offences committed in the presence of the Court.

71. Clause 487.—We have omitted the reference to Presidency Magistrates in this clause as they are now sufficiently numerous to prevent any difficulty arising if the clause is made applicable to them.

72. Clause 503.—It may be inconvenient that a Resident in a Native State should himself be required to take evidence on commission. We have therefore provided by a new sub-section (4) for the delegation by him of his functions to an officer who has not less than first class magisterial powers.

73. Clause 507.—Various High Courts have held that the depositions taken under this chapter are only evidence in the Court from which the commission issued, and that if the evidence is required in another Court a fresh commission must issue. We have therefore provided that depositions may, subject to certain qualifications, be received at subsequent stages of the case.

74. Clause 512.—The Bombay High Court have suggested that the provisions of this clause should be extended to cases where the offender is unknown and should not be confined to cases where he has absconded. We think, however, that a distinction should be drawn between the two cases, and therefore in adopting the Bombay High Court's suggestion we have provided that this procedure shall only apply to cases of great gravity, that it should only be put in force under an order of the High Court, and that mere delay, expense or inconvenience in obtaining the presence of the deponent should not be sufficient ground for making the deposition evidence against the person subsequently accused.

75. Clause 537.—We have omitted the words "whether interlocutory or final" proposed to be inserted after the word "orders," as we think they are unnecessary, having regard to the provisions of clause (a). We have added an Explanation which does not fetter the discretion of the Courts, but which directs their attention to the question whether objections for want of form have been taken at the earliest opportunity. This seems obviously right.

76. Clause 544.—The Bombay Government have suggested that restrictions should be imposed on the payment of the expenses of witnesses who are unnecessarily summoned. We think that, as the clause stands, the Local Government has full power to provide for such a matter by rule and therefore that further legislation is unnecessary.

77. Clause 550.—We have inserted a new clause after clause 549 giving police-officers express power to seize property which they suspect to have been stolen. This power is assumed in clause 523, which prescribes the procedure to be followed with respect to such property when seized, but, following the precedent of section 81 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, we think it is better to give the power expressly.

78. Clause 556 (as re-numbered).—We have added words to the Explanation to this clause to affirm a decision of the Allahabad High Court that a Magistrate is not disqualified from trying a case merely because he has had a local view. Of course, there may be other reasons arising out of his previous connection with the case which might render him unfit to try it, but these are left untouched by the clause.

79. Clause 557 (as re-numbered).—We have added a clause providing that pleaders should not sit as Honorary Magistrates in presidency-towns or districts in which they practise their profession. A pleader who has retired or is not engaged in practice in the district is often obviously the fittest person to be a Magistrate, but it is clearly wrong that a pleader should be alternating between practice and the Bench, acting one day as a Judge and another day as a pleader in the same Court. Of course, if he were appointed to act in a stipendiary post, he would necessarily give up his practice while so acting and no objection would arise. Having regard to the existing state of things, we have not gone so far as the English law relating to solicitors (Justices Qualification Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict., c. 18), which disqualifies them from being Justices in any county in which they act. We have merely provided that pleaders shall not sit while in actual practice.

80. Clause 562 (as re-numbered). First offenders.—We have altered the drafting of this clause to provide for two points. First, we think that these powers may be exercised by all Magistrates of the first class and by specially empowered Magistrates of the second class. Secondly, we have indicated the procedure to be followed when a Second Class Magistrate or a Third Class Magistrate who is not empowered considers that an order should be passed under this section.

81. Clause 563 (as re-numbered).—We have re-drafted this clause, as we propose to confine the exercise of the power of arrest to the Court having power to pass sentence, and not, as in England, to give power to any Magistrate to order the arrest of a first offender for breach of the conditions.

82. Clause 565 (as re-numbered). Habitual offenders.—In view of the strong objections that have been made to police-supervision, we have recast these clauses. In place of an order for police-supervision we propose to substitute an order simply requiring an habitual offender on release to give notice of his intended residence to the police; and we have empowered Local Governments, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, to make rules providing the manner in which notice of residence or change of residence is to be given.

83. Schedule II.—We have considered the proposal given notice of by the Government to make offences under section 124A of the Penal Code triable by Presidency Magistrates or Magistrates of the first class. We think it better to confine the jurisdiction in such cases to Chief Presidency and District Magistrates. We have, as already noticed, guarded this new jurisdiction by providing for an appeal to the High Court.

84. We have placed offences under section 153A of the Indian Penal Code on the same footing as offences under section 505 of that Code are at present, except that we have taken away the jurisdiction of Second Class Magistrates.

85. We have altered the Courts by which offences under section 211 of the Penal Code are triable, empowering Presidency Magistrates and Magistrates of the first class to try cases punishable with imprisonment for seven years or upwards.

86. On the recommendation of the Punjab Government, we have extended the power to try cases under sections 365, 369, 377, 382, 401, 435, 440, 465, 468 and 471 of the Penal Code to Presidency Magistrates and Magistrates of the first class.

* Minute of Dissent appended.

† I have signed subject to the remarks embodied in the Note of Dissent appended hereto.

I sign the Report subject to the following observations :—

Section 108.—This is a most objectionable section. Simply on information, which may or may not be true, any person, alleged to be disseminating or attempting to disseminate, or in anywise abetting the dissemination of, seditious matter or any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 153A, may be required to give security for good behaviour, and on failing to give such security may be rigorously imprisoned. This section should, therefore, be omitted. If it is, however, retained, it should not be put into force without previous Government sanction; all orders made under it should be subject to appeal to, and revision by, the High Court; the period of security should be reduced to one month and sureties should not be required.

Section 145, clause (4), proviso.—On re-consideration I reserve my opinion until discussion in Council.

Sections 162 and 172.—I believe these sections, as now modified, will do. But I reserve my opinion regarding them.

Section 275.—In a trial by jury before the High Court, just as before the Court of Session, a majority of the jury should, at the option of the accused, consist of persons neither Europeans nor Americans. In all cases both before the High Court and the Court of Session the trial should be by jury.

Section 439, clause (5).—This section should be omitted as unnecessarily harsh.

Section 526, clause (8).—The trial should not proceed beyond the stage at which the accused is called on for his defence. The appeal, if final, should not be heard; the result of the application should be awaited.

Schedule II, column 8, section 124A.—The offence created by this section should be heard by the High Court and by the Court of Session, and not by any inferior Court. The trial should be by jury. The rest of the Bill seems to be reasonable. But I reserve my opinion until discussion in Council.

The 16th February, 1898.

R. M. SAYANI.

I am glad to express my obligations to my Hon'ble Colleagues on the Select Committee for the courtesy and forbearance shown by them towards me, in the course of a protracted discussion that we had, from day to day, in connection with the several provisions and amendments in the draft Criminal Procedure Code. They have, however, not been able to agree with me as to some points; and it is only in respect of them that I feel bound to give expression to my dissentient views.

Clause 108.—The insertion as clause 108 of the clause of which notice was given by the Government on the 21st December last is, I submit, objectionable. Besides other exceptions to which it is open, the extension of the powers it confers is not safeguarded by a right of appeal to the High Court; while the scope of the clause is calculated to bring all Newspapers under a complete control of Magistrates, many of whom might not be inclined to give effect to the provisions of the clause upon mere information. It is desirable also to subject the initiation of proceedings under this clause, if it is allowed to stand in its present form, to the sanction of the Local Government, which is already provided for prosecutions either under section 124A or the proposed new section 153A.

Orders under this clause have no doubt been made subject to Revision by High Court, but that procedure would place a person concerned rather under a considerable disadvantage, as, under sub-section (1) of section 439 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of appeal by certain Sections specified therein. Besides, as a matter of practice, the High Courts are generally not disposed in the exercise of their Revisional powers to go into questions of appreciation of the weight of evidence.

Clause 162.—This clause, as drafted, substantially affirms a recent ruling of a majority of the Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court, which I understand is in conflict with the decisions of the Calcutta High Court.

As the proviso attached to sub-section (1) of section 162 stands, it would, I think, be difficult, if not impracticable, for an accused person to prove a statement alleged to have been made to a Policeman, unless or until such person were to call the Policeman himself as his own witness.

Such a step would ordinarily prove dangerous to the defence of an accused person, as a policeman, being in the attitude of a hostile witness, might on cross-examination depose to matters tending to prejudice the defence seriously.

Clause 172 (2).—In this sub-section (2) the words "but to aid it in such inquiry or trial" should be eliminated. It is not just that a document, forming a part of the "Brief" for Prosecution, should be permitted to be looked into by a Court conducting an enquiry or a trial, in absence, or without the knowledge, of an accused person, when he or his agent can have no access to such a document, it being a "sealed book" to him.

Clause 439(5).—This sub-section (5) tends to deprive the accused of the benefit of double remedy, which has been allowed to him under the existing law. It is rather unreasonable that while the High Court is to exercise, on its own motion, the power of Revision, even in a case of this description, the party aggrieved is denied the right of moving it for the same purpose.

Clause 526(8).—The proposal for conferring on the trying Magistrate the power of rejecting an application for leave to move the High Court for the transfer of a case is not a sound one. I may be allowed to invite the attention of the Council to the remarks of the Hon'ble Mr. Ilbert on the subject, in the Report of the proceedings of this Council dated the 25th January, 1884. An Application of the kind referred to in this clause is ordinarily made by the accused, and very seldom, or I should say rarely, by the Public Prosecutor or the Complainant. The power conferred upon a trying Magistrate is, I apprehend, liable to be abused where his mind is prejudiced with local feelings or like causes.

L. Special Provision for High Court.—I regret I am unable to appreciate the force of the observation made in the Report in connection with a question raised as to the composition of jury. I see no reason why the provisions of clause 275 of Criminal Procedure Code, relating to juries in Sessions Court, should not be extended as well to Trials held before the High Court in the Presidency-towns. The existing distinction as to the exercise and application of powers under the jury system is, to say the least, most illogical, if not invidious.

Schedule II, sections 124A and 153A of Column 8.—The alteration proposed to be made here, for making offences under sections 124A and 153A triable by the Chief Presidency or District Magistrate, is open to a grave objection. There is no question of lending undue ecclat or of giving notoriety to proceedings in cases of sedition. In absence of a specific provision in the Code, allowing such Trials to be held in the mufassal with the aid of jury, it is desirable, in the ends of justice, that persons accused of offences of sedition should be triable by independent Tribunals commanding the confidence of the people, so that no cause for any supposed distrust might arise.

A High Court or Sessions Court allowed to try cases with the aid of jury or assessors would generally be preferable to a District Magistrate, as in majority of instances such Prosecutions are likely to originate on his motion; and ordinarily he is the chief Executive authority also. If the law of sedition here is to be assimilated to the law of Great Britain, why should not the same safeguards be extended here which the humanity of the law allows there?

The Code provides remedy in such cases for applying for leave to transfer to High Court, but the procedure is attended with difficulties against which an accused person would have to contend, presumably to his disadvantage.

I would reserve my opinion as to one or two points.

BISHAMBAR NATH.

The 16th February, 1898.

I sign this Report with the following reservations:—

I disapprove of section 145 (4), proviso. The object of this can in my opinion be abundantly attained under the present law. It is distinctly an alteration of that law in respect of the power that it proposes to confer on a Magistrate, while no opportunity has been given to Local Governments or High Courts to express their opinion on this amendment. And all these authorities, except the Local Governments of Bengal and Assam, have approved of the present law as emphasized by the Bill. Lastly, it is a very dangerous innovation, and it is one that in my opinion is almost certain to lead to a practice which is altogether opposed to the principle of all trials, and thus will cause disastrous consequences to the party against whom such an order is passed. On the other hand, if a Magistrate gives such a party an opportunity of meeting the case which he may think is prima facie established, but which I may observe is not on the issue to which the proceedings have up to this time been directed, the proceedings will cease to have their summary character, and thus lose their principal recommendation. I shall take an opportunity, on an amendment to omit this proviso, to explain myself more fully. At present I merely state generally the grounds upon which I shall proceed.

In respect of the new section 108, as I understand that some of the members of this Committee will move an amendment disapproving of it, I reserve my opinion in regard to the manner in which this section is to operate as to the freedom of action by a Magistrate without sanction of Government and the finality of his order.

CONSTITUTION AND POWERS OF CRIMINAL COURTS AND OFFICES.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE CONSTITUTION OF CRIMINAL COURTS AND OFFICES.

A.—Classes of Criminal Courts.

6. Besides the High Courts and the Courts constituted under any law other than this Code for the time being in force, there shall be five classes of Criminal Courts in British India, namely :—

I.—Courts of Session :

II.—Presidency Magistrates :

III.—Magistrates of the first class :

IV.—Magistrates of the second class :

V.—Magistrates of the third class.

B.—Territorial Divisions.

7. (1) Every province (excluding the presidency-divisions) shall be a sessions division, or shall consist of sessions divisions : and every sessions division shall, for the purposes of this Code, be a district or consist of districts.

(2) The Local Government may alter the limits, or, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the number, of such divisions and districts.

(3) The sessions divisions and districts existing when this Code comes into force shall be sessions divisions and districts respectively, unless and until they are so altered.

(4) Every presidency-town shall, for the purposes of this Code, be deemed a district.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part II.—Constitution and Powers of Criminal Courts and Offices. Chapter II.—Of the Constitution of Criminal Courts and Offices.—Sections 8-15.)

8. (1) The Local Government may divide any district outside the presidency-towns into subdivisions, or make any portion of any such district a subdivision, and may alter the limits of any subdivision.

(2) All existing subdivisions which are now usually put under the charge of a Magistrate shall be deemed to have been made under this Code.

C.—Courts and Offices outside the Presidency-towns.

9. (1) The Local Government shall establish a Court of Session for every sessions division, and appoint a Judge of such Court.

(2) The Local Government may, by general or special order in the official Gazette, direct at what place or places the Court of Session shall hold its sittings; but, until such order be made, the Courts of Session shall hold their sittings as heretofore.

(3) The Local Government may also appoint Additional Sessions Judges, and Assistant Sessions Judges to exercise jurisdiction in one or more such Courts.

(4) A Sessions Judge of one sessions division may be appointed by the Local Government to be also an Additional Sessions Judge of another division, and in such case he may sit for the disposal of cases at such place or places in either division as the Local Government may direct.

(5) All Courts of Session existing when this Code comes into force shall be deemed to have been established under this Act.

10. (1) In every district outside the presidency-towns the Local Government shall appoint a Magistrate of the first class, who shall be called the District Magistrate.

(2) The Local Government may appoint any Magistrate of the first class to be an Additional District Magistrate for a period not exceeding six months, and such Additional District Magistrate shall have all or any of the powers of a District Magistrate under this Code as the Local Government may direct.

11. Whenever, in consequence of the office of a District Magistrate becoming vacant, any officer succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the district, such officer shall, pending the orders of the Local Government, exercise all the powers and perform all the duties respectively conferred and imposed by this Code on the District Magistrate.

12. (1) The Local Government may appoint as many persons as it thinks fit, besides the District Magistrate, to be Magistrates of the first, second or third class in any district outside the presidency-towns; and the Local Government, or the District Magistrate, subject to the control of the Local Government, may, from time to time, define local areas within which such persons may exercise all or any of the powers with which they may respectively be invested under this Code.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by such definition, the jurisdiction and powers of such persons shall extend throughout such district.

13. (1) The Local Government may place any Magistrate of the first or second class in charge of a subdivision, and relieve him of the charge as occasion requires.

(2) Such Magistrates shall be called Subdivisional Magistrates.

(3) The Local Government may delegate its powers under this section to the District Magistrate.

14. (1) The Local Government may confer upon any person all or any of the powers conferred or conferrable by or under this Code on a Magistrate of the first, second or third class in respect to particular cases or to a particular class or particular classes of cases, or in regard to cases generally, in any local area outside the presidency-towns.

(2) Such Magistrates shall be called Special Magistrates, and shall be appointed for such term as the Local Government may by general or special order direct.

(3) With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may delegate, with such limitations as it thinks fit, to any officer under its control the power conferred by sub-section (1).

(4) No powers shall be conferred under this section on any police-officer below the grade of Assistant District Superintendent, and no powers shall be conferred on a police officer except so far as may be necessary for preserving the peace, preventing crime and detecting, apprehending and detaining offenders in order to their being brought before a Magistrate, and for the performance by the officer of any other duties imposed upon him by any law for the time being in force.

15. (1) The Local Government may direct any two or more Magistrates in any place outside the presidency-towns to sit together as a Bench, and may by order invest such Bench with any of the powers conferred or conferrable by or under this Code on a Magistrate of the first, second or third class, and direct it to exercise such powers in such cases, or such classes of cases only, and within such local limits, as the Local Government thinks fit.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by any order

Powers exercisable under this section, every Bench in absence of such Bench shall have the special direction. powers conferred by this Code on a Magistrate of the highest class to which any one of its members who is present taking part in the proceedings as a member of the Bench belongs, and as far as practicable shall, for the purposes of this Code, be deemed to be a Magistrate of such class.

16. The Local Government may, or, subject to the control of the Local Government, the District Magistrate may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Code for the guidance of Magistrates' Benches in any district respecting the following subjects:—

- (a) the classes of cases to be tried;
- (b) the times and places of sitting;
- (c) the constitution of the Bench for conducting trials;
- (d) the mode of settling differences of opinion which may arise between the Magistrates in session.

17. (1) All Magistrates appointed under sections 12, 13 and 14, and all Benches constituted under section 15, shall be subordinate to the District Magistrate, and he may, from time to time, make rules or give special orders consistent with this Code as to the distribution of business among such Magistrates and Benches; and

(2) Every Magistrate (other than a Subdivisional Magistrate) and every Bench exercising powers in a subdivision shall also be subordinate to the Subdivisional Magistrate, subject, however, to the general control of the District Magistrate.

(3) All Assistant Sessions Judges shall be subordinate to the Sessions Judge in whose Court they exercise jurisdiction, and he may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Code as to the distribution of business among such Assistant Sessions Judges.

(4) The Sessions Judge may also, when he himself is unavoidably absent or incapable of acting, make provision for the disposal of any urgent application by an Additional or Assistant Sessions Judge or, if there be no Additional or Assistant Judge, by the District Magistrate, and such Judge or Magistrate shall have jurisdiction to deal with any such application.

(5) Neither the District Magistrate nor the Magistrates or Benches appointed or constituted under sections 12, 13, 14 and 15 shall be subordinate to the Sessions Judge, except to the extent and in the manner hereinafter expressly provided.

D.—Courts of Presidency Magistrates.

18. The Local Government shall, from time to time, appoint a sufficient number of persons (hereinafter called Presidency Magistrates) to be Magistrates for each of the presidency-towns, and shall appoint one of such persons to be Chief Presidency Magistrate for each such town.

19. Any two or more of such persons may (subject to the rules made by the Chief Presidency Magistrate under the power hereinafter conferred) sit together as a Bench.

20. Every Presidency Magistrate shall exercise jurisdiction in all places within the presidency-town for which he is appointed, and within the limits of the port of such town and of any navigable river or channel leading thereto, as such limits are defined under the law for the time being in force for the regulation of ports and port-dues.

21. Every Chief Presidency Magistrate shall exercise within the local limits of his jurisdiction all the powers conferred on him by this Code or which by any law or rule in force immediately before this Code comes into force are required to be exercised by any Senior or Chief Presidency Magistrate, and may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Code to regulate—

- (a) the conduct and distribution of business and the practice in the Courts of the Magistrates of the town;
- (b) the times and places at which Benches of Magistrates shall sit;
- (c) the constitution of such Benches;
- (d) the mode of settling differences of opinion which may arise between Magistrate in session; and

(e) any other matter which could be dealt with by a District Magistrate under his general powers of control over the Magistrates subordinate to him.

E.—Justices of the Peace.

22. The Governor General in Council, so far as regards the whole or any part of British India outside the presidency-towns, and every Local Government, so far as regards the territories subject to its administration (other than the towns aforesaid), may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint such European British subjects as he or it thinks fit to be Justices of the Peace within and for the territories mentioned in such notification.

23. The Local Government, so far as regards the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint to be Justices of the Peace within the limits of the town mentioned in such notification any persons resident within British India and not being the subjects of any foreign State whom the Local Government thinks fit.

24. (1) Every person now acting as a Justice of the Peace within and for any part of British India other than the said towns, under any commission issued by a High Court, shall be deemed to have been appointed under section 22 by the Governor General in Council to act as a Justice of the Peace for the whole of British India other than the said towns.

(2) Every person now acting as a Justice of the Peace within the limits of any of the said towns under any such commission shall be deemed to have been appointed under section 23 by the Local Government.

25. In virtue of their respective offices, the Ex officio Justices of the Peace, Governor General, Governors, Lieutenant-Governors and Chief Commissioners, the Ordinary Members of the Council of the Governor General, the Judges of the High Courts and the Recorder of Rangoon are Justices of the Peace within and for the whole of British India, Sessions Judges and District Magistrates are Justices of the Peace within and for the whole of the territories administered by the Local Government under which they are serving, and the Presidency Magistrates are Justices of the Peace within and for the towns of which they are respectively Magistrates.

F.—Suspension and Removal.

26. All Judges of Criminal Courts other than the High Courts established by Royal Charter, and all Magistrates, may be suspended or removed from office by the Local Government:

Provided that such Judges and Magistrates as now are liable to be suspended or removed from office by the Governor General in Council only shall not be suspended or removed from office by any other authority.

27. The Governor General in Council may suspend or remove from office any Justice of the Peace appointed by him, and the Local Government may suspend or remove from office any Justice of the Peace appointed by it.

CHAPTER III.

POWERS OF COURTS.

A.—Description of Offences cognisable by each Court.

28. Subject to the other provisions of this Code, any offence under the Indian Penal Code may be tried—

- (a) by the High Court, or
- (b) by the Court of Session, or
- (c) by any other Court by which such offence is shewn in the eighth column of the Second Schedule to be triable.

Illustration.

A is committed to the Sessions Court on a charge of culpable homicide. He may be convicted of voluntarily causing hurt, an offence triable by a Magistrate.

29. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 447, any offence under any other law shall, when any Court is mentioned in this behalf in such law, be tried by such Court.

(2) When no Court is so mentioned, it may be tried by the High Court or by any Court constituted under this Code by which such offence is shewn in the eighth column of the Second Schedule to be triable.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part II.—Constitution and Powers of Criminal Courts and Offices. Chapter III.—Powers of Courts.—Sections 30-35.)

30. In the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Punjab and Burma and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Coorg and Assam in Sind, and in those parts of the other Provinces in which there are Deputy Commissioners or Assistant Commissioners, the Local Government may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 29, invest the District Magistrate or any Magistrate of the first class with power to try as a Magistrate all offences not punishable with death.

B.—Sentences which may be passed by Courts of various Classes.

Sentences which High Courts and Sessions Judges may pass. 31. (1) A High Court may pass any sentence authorised by law.

(2) A Sessions Judge or Additional Sessions Judge may pass any sentence authorised by law; but any sentence of death passed by any such Judge shall be subject to confirmation by the High Court.

(3) An Assistant Sessions Judge may pass any sentence authorised by law, except a sentence of death or of transportation for a term exceeding seven years, or of imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years.

32. (1) The Courts of Magistrates may pass sentences which the following sentences, Magistrates may pass, namely:—

(a) Courts of Presidency Magistrates and of Magistrates of the first class: { Imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, including such solitary confinement as is authorised by law; Fine not exceeding one thousand rupees; Whipping.

(b) Courts of Magistrates of the second class: { Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, including such solitary confinement as is authorised by law; Fine not exceeding two hundred rupees. Whipping (if specially empowered).

(e) Courts of Magistrates of the third class: { Imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; Fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

(2) The Court of any Magistrate may pass any lawful sentence, combining any of the sentences which it is authorised by law to pass.

(3) No Court of any Magistrate of the second class shall pass a sentence of whipping unless it is specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

33. (1) The Court of any Magistrate may award such term of imprisonment in default of payment of fine as is authorised by law in case of such default:

Provided that—

(a) the term is not in excess of the Magistrate's powers under this Code:

(b) in any case decided by a Magistrate where imprisonment has been awarded as part of the substantive sentence, the period of imprisonment awarded in default of payment of the fine shall not exceed one-fourth of the period of imprisonment which such Magistrate is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence otherwise than as imprisonment in default of payment of the fine.

(2) The imprisonment awarded under this section may be in addition to a substantive sentence of imprisonment for the maximum term awardable by the Magistrate under section 32.

34. The Court of a Magistrate, specially empowered under section 30, may pass any sentence authorised by law, except a sentence of death or of transportation for a term exceeding seven years or imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years.

35. (1) When a person is convicted at one trial of two or more distinct offences, the Court may sentence him, for such offences, to the several punishments prescribed therefor which such Court is competent to inflict; such punishments, when consisting of imprisonment or transportation, to commence the one after the expiration of the other in such order as the Court may direct, unless the Court directs that such punishments shall run concurrently.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part II.—Constitution and Powers of Criminal Courts and Offices. Chapter III.—Powers of Courts.—Sections 38-41. Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter IV.—Of Aid and Information to the Magistrates, the Police and Persons making Arrests.—Section 42.)

(a) In the case of consecutive sentences, it shall not be necessary for the Court, by reason only of the aggregate punishment for the several offences being in excess of the punishment which it is competent to inflict on conviction of a single offence, to send the offender for trial before a higher Court:

Provided as follows:—

- (a) in no case shall such person be Maximum term of sentenced to punishment. imprisonment for a longer period than fourteen years:
- (b) if the case is tried by a Magistrate (other than a Magistrate acting under section 34), the aggregate punishment shall not exceed twice the amount of punishment which he is, in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction, competent to inflict.
- (3) For the purpose of confirmation or appeal aggregate sentences passed under this section in case of convictions for several offences at one trial shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

EXPLANATION.—Separable offences which come within the provisions of section 71 of the Indian Penal Code are not distinct offences within the meaning of this section.

Illustration.

A breaks into a house with intent to commit theft and steals property therein. A has not committed distinct offences.

C.—Ordinary and Additional Powers.

36. All District Magistrates, Subdivisional Magistrates and Magistrates of the first, second and third classes, have the powers hereinafter respectively conferred upon them and specified in the third schedule. Such powers are called their "ordinary powers."

37. In addition to his ordinary powers, any Subdivisional Magistrate or any Magistrate of the first, second or third class may be invested by the Local Government or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, with any powers specified in the fourth schedule as powers with which he may be invested by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

38. The power conferred on the District Magistrate by section 37 shall be exercised subject to the control of the Local Government.

D.—Conferment, Continuance and Cancellation of Powers.

39. (1) In conferring powers under this Code the Local Government may, by order, empower persons specially by name or in virtue of their office, or classes of officials generally by their official titles.

(2) Every such order shall take effect from the date on which it is communicated to the person so empowered.

40. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government who has been invested with any powers under this Code throughout any local area is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within a like local area under the same Local Government, he shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, or has otherwise directed, continue to exercise the same powers in the local area to which he is so transferred.

41. (1) The Local Government may withdraw all or any of the powers conferred under this Code on any person by it or by any officer subordinate to it.

(2) Any powers conferred by the District Magistrate may be withdrawn by the District Magistrate.

PART III. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

CHAPTER IV.

OF AID AND INFORMATION TO THE MAGISTRATES, THE POLICE AND PERSONS MAKING ARRESTS.

42. Every person is bound to assist a Magistrate or police-officer reasonably demanding his aid, whether within or without the presidency towns,—

- (a) in the taking or preventing the escape of any other person whom such Magistrate or police-officer is authorised to arrest;

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter IV.—Of Aid and Information to the Magistrates, the Police and Persons making Arrests.—Sections 43-45.)

- (b) in the prevention or suppression of a breach of the peace, or in the prevention of any injury attempted to be committed to any railway, canal, telegraph or public property.

43. When a warrant is directed to a person other than a police-officer, any other person may aid in the execution of such warrant, if the person to whom the warrant is directed be near at hand and acting in the execution of the warrant.

44. (1) Every person, whether within or without the presidency-towns, aware of the commission of, or of the intention of any other person to commit, any offence punishable under the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (namely), 121, 121A, 122, 123, 124, 124A, 125, 126, 130, 143, 144, 145, 147, 148, 302, 303, 304, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 402, 435, 436, 449, 450, 456, 457, 458, 459 and 460, shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon the person so aware, forthwith give information to the nearest Magistrate or police-officer of such commission or intention.

(2) For the purposes of this section the term "offence" includes any act committed at any place out of British India which would constitute an offence if committed in British India.

45. (1) Every village-headman, village-accountant, village-watchman, village-police-officer, owner or occupier of land, and the agent of any such owner or occupier, and every officer employed in the collection of revenue or rent of land on the part of Government or the Court of Wards, shall forthwith communicate to the nearest Magistrate or to the officer in charge of the nearest police-station, whichever is the nearer, any information which he may obtain respecting—

- (a) the permanent or temporary residence of any notorious receiver or vendor of stolen property in any village of which he is headman, accountant, watchman or police-officer, or in which he owns or occupies land, or is agent, or collects revenue or rent;

- (b) the resort to any place within, or the passage through, such village of any person whom he knows, or reasonably suspects, to be a thug, robber; escaped convict or proclaimed offender;

- (c) the commission of, or intention to commit, in or near such village any non-bailable offence or any offence punishable under sections 143, 144, 145, 147 or 148 of the Indian Penal Code;

XLV of 1860

- (d) the occurrence in or near such village of any sudden or unnatural death or of any death under suspicious circumstances;

- (e) the commission of, or intention to commit, at any place out of British India near such village any act which, if committed in British India, would be an offence punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code, namely, 302, 304, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 402, 435, 436, 449, 450, 457, 458, 459 and 460;

XLV of 1860

- (f) any matter likely to affect the maintenance of order or the prevention of crime or the safety of person or property respecting which the District Magistrate, by general or special order made with the previous sanction of the Local Government, has directed him to communicate information.

(2) In this section—

- (i) "village" includes village-lands; and

- (ii) the expression "proclaimed offender" includes any person proclaimed as an offender by any Court or authority established or continued by the Governor General in Council in any part of India in respect of any act which, if committed in British India, would be punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code, namely, 302, 304, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 402, 435, 436, 449, 450, 457, 458, 459 and 460.

XLV of 1860

- (3) Subject to rules in this behalf to be made by the Local Government, the District Magistrate may from time to time appoint one or more persons to be village-headmen for the purposes of this section in any village for which there is no such headman appointed under any other law.

Appointment of village-headmen by District Magistrate in certain cases for purposes of this section.

[Act X of 1882, s. 45A.]

CHAPTER V.

OF ARREST, ESCAPE AND RETAKING.

A.—Arrest generally.

46. (1) In making an arrest the police-officer or other person making the same shall actually touch or confine the body of the person to be arrested, unless there be a submission to the custody by word or action.

(2) If such person forcibly resists the endeavour to arrest him, or attempts to evade the arrest, such police-officer or other person may use all means necessary to effect the arrest.

(3) Nothing in this section gives a right to cause the death of a person who is not accused of an offence punishable with death, or with transportation for life.

47. If any person acting under a warrant of arrest, or any police-officer having authority to arrest, has reason to believe that the person to be arrested has entered into, or is within, any place, the person residing in, or being in charge of, such place shall, on demand of such person acting as aforesaid or such police-officer, allow him free ingress thereto, and afford all reasonable facilities for a search therein.

48. If ingress to such place cannot be obtained under section 47, it shall be lawful in any case for a person acting under a warrant and in any case in which a warrant may issue, but cannot be obtained without affording the person to be arrested an opportunity of escape, for a police-officer to enter such place and search therein, and, in order to effect an entrance into such place, to break open any outer or inner door or window of any house or place, whether that of the person to be arrested or of any other person, if after notification of his authority and purpose, and demand of admittance duly made he cannot otherwise obtain admittance :

Provided that, if any such place is an apartment in the actual occupancy of a woman (not being the person to be arrested) who, according to custom, does not appear in public, such person or police-officer shall, before entering such apartment, give notice to such woman that she is at liberty to withdraw, and shall afford her every reasonable facility for withdrawing, and may then break open the apartment and enter it.

49. Any police-officer or other person authorised to make an arrest may break open any outer or inner door or window of any house or place in order to liberate himself or any other person who, having lawfully entered for the purpose of making an arrest, is detained therein.

50. The person arrested shall not be subjected to more restraint than is necessary to prevent his escape.

51. Whenever a person is arrested by a police-officer under a warrant which does not provide for the taking of bail, or under a warrant which provides for the taking of bail but the person arrested cannot furnish bail, and whenever a person is arrested without warrant, or by a private person under a warrant, and cannot legally be admitted to bail, or is unable to furnish bail, the officer making the arrest or, when the arrest is made by a private person, the police-officer to whom he makes over the person arrested, may search such person, and place in safe custody all articles, other than necessary wearing-apparel, found upon him.

52. Whenever it is necessary to cause a woman to be searched, the search shall be made by another woman, with strict regard to decency.

53. The officer or other person making any arrest under this Code may take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he has about his person, and shall deliver all weapons so taken to the Court or officer before which or whom the officer or person making the arrest is required by this Code to produce the person arrested.

B.—Arrest without Warrant.

54. (1) Any police-officer may, without an order from a Magistrate and without a warrant, arrest—

first—any person who has been concerned in any cognizable offence or against whom a reasonable complaint has been made, or credible information has been received, or a reasonable suspicion exists, of his having been so concerned ;

secondly—any person having in his possession without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which excuse shall lie on such person, any implement of house-breaking ;

thirdly—any person who has been proclaimed as an offender either under this Code or by order of the Local Government ;

fourthly—any person in whose possession anything is found which may reasonably be suspected to be stolen property or who may reasonably be suspected of having committed an offence with reference to such thing;

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter V.—Of Arrest, Escape and Retaking.—Sections 55-59.)

fifthly—any person who obstructs a police-officer while in the execution of his duty, or who has escaped, or attempts to escape, from lawful custody;

sixthly—any person reasonably suspected of being a deserter from Her Majesty's Army or Navy or of belonging to Her Majesty's Indian Marine Service and being illegally absent from that service;

seventhly—any person who has been concerned in, or against whom a reasonable complaint has been made or credible information has been received or a reasonable suspicion exists of his having been concerned in, any act committed at any place out of British India, which, if committed in British India, would have been punishable as an offence, and for which he is, under any law relating to extradition or under the Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881, or otherwise, liable to be apprehended or detained in custody in British India; and eighthly—any released convict committing a breach of the rules made under section 565, sub-section (3).

(2) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

55. (1) Any officer in charge of a police-station may, in like manner, arrest or cause to be arrested—

Arrest of vagabonds, habitual robbers, etc.

(a) any person found taking precautions to conceal his presence within the limits of such station, under circumstances which afford reason to believe that he is taking such precautions with a view to committing a cognizable offence; or

(b) any person within the limits of such station who has no ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself; or

(c) any person who is by repute an habitual robber, house-breaker or thief, or an habitual receiver of stolen property knowing it to be stolen, or who by repute habitually commits extortion or in order to the committing of extortion habitually puts or attempts to put persons in fear of injury.

(2) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

56. (1) When any officer in charge of a police-station requires any officer subordinate to him to arrest without a warrant (otherwise than in his presence) any person who may lawfully be arrested without a warrant, he shall deliver to the officer required to make the arrest an order in writing, specifying the person to be arrested and the offence or other cause for which the arrest is to be made.

(2) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

57. (1) When any person who in the presence of a police-officer has committed or has been accused of committing a non-cognizable offence refuses, on demand of such officer, to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which such officer has reason to believe to be false, he may be arrested by such officer in order that his name or residence may be ascertained.

(2) When the true name and residence of such person have been ascertained, he shall be released on his executing a bond with or without sureties to appear before a Magistrate if so required:

Provided that if such person be not resident in British India the bond must be secured by a surety or sureties resident in British India.

(3) Should the true name and residence of such person not be ascertained within twenty-four hours from the time of arrest or should he fail to execute the bond or, if so required, furnish sufficient sureties, he shall forthwith be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate having jurisdiction.

58. A police-officer may, for the purpose of pursuing offenders arresting without warrant into other jurisdictions, any person whom he is authorised to arrest under this chapter, pursue such person into any place in British India.

59. (1) Any private person may arrest any person who, in his view, commits a non-bailable and cognizable offence, or who has been proclaimed as an offender; and shall, without unnecessary delay, make Procedure on such over any person so arrested arrest, to a police-officer, or, in the absence of a police-officer, take such person to the nearest police-station.

(2) If there is reason to believe that such person comes under the provisions of section 54, a police-officer shall re-arrest him.

(3) If there is reason to believe that he has committed a non-cognizable offence, and he refuses on the demand of a police-officer to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which such officer has reason to believe to be false, he shall be dealt with under the provisions of section 57. If there is no sufficient reason to believe that he has committed any offence, he shall be at once released.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter V.—Of Arrest, Escape and Retaking.—Sections 60-67. Chapter VI.—Of Processes to compel Appearance.—Sections 68-70.)

60. A police-officer making an arrest without warrant shall, without unnecessary delay and subject to the provisions herein contained as to bail, take or send the person arrested before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, or before the officer in charge of a police-station.

61. No police-officer shall detain in custody a person arrested without warrant for a longer period than under all the circumstances of the case is reasonable, and such period shall not, in the absence of a special order of a Magistrate under section 167, exceed twenty-four hours exclusive of the time necessary for the journey from the place of arrest to the Magistrate's Court.

62. Officers in charge of police-stations shall report to the District Magistrate, or, if he so directs, to the Subdivisional Magistrate, the cases of all persons arrested without warrant, within the limits of their respective stations, whether such persons have been admitted to bail or otherwise.

63. No person who has been arrested by a police-officer shall be discharged except on his own bond, or on bail, or under the special order of a Magistrate.

64. When any offence is committed in the presence of a Magistrate within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may himself arrest or order any person to arrest the offender, and may thereupon, subject to the provisions herein contained as to bail, commit the offender to custody.

65. Any Magistrate may at any time arrest or direct the arrest, in his presence, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, of any person for whose arrest he is competent at the time and in the circumstances to issue a warrant.

66. If a person in lawful custody escapes or is rescued, the person from whose custody he escaped or was rescued may immediately pursue and arrest him in any place in British India.

67. The provisions of sections 47, 48 and 49 shall apply to arrests under section 66, although the person making any such arrest is not acting under a warrant and is not a police-officer having authority to arrest.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PROCESSES TO COMPEL APPEARANCE.

A.—Summons.

68. (1) Every summons issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing, in duplicate, signed and sealed by the presiding officer of such Court, or by such other officer as the High Court may, from time to time, by rule, direct.

(2) Such summons shall be served by a police-officer, or, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, by an officer of the Court issuing it or other public servant.

(3) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

69. (1) The summons shall, if practicable, be served personally on the person summoned, by delivering or tendering to him one of the duplicates of the summons.

(2) Every person on whom a summons is so served shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

(3) Service of a summons on an incorporated company or other body corporate may be effected by serving it on the secretary, local manager or other principal officer of the corporation, or by registered post letter addressed to the chief officer of the corporation in British India. In such case the service shall be deemed to have been effected when the letter would arrive in ordinary course of post.

70. Where the person summoned cannot by the exercise of due diligence be found, the summons may be served by leaving one of the duplicates for him with some adult male member of his family, or, in a presidency-town, with his servant residing with him; and the person with whom the summons is so left shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VI.—Of Processes to compel Appearance.—Sections 71-79.)

71. If service in the manner mentioned in sections 69 and 70 cannot be effected, the serving officer shall affix one of the duplicates of the summons to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which the person summoned ordinarily resides, and thereupon the summons shall be deemed to have been duly served.

72. (1) Where the person summoned is in the service of the Government or of a Railway Company, the Court issuing the summons shall ordinarily send it in duplicate to the head of the office in which such person is employed; and such head shall thereupon cause the summons to be served in manner provided by section 69, and shall return it to the Court under his signature with the endorsement required by that section.

(2) Such signature shall be evidence of due service.

73. When a Court desires that a summons issued by it shall be served at any place outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, it shall ordinarily send such summons in duplicate to a Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person summoned resides or is, to be there served.

74. (1) When a summons issued by a Court is served outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, and the serving officer not in any case where the officer who has served a summons is not present at the hearing of the case, an affidavit, purporting to be made before a Magistrate, that such summons has been served, and a duplicate of the summons purporting to be endorsed (in manner provided by section 69 or section 70) by the person to whom it was delivered or tendered or with whom it was left, shall be admissible in evidence, and the statements made therein shall be deemed to be correct unless and until the contrary is proved.

(2) The affidavit mentioned in this section may be attached to the duplicate of the summons and returned to the Court.

B.—Warrant of Arrest.

75. (1) Every warrant of arrest issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing, signed by the presiding officer, or, in the case of a Bench of Magistrates, by any member of such Bench, and shall bear the seal of the Court.

(2) Every such warrant shall remain in force until it is cancelled by the Court which issued it, or until it is executed.

76. (1) Any Court issuing a warrant for the arrest of any person may in its discretion direct by endorsement on the warrant that, if such person execute a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before the Court at a specified time and thereafter until otherwise directed by the Court, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall take such security and shall release such person from custody.

(2) The endorsement shall state—

- (a) the number of sureties;
- (b) the amount in which they and the person for whose arrest the warrant is issued are to be respectively bound; and

- (c) the time at which he is to attend before the Court.

(3) Whenever security is taken under this section, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall forward the bond to the Court.

77. (1) A warrant of arrest shall ordinarily be directed to one or more police-officers, and, when issued by a Presidency Magistrate, shall always be so directed, but any other Court issuing such a warrant may, if its immediate execution is necessary and no police-officer is immediately available, direct it to any other person or persons; and such person or persons shall execute the same.

(2) When a warrant is directed to more than one officers or persons, it may be executed by all, or by any one or more, of them.

78. (1) A District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate may direct a warrant to any landholder, farmer or manager of land within his district or subdivision for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or person who has been accused of a non-bailable offence, and who has eluded pursuit.

(2) Such landholder, farmer or manager shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant, and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued is in, or enters on, his land or farm, or the land under his charge.

(3) When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest police-officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under section 76.

79. A warrant directed to any police-officer may also be executed by any other police-officer whose name is endorsed upon the warrant by the officer to whom it is directed or endorsed.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VI.—Of Processes to compel Appearance.—Sections 80-87.)

80. The police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall notify the substance thereof to the person to be arrested, and, if so required, shall show him the warrant.

81. The police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall (subject to the provisions of section 76 as to security) without unnecessary delay bring the person arrested before the Court before which he is required by law to produce such person.

82. A warrant of arrest may be executed at any place in British India.

83. (1) When a warrant is to be executed outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same, such Court may, instead of directing such warrant to a police-officer, forward the same by post or otherwise to any Magistrate or District Superintendent of Police or the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town within the local limits of whose jurisdiction it is to be executed.

(2) The Magistrate or District Superintendent or Commissioner to whom such warrant is so forwarded shall endorse his name thereon and, if practicable, cause it to be executed in manner hereinbefore provided within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

84. (1) When a warrant directed to a police-officer is to be executed beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same, he shall ordinarily take it for endorsement either to a Magistrate or to a police-officer not below the rank of an officer in charge of a station, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed.

(2) Such Magistrate or police-officer shall endorse his name thereon, and such endorsement shall be sufficient authority to the police-officer to whom the warrant is directed to execute the same within such limits, and the local police shall, if so required, assist such officer in executing such warrant.

(3) Whenever there is reason to believe that the delay occasioned by obtaining the endorsement of the Magistrate or police-officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed will prevent such execution, the police-officer to whom it is directed may execute the same without such endorsement in any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it.

(4) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

85. When a warrant of arrest is executed outside the district in which it was issued, the person arrested shall, unless the Court which issued the warrant is within twenty miles of the place of arrest, or is nearer than the Magistrate or District Superintendent of Police or the Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the arrest was made, or unless security is taken under section 76, be taken before such Magistrate or Commissioner or District Superintendent.

86. (1) Such Magistrate or District Superintendent or Commissioner shall, if the person arrested appears to be the person intended by the Court which issued the warrant, direct his removal in custody to such Court:

Provided that if the offence is bailable, and such person is ready and willing to give bail to the satisfaction of such Magistrate, District Superintendent or Commissioner, or a direction has been endorsed under section 76 on the warrant and such person is ready and willing to give the security required by such direction, the Magistrate, District Superintendent or Commissioner shall take such bail or security, as the case may be, and forward the bond to the Court which issued the warrant.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a police-officer from taking security under section 76.

C.—Proclamation and Attachment.

87. (1) If any Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.

(2) The proclamation shall be published as follows:—

(a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(b) it shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which such person ordinarily resides

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VI.—Of Processes to compel Appearance.—Sections 88-91.)

or to some conspicuous place of such town or village; and

(c) a copy thereof shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

(3) A statement in writing by the Court issuing the proclamation to the effect that the proclamation was duly published on a specified day shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of this section have been complied with, and that the proclamation was published on such day.

88. (1) The Court issuing a proclamation under Attachment of pro- section 87 may at any time perty of person ab- order the attachment of scending. any property, moveable or immoveable, or both, belonging to the proclaimed person.

(2) Such order shall authorise the attachment of any property belonging to such person within the district in which it is made; and it shall authorise the attachment of any property belonging to such person without such district when endorsed by the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate within whose district such property is situate.

(3) If the property ordered to be attached be debts or other moveable property, the attachment under this section shall be made—

(a) by seizure; or

(b) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(c) by an order in writing prohibiting the delivery of such property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(d) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

(4) If the property ordered to be attached be immoveable, the attachment under this section shall, in the case of land paying revenue to Government, be made through the Collector of the district in which the land is situate, and in all other cases—

(e) by taking possession; or

(f) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(g) by an order in writing prohibiting the payment of rent or delivery of property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(h) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

(5) If the property ordered to be attached consists of live stock or is of a perishable nature, the Court may, if it thinks it expedient, order immediate sale thereof, and in such case the proceeds of the sale shall abide the order of the Court.

(6) The powers, duties and liabilities of a receiver appointed under this section shall be the same as those of a receiver appointed under Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Civil Procedure. XIV of 1882.

(7) If the proclaimed person does not appear within the time specified in the proclamation, the property under attachment shall be at the disposal of Government; but it shall not be sold until the expiration of six months from the date of the attachment, unless it is subject to speedy and natural decay, or the Court considers that the sale would be for the benefit of the owner, in either of which cases the Court may cause it to be sold whenever it thinks fit.

89. If, within two years from the date of Restoration of at- the attachment, any person tached property. whose property is or has been at the disposal of Government, under sub-section (7) of section 88, appears voluntarily or is apprehended and brought before the Court by whose order the property was attached, or the Court to which such Court is subordinate, and proves to the satisfaction of such Court that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding execution of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as to enable him to attend within the time specified therein, such property, or, if the same has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale, or, if part only thereof has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale and the residue of the property, shall, after satisfying thereout all costs incurred in consequence of the attachment, be delivered to him.

D.—Other Rules regarding Processes.

90. A Court may, in any case in which it is Issue of warrant in empowered by this Code lieu of, or in addition to, issue a summons for the appearance of any person other than a juror or assessor, issue, after recording its reasons in writing, a warrant for his arrest—

(a) if, either before the issue of such summons, or after the issue of the same but before the time fixed for his appearance, the Court sees reason to believe that he has absconded or will not obey the summons; or

(b) if at such time he fails to appear and the summons is proved to have been duly served in time to admit of his appearing in accordance therewith and no reasonable excuse is offered for such failure.

91. When any person for whose appearance Power to take bond or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant is present

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VI.—Of Processes to compel Appearance. —Sections 92-93. Chapter VII.—Of Processes to compel the production of Documents and other Moveable Property, and for the Discovery of Persons wrongfully confined.—Sections 94-98.)

in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond with or without sureties for his appearance in such Court.

92. When any person who is bound by any bond taken under this Code does not so appear, the officer presiding in such Court may issue a warrant directing that such person be arrested and produced before him.

93. The provisions contained in this Chapter relating to a summons and warrant, and their issue, service and execution, shall, so far as may be, apply to every summons and every warrant of arrest issued under this Code.

CHAPTER VII.

OF PROCESSES TO COMPEL THE PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND OTHER MOVEABLE PROPERTY, AND FOR THE DISCOVERY OF PERSONS WRONGFULLY CONFINED.

A.—Summons to produce.

94. (1) Whenever any Court, or, in any place beyond the limits of the towns of Calcutta and Bombay, any officer in charge of a police-station, considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code by or before such Court or officer, such Court may issue a summons, or such officer a written order, to the person in whose possession or power such document or thing is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce it, or to produce it, at the time and place stated in the summons or order.

(2) Any person required under this section merely to produce a document or other thing shall be deemed to have complied with the requisition if he cause such document or thing to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 123 and 124, or to apply to a letter, post-card, telegram or other document or any parcel or thing in the custody of the Postal or Telegraph authorities.

95. (1) If any document, parcel or thing in such custody is, in the opinion of any District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate, High Court or Court of Session, wanted for the purpose of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, such Magistrate or Court may require the Postal or Telegraph authorities, as the case may be, to deliver such document, parcel or thing to such person as such Magistrate or Court directs.

(2) If any such document, parcel or thing is, in the opinion of any other Magistrate, or of any Commissioner of Police or District Superintendent of Police, wanted for any such purpose, he may require the Postal or Telegraph Department, as the case may be, to cause search to be made for and to detain such document, parcel or thing pending the orders of any such District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate or Court.

B.—Search-warrants.

96. (1) Where any Court has reason to believe that a person to whom a summons or order under section 94 or a requisition under section 95, sub-section (1), has been or might be addressed will not or would not produce the document or thing as required by such summons or requisition, or where such document or thing is not known to the Court to be in the possession of any person, or where the Court considers that the purposes of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code will be served by a general search or inspection, it may issue a search-warrant, and the person to whom such warrant is directed may search or inspect in accordance therewith and the provisions hereinafter contained.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall authorise any Magistrate other than a District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate to grant a warrant to search for a document, parcel or other thing in the custody of the Postal or Telegraph authorities.

97. The Court may, if it thinks fit, specify in the warrant the particular place or part thereof to which only the search or inspection shall extend, and the person charged with the execution of such warrant shall then search or inspect only the place or part so specified.

98. (1) If a District Magistrate, Subdivisional Magistrate, Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, upon information and after such inquiry as he thinks necessary, has reason to believe that any place is used for the deposit or sale of stolen property, or for the deposit or sale or manufacture of forged documents, false seals or counterfeit stamps or coin, or instruments or materials for counterfeiting coin or stamps or for forging, or that any forged documents, false seals or counterfeit stamps or coin, or instruments or materials used for counterfeiting coin or stamps

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VII.—Of Processes to compel the production of Documents and other Moveable Property, and for the Discovery of Persons wrongfully confined.—Sections 98-102.)

or for forging, are kept or deposited in any place, he may by his warrant authorise any police-officer above the rank of a constable—

- (a) to enter, with such assistance as may be required, such place, and
  - (b) to search the same in manner specified in the warrant, and
  - (c) to take possession of any property, documents, seals, stamps or coins therein found which he reasonably suspects to be stolen, unlawfully obtained, forged, false or counterfeit, and also of any such instruments and materials as aforesaid, and
  - (d) to convey such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials before a Magistrate, or to guard the same on the spot until the offender is taken before a Magistrate, or otherwise to dispose thereof in some place of safety, and
  - (e) to take into custody and carry before a Magistrate every person found in such place who appears to have been privy to the deposit, sale or manufacture or keeping of any such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials, knowing or having reasonable cause to suspect the said property to have been stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained, or the said documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials to have been forged, falsified or counterfeited, or the said instruments or materials to have been or to be intended to be used for counterfeiting coin or stamps or for forging.
- (2) The provisions of this section with respect to—
- (a) counterfeit coin,
  - (b) coin suspected to be counterfeit, and
  - (c) instruments or materials for counterfeiting coin,
- shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply, respectively, to—
- (a) pieces of metal made in contravention of the Metal Tokens Act, 1889, or brought into British India in contravention of any notification for the time being in force under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878,
  - (b) pieces of metal suspected to have been so made or to have been so brought into British India or to be intended to be issued in contravention of the former of those Acts, and

(c) instruments or materials for making pieces of metal in contravention of that Act.

99. When, in the execution of a search-warrant at any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued the same, any of the things for which search is made are found, such things, together with the list of the same prepared under the provisions hereinafter contained, shall be immediately taken before the Court issuing the warrant, unless such place is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction therein than to such Court, in which case the list and things shall be immediately taken before such Magistrate; and, unless there be good cause to the contrary, such Magistrate shall make an order authorising them to be taken to such Court.

C.—Discovery of Persons wrongfully confined.

100. If any Presidency Magistrate, Magistrate of the first class or Subdivisional Magistrate has reason to believe that any person is confined under such circumstances that the confinement amounts to an offence, he may issue a search-warrant, and the person to whom such warrant is directed may search for the person so confined; and such search shall be made in accordance therewith, and the person, if found, shall be immediately taken before a Magistrate, who shall make such order as in the circumstances of the case seems proper.

D.—General Provisions relating to Searches.

101. The provisions of sections 43, 75, 77, Direction, etc., of 79, 82, 83 and 84 shall, so far as may be, apply to all search-warrants issued under section 96, section 98 or section 100.

102. (1) Whenever any place liable to search is closed, any person residing in, or being in charge of, such place shall, on demand of the officer or other person executing the warrant, and on production of the warrant, allow him free ingress thereto, and afford all reasonable facilities for a search therein.

(2) If ingress into such place cannot be so obtained, the officer or other person executing the warrant may proceed in manner provided by section 48.

(3) Where any person in or about such place is reasonably suspected of concealing about his person any article for which search should be made, such person may be searched. If such person be a woman, the directions of section 52 shall be observed.

VIII of 1878.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part III.—General Provisions. Chapter VII.—Of Processes to compel the production of Documents and other Moveable Property, and for the Discovery of Persons wrongfully confined.—Sections 103-105. Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter VIII.—Of Security for keeping the Peace and for Good Behaviour.—Sections 106-107.)

103. (1) Before making a search under this chapter, the officer or other person about to make it shall call upon two or more respectable inhabitants of the locality in which the place to be searched is situate to attend and witness the search.

(2) The search shall be made in their presence, and a list of all things seized in the course of such search and of the places in which they are respectively found shall be prepared by such officer or other person and signed by such witnesses; but no person witnessing a search under this section shall be required to attend the Court as a witness of the search unless specially summoned by it.

(3) The occupant of the place searched, or some person in his behalf, shall, in every instance, be permitted to attend during the search, and a copy of the list prepared under this section, signed by the said witnesses, shall be delivered to such occupant or person at his request.

(4) When any person is searched under section 102 (3), a list of all things taken possession of shall be prepared, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to such person at his request.

E.—Miscellaneous.

104. Any Court may, if it thinks fit, impound any document or thing produced before it under this Code.

105. Any Magistrate may direct a search to be made in his presence of any place for the search of which he is competent to issue a search-warrant.

PART IV.*PREVENTION OF OFFENCES.*CHAPTER VIII.OF SECURITY FOR KEEPING THE PEACE AND FOR GOOD BEHAVIOUR.A.—Security for keeping the Peace on Conviction.

106. (1) Whenever any person accused of rioting, assault or other offence involving a breach of the peace, or of abetting the same, or of assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, or any person accused of committing criminal intimidation, is convicted of such offence before a High Court, a Court of Session or the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, and such Court is of opinion that it is necessary to require such person to execute a bond for keeping the peace, such Court may, at the time of passing sentence on such person, order him to execute a bond for a sum proportionate to his means, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace during such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit to fix.

(2) If the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond so executed shall become void.

(3) An order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

B.—Security for keeping the Peace in other cases and Security for Good Behaviour.

107. (1) Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class is informed that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity, or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, or disturb the public tranquillity, the Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period not exceeding one year as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

(2) Proceedings shall not be taken under this section unless either the person informed against or the place where the breach of the peace or disturbance is apprehended is within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, and no proceedings shall be taken before any Magistrate, other than a Chief Presidency or District Magistrate, unless both the person informed against, and the place where the breach of the peace or disturbance is apprehended, are within the local limits of the Magistrate's jurisdiction.

(3) When any Magistrate not empowered to proceed under sub-section (1) has reason to believe that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity, and that such breach of the peace or disturbance cannot be prevented otherwise than by detaining such person in custody, such Magistrate or Court may, after recording his reasons, issue a warrant for his arrest (if he is not already in custody or before the Court), and may send him before a Magistrate empowered to deal with the case, together with a copy of his reasons.

(4) A Magistrate before whom a person is sent under this section may in his discretion detain such person in custody until the completion of the inquiry hereinafter prescribed.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter VIII.—Of Security for keeping the Peace and for Good Behaviour.—Sections 108-115.)

108. Whenever a Chief Presidency or District Magistrate, or a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, has information that there is within the limits of his jurisdiction any person who, within or without such limits, either orally or in writing, disseminates or attempts to disseminate, or in anywise abets the dissemination of,— Security for good behaviour from persons disseminating seditious matter.

- (a) any seditious matter, that is to say, any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, or
- (b) any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 153A of the Indian Penal Code, or
- (c) any matter concerning a Judge which amounts to criminal intimidation or defamation under the Indian Penal Code, such Magistrate may (in manner hereinafter provided) require such person to shew cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

109. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class receives information—

Security for good behaviour from vagrants and suspected persons.

- (a) that any person is taking precautions to conceal his presence within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, and that there is reason to believe that such person is taking such precautions with a view to committing any cognisable offence, or
- (b) that there is within such limits a person who has no ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding one year, as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

110. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, or Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government receives information that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction—

Security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.

- (a) is by habit a robber, house-breaker or thief, or
- (b) is by habit a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or

- (c) habitually protects or harbours thieves or aids in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, or
- (d) habitually commits mischief, extortion or cheating or attempts so to do, or
- (e) habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of, offences involving a breach of the peace, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding three years, as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

IX of 1874.

111. The provisions of sections 109 and 110 do not apply to European British subjects in cases where they may be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874.

112. When a Magistrate acting under section 107, section 108, section 109 or section 110 deems it necessary to require any person to show cause under such section, he shall make an order in writing, setting forth the substance of the information received, the amount of the bond to be executed, the term for which it is to be in force, and the number, character and class of sureties (if any) required.

113. If the person in respect of whom such order is made is present in Court, it shall be read over to him, or, if he so desires, the substance thereof shall be explained to him.

114. If such person is not present in Court, the Magistrate shall issue a summons requiring him to appear, or, when such person is in custody, a warrant directing the officer in whose custody he is to bring him before the Court:

Provided that whenever it appears to such Magistrate, upon the report of a police-officer or upon other information (the substance of which report or information shall be recorded by the Magistrate), that there is reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, and that such breach of the peace cannot be prevented otherwise than by the immediate arrest of such person, the Magistrate may at any time issue a warrant for his arrest.

115. Every summons or warrant issued under section 114 shall be accompanied by a copy of the order made under section 112, and such copy shall be delivered by the officer serving or executing such summons or warrant to the person served with, or arrested under, the same.

Copy of order under section 112 to accompany summons or warrant.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter VIII.—Of Security for keeping the Peace and for Good Behaviour.—Sections 116-123.)

116. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of any person called upon to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond for keeping the peace, and may permit him to appear by a pleader.

117. (1) When an order under section 112 has been read or explained under section 113 to a person present in Court, or when any person appears or is brought before a Magistrate in compliance with, or in execution of, a summons or warrant issued under section 114, the Magistrate shall proceed to inquire into the truth of the information upon which action has been taken, and to take such further evidence as may appear necessary.

(2) Such inquiry shall be made, as nearly as may be practicable where the order requires security for keeping the peace, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials and recording evidence in summons-cases; and, where the order requires security for good behaviour, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials and recording evidence in warrant-cases, except that no charge need be framed.

(3) For the purposes of this section the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute or otherwise.

(4) Where two or more persons have been associated together in the matter under inquiry, they may be dealt with in the same or separate inquiries as the Magistrate shall think just.

118. (1) If, upon such inquiry, it is proved that it is necessary for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, as the case may be, that the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made should execute a bond, with or without sureties, the Magistrate shall make an order accordingly:

Provided—

first, that no person shall be ordered to give security of a nature different from, or of an amount larger than or for a period longer than, that specified in the order made under section 112:

secondly, that the amount of every bond shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case and shall not be excessive:

thirdly, that, when the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made is a minor, the bond shall be executed only by his sureties.

119. If, on an inquiry under section 117, it is not proved that it is necessary for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, as the case may be, that the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made should execute a bond, the Magistrate shall make an entry on the record to that effect, and, if such person is in custody only for the purposes of the inquiry, shall release him, or, if such person is not in custody, shall discharge him.

C.—Proceedings in all cases subsequent to Order to furnish Security.

120. (1) If any person in respect of whom an order requiring security is made under section 106 or section 118 is, at the time such order is made, sentenced to, or undergoing a sentence of, imprisonment, the period for which such security is required shall commence on the expiration of such sentence.

(2) In other cases such period shall commence on the date of such order unless the Magistrate, for sufficient reason, fixes a later date.

121. The bond to be executed by any such person shall bind him to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour, as the case may be, and in the latter case the commission or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence punishable with imprisonment, wherever it may be committed, is a breach of the bond.

122. A Magistrate may refuse to accept any surety offered under this chapter, on the ground that, for reasons to be recorded by the Magistrate, such surety is an unfit person.

123. (1) If any person ordered to give security under section 106 or section 118 does not give such security on or before the date on which the period for which such security is to be given commences, he shall, except in the case next hereinafter mentioned, be committed to prison, or, if he is already in prison, be detained in prison until such period expires or until within such period he gives the security to the Court or Magistrate who made the order requiring it.

(2) When such person has been ordered by a Magistrate to give security for a period exceeding one year, such Magistrate shall, if such person does not give such security as aforesaid, issue a warrant directing him to be detained in prison pending the orders of the Sessions Judge or, if such Magistrate be a Presidency Magistrate, pending the orders of the High Court; and the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before such Court.

(3) Such Court, after examining such proceedings and requiring from the Magistrate any further information or evidence which it thinks necessary, may pass such order on the case as it thinks fit:

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter VIII.—Of Security for keeping the Peace and for Good Behaviour.—Sections 124-126.) Chapter IX.—Unlawful Assemblies.—Sections 127-130.)

Provided that the period (if any) for which any person is imprisoned for failure to give security shall not exceed three years.

(4) If the security be tendered to the officer in charge of the jail, he shall forthwith refer the matter to the Court or Magistrate who made the order and shall await the orders of such Court or Magistrate.

(5) Imprisonment for failure to give security
Kind of imprisonment. for keeping the peace shall be simple.

(6) Imprisonment for failure to give security for good behaviour may be rigorous or simple as the Court or Magistrate in each case directs.

124. (r) Whenever the District Magistrate or a Chief Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter, whether by the order of such Magistrate or that of his predecessor in office, or of some subordinate Magistrate, may be released without hazard to the community or to any other person, he may order such person to be discharged.

(2) Whenever any person has been imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter, the Chief Presidency or District Magistrate may (unless the order has been made by some Court superior to his own) make an order reducing the amount of the security or the number of sureties or the time for which security has been required.

(3) Whenever the District Magistrate or a Chief Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter as ordered by the Court of Session or High Court may be released without hazard to the community, such Magistrate shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be, and such Court may, if it thinks fit, order such person to be discharged.

125. The Chief Presidency or District Magistrate may at any time for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing, cancel any bond for keeping the peace or for good behaviour.
Power of District Magistrate to cancel any bond for keeping the peace or good behaviour.
executed under this chapter by order of any Court in his district not superior to his Court.

126. (r) Any surety for the peaceable conduct or good behaviour of another person may at any time apply to a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Subdivisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class to cancel any bond executed under this chapter within the local limits of his jurisdiction.
Discharge of sureties.

(2) On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant, as he thinks fit, requiring the person for whom such surety is bound to appear or to be brought before him.

(3) When such person appears or is brought before the Magistrate, such Magistrate shall cancel the bond, and shall order such person to give, for the unexpired portion of the term of such bond, fresh security of the same description as the original security. Every such order shall, for the purposes of sections 121, 122, 123 and 124, be deemed to be an order made under section 106 or section 118, as the case may be.

CHAPTER IX.

UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLIES.

127. (r) Any Magistrate or officer in charge of a police-station may command any unlawful assembly, or any assembly of five or more persons likely to cause a disturbance of the public peace, to disperse; and it shall thereupon be the duty of the members of such assembly to disperse accordingly.
Assembly to disperse on command of Magistrate or police-officer.

(2) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

128. If, upon being so commanded, any such assembly does not disperse, or if, without being so commanded, it conducts itself in such a manner as to show a determination not to disperse, any Magistrate or officer in charge of a police-station, whether within or without the presidency-towns, may proceed to disperse such assembly by force, and may require the assistance of any male person, not being an officer or soldier in Her Majesty's Army or a volunteer enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, and acting as such, for the purpose of dispersing such assembly, and, if necessary, arresting and confining the persons who form part of it, in order to disperse such assembly or that they may be punished according to law.
Use of civil force to disperse.

129. If any such assembly cannot be otherwise dispersed, and if it is necessary for the public security that it should be dispersed, the Magistrate of the highest rank who is present may cause it to be dispersed by military force.
Use of military force.

130. (r) When a Magistrate determines to disperse any such assembly by military force, he may require any commissioned or non-commissioned officer in command of any soldiers in Her Majesty's Army or of any volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, to disperse such assembly by military force, and to arrest and confine such persons forming part of it as the Magistrate may direct, or as it may be necessary to arrest and confine in order to disperse the assembly or to have them punished according to law.
Duty of officer commanding troops required by Magistrate to disperse assembly.

(2) Every such officer shall obey such requisition in such manner as he thinks fit; but in so doing he shall use as little force, and do as little injury to person and property, as may be consistent with dispersing the assembly and arresting and detaining such persons.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter IX.—Unlawful Assemblies.—Sections 131-132. Chapter X.—Public Nuisances.—Sections 133-135.)

131. When the public security is manifestly endangered by any such assembly, and when no commissioned military officers can be communicated with, any commissioned officer of Her Majesty's Army may disperse such assembly by military force, and may arrest and confine any persons forming part of it, in order to disperse such assembly or that they may be punished according to law; but if, while he is acting under this section, it becomes practicable for him to communicate with a Magistrate, he shall do so, and shall thenceforward obey the instructions of the Magistrate as to whether he shall or shall not continue such action.

132. No prosecution against any person for Protection against any act purporting to be prosecution for acts done under this chapter done under this chapter. shall be instituted in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction of the Governor General in Council; and—

- (a) no Magistrate or police-officer acting under this chapter in good faith,
- (b) no officer acting under section 131 in good faith,
- (c) no person doing any act in good faith, in compliance with a requisition under section 128 or section 130, and
- (d) no inferior officer, or soldier, or volunteer, doing any act in obedience to any order which he was bound to obey, shall be deemed to have thereby committed an offence.

CHAPTER X.

PUBLIC NUISANCES.

133. (1) Whenever a District Magistrate, a Subdivisional Magistrate, or, when empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, a Magistrate of the first class, considers, on receiving a police report or other information, and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public, or from any public place, or that any trade or occupation, or the keeping of any goods or merchandise, by reason of its being injurious to the health or physical comfort of the community, should be suppressed or removed or prohibited, or that the construction of any building, or the disposal of any substance as likely to occasion conflagration or explosion, should be prevented or stopped, or that any building is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence its removal, repair or support is necessary, or that any tank, well or excavation adjacent to any such way or public place should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public, such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, substance, tank, well or excavation, within a time to be fixed in the order, to remove such obstruction or nuisance; or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation; or to remove such goods or merchandise; or to prevent or stop the construction of such building; or to remove, repair or support it; or to alter the disposal of such substance; or to fence such tank, well or excavation, as the case may be; or to appear before himself or some other Magistrate of the first or second class, at a time and place to be fixed by the order, and move to have the order set aside or modified in manner hereinafter provided.

(2) No order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court.

Explanation.—A "public place" includes also property belonging to the State, camping-grounds and grounds left unoccupied for sanitary and recreative purposes.

134. (1) The order shall, if practicable, be served on the person against whom it is made in manner herein provided for service of a summons.

(2) If such order cannot be so served, it shall be notified by proclamation, published in such manner as the Local Government may by rule direct, and a copy thereof shall be stuck up at such place or places as may be fittest for conveying the information to such person.

135. The person against whom such order is made shall—

(a) perform, within the time specified in the order, the act directed thereby; or

(b) appear in accordance with such order or show cause or and either show cause against the same, or apply to the Magistrate by whom it was made to appoint a jury to try whether the same is reasonable and proper.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter X.—Public Nuisances.—Sections 136-143.)

136. If such person does not perform such act or appear and show cause or apply for the appointment of a jury as required by section 135, he shall be liable to the penalty prescribed in that behalf in section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, and the order shall be made absolute.

137. (r) If he appears and shows cause against the order, the Magistrate shall take evidence in the matter as in a summons-case.

(s) If the Magistrate is satisfied that the order is not reasonable and proper, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case.

(g) If the Magistrate is not so satisfied, the order shall be made absolute.

138. (r) On receiving an application under section 135 to appoint a jury, the Magistrate shall—

(a) forthwith appoint a jury consisting of an uneven number of persons not less than five, of whom the foreman and one-half of the remaining members shall be nominated by such Magistrate, and the other members by the applicant;

(b) summon such foreman and members to attend at such place and time as the Magistrate thinks fit; and

(c) fix a time within which they are to return their verdict.

(s) The time so fixed may, for good cause shown, be extended by the Magistrate.

139. (r) If the jury or a majority of the jurors find that the order of the Magistrate is reasonable and proper as originally made, or subject to a modification which the Magistrate accepts, the Magistrate shall make the order absolute, subject to such modification (if any).

(s) In other cases, no further proceedings shall be taken under this chapter.

140. (r) When an order has been made absolute under section 136, section 137 or section 139, the Magistrate shall give notice of the same to the person against whom the order was made, and shall further require him to perform the act directed by the order within a time to be fixed in the notice, and inform him that, in case of disobedience, he will be liable to the penalty provided by section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

(s) If such act is not performed within the time fixed, the Magistrate may cause it to be performed, and may recover the costs of performing it, either by the sale of any building, goods or other property removed by his order, or by the distress and sale of any other moveable property of such person within or without the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction. If such other property is without such limits, the order shall authorise its attachment and sale when endorsed by the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property to be attached is found.

(g) No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith under this section.

141. If the applicant by neglect or otherwise prevents the appointment of the jury, or if from any cause the jury appointed do not return their verdict within the time fixed or within such further time as the Magistrate may in his discretion allow, the Magistrate may pass such order as he thinks fit, and such order shall be executed in the manner provided by section 140.

142. (r) If a Magistrate making an order under section 133 considers that immediate measures should be taken to prevent imminent danger or injury of a serious kind to the public, he may, whether a jury is to be, or has been, appointed or not, issue such an injunction to the person against whom the order was made as is required to obviate or prevent such danger or injury pending the determination of the matter.

(s) In default of such person forthwith obeying such injunction, the Magistrate may himself use, or cause to be used, such means as he thinks fit to obviate such danger or to prevent such injury.

(g) No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith by a Magistrate under this section.

143. A District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate, or any other Magistrate empowered by the Local Government or the District Magistrate in this behalf, may order any person not to repeat or continue a public nuisance, as defined in the Indian Penal Code or any special or local law.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter XI.—Temporary Orders in Urgent Cases of Nuisance or apprehended Danger.—Section 144. Chapter XII.—Disputes as to Immoveable Property.—Sections 145-146.)

CHAPTER XI.

TEMPORARY ORDERS IN URGENT CASES OF NUISANCE OR APPREHENDED DANGER.

144. (1) In cases where, in the opinion of a District Magistrate, a Chief Presidency Magistrate, a Subdivisional Magistrate, or of any other Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government or the Chief Presidency Magistrate or the District Magistrate to act under this section, immediate prevention or speedy remedy is desirable, such Magistrate may, by a written order stating the material facts of the case and served in manner provided by section 134, direct any person to abstain from a certain act or to take certain order with certain property in his possession or under his management, if such Magistrate considers that such direction is likely to prevent, or tends to prevent, obstruction, annoyance or injury, or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury, to any person lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or an affray.

(2) An order under this section may, in cases of emergency or in cases where the circumstances do not admit of the serving in due time of a notice upon the person against whom the order is directed, be passed ex parte.

(3) An order under this section may be directed to a particular individual, or to the public generally when frequenting or visiting a particular place.

(4) Any Magistrate may rescind or alter any order made under this section by himself or any Magistrate subordinate to him or by his predecessor in office.

(5) No order under this section shall remain in force for more than two months from the making thereof; unless, in cases of danger to human life, health or safety, or a likelihood of a riot or an affray, the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, otherwise directs.

CHAPTER XII.

DISPUTES AS TO IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

145. (1) Whenever a District Magistrate, Subdivisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class is satisfied from a police report or other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, within a time to be fixed by such Magistrate, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

(2) For the purposes of this section the expression "land or water" includes buildings, markets, fisheries, crops or other produce of land, and the rents or profits of any such property.

(3) A copy of the order shall be served in manner provided by this Code for the service of a summons.

(4) The Magistrate shall then, without reference to the merits of the claims of any of such parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties, receive the evidence produced by them respectively, consider the effect of such evidence, take such further evidence (if any) as he thinks necessary, and, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties was at the date of the order before mentioned in such possession of the said subject:

Provided that, if it appears to the Magistrate that any party has within two months next before the date of such order been forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed, he may treat the party so dispossessed as if he had been in possession at such date.

(5) Nothing in this section shall preclude any party so required to attend, or any other person interested, from showing that no such dispute as aforesaid exists or has existed; and in such case the Magistrate shall cancel his said order, and all further proceedings thereon shall be stayed, but, subject to such cancellation, the order of the Magistrate under sub-section (1) shall be final.

(6) If the Magistrate decides that one of the parties was in such possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction.

(7) Proceedings under this section shall not abate by reason only of the death of any of the parties thereto.

146. (1) If the Magistrate decides that none of the parties was then in such possession, or is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them was then in such possession of the subject of dispute, he may attach it until a competent Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto, or the person entitled to possession thereof.

(2) When the Magistrate attaches the subject of dispute, he may, if he thinks fit, appoint a receiver thereof, who, subject to the control of the Magistrate, shall have all the powers of a receiver appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IV.—Prevention of Offences. Chapter XII.—Disputes as to Immoveable Property.—Sections 147-149. Chapter XIII.—Preventive Action of the Police.—Sections 149-153. Part V.—Information to the Police and their Powers to Investigate. Chapter XIV.—Sections 154-155.)

147. Whenever any such Magistrate is satisfied as aforesaid that a dispute concerning the right of use of any land or water (including any right of way) within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may inquire into the matter in manner provided by section 145; and may, if it appears to him that such right exists, make an order permitting such thing to be done, or directing that such thing shall not be done, as the case may be, until the person objecting to such thing being done, or claiming that such thing may be done, obtains the decision of a competent Court adjudging him to be entitled to prevent the doing of, or to do such thing, as the case may be:

Provided that no order shall be passed under this section permitting the doing of anything where the right to do such thing is exercisable at all times of the year, unless such right has been exercised within three months next before the institution of the inquiry; or, where the right is exercisable only at particular seasons or on particular occasions, unless the right has been exercised during the last of such seasons or occasions before such institution.

148. (1) Whenever a local inquiry is necessary for the purposes of this chapter, any District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate may depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to make the inquiry, and may furnish him with such written instructions as may seem necessary for his guidance, and may declare by whom the whole or any part of the necessary expenses of the inquiry shall be paid.

(2) The report of the person so deputed may be read as evidence in the case.

(3) When any costs have been incurred by any party to a proceeding under this chapter for witnesses, or pleaders' fees, or both, the Magistrate passing a decision under section 145, section 146 or section 147 may direct by whom such costs shall be paid, whether by such party or by any other party to the proceeding, and whether in whole or in part or proportion. All costs so directed to be paid may be recovered as if they were fines.

CHAPTER XIII.

PREVENTIVE ACTION OF THE POLICE.

149. Every police-officer may interpose for the purpose of preventing, and shall, to the best of his ability, prevent, the commission of any cognizable offence.

150. Every police-officer receiving information of a design to commit any cognizable offence shall communicate such information to the police-officer to whom he is subordinate, and to any other officer whose duty it is to prevent or take cognizance of the commission of any such offence.

151. A police-officer knowing of a design to commit any cognizable offence may arrest, without orders from a Magistrate and without a warrant, the person so designing, if it appears to such officer that the commission of the offence cannot be otherwise prevented.

152. A police-officer may of his own authority interpose to prevent any injury attempted to be committed in his view to any public property, moveable or immoveable, or the removal or injury of any public landmark, or buoy or other mark used for navigation.

153. (1) Any officer in charge of a police-station may, without a warrant, enter any place within the limits of such station for the purpose of inspecting or searching for any weights or measures or instruments for weighing, used or kept therein, whenever he has reason to believe that there are in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false.

(2) If he finds in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false, he may seize the same, and shall forthwith give information of such seizure to a Magistrate having jurisdiction.

PART V.

INFORMATION TO THE POLICE AND THEIR POWERS TO INVESTIGATE.

CHAPTER XIV.

154. Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police-station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf.

155. (1) When information is given to an officer in charge of a police-station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence,

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part V.—Information to the Police and their Powers to Investigate. Chapter XIV.—Sections 156-162.)

he shall enter in a book to be kept as aforesaid the substance of such information and refer the informant to the Magistrate.

(2) No police-officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate of the first or second class having power to try such case or commit the same for trial, or of a Presidency Magistrate.

(3) Any police-officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a police-station may exercise in a cognizable case.

156. (1) Any officer in charge of a police-station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XV relating to the place of inquiry or trial.

(2) No proceeding of a police-officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above mentioned.

157. (1) If, from information received or otherwise, an officer in charge of a police-station has reason to suspect the commission of an offence which he is empowered under section 156 to investigate, he shall forthwith send a report of the same to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of such offence upon a police-report, and shall proceed in person, or shall depute one of his subordinate officers to proceed, to the spot to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case, and to take such measures as may be necessary for the discovery and arrest of the offender :

Provided as follows :—

(a) when any information as to the commission of any such offence is given against any person by name and the case is not of a serious nature, the officer in charge of a police-station need not proceed in person or depute a subordinate officer to make an investigation on the spot ;

(b) if it appear to the officer in charge of a police-station that there is no sufficient ground for entering on an investigation, he shall not investigate the case.

(2) In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of the proviso to sub-section (1), the officer in charge of the police-station shall state in his said report his reasons for not fully complying with the requirements of that sub-section.

158. (1) Every report sent to a Magistrate under section 157 shall, if so submitted, be submitted through such superior officer of police as the Local Government, by general or special order, appoints in that behalf.

(2) Such superior officer may give such instructions to the officer in charge of the police-station as he thinks fit, and shall, after recording such instructions on such report, transmit the same without delay to the Magistrate.

159. Such Magistrate, on receiving such report, may direct an investigation or, if he thinks fit, at once proceed, or depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to proceed, to hold a preliminary inquiry into, or otherwise to dispose of, the case in manner provided in this Code.

160. Any police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may, by order in writing, require the attendance before himself of any person being within the limits of his own or any adjoining station who, from the information given or otherwise, appears to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case ; and such person shall attend as so required.

161. (1) Any police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may examine orally any person supposed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case.

(2) Such person shall be bound to answer all questions relating to such case put to him by such officer, other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge or to a penalty or forfeiture.

162. (1) No statement made by any person to a police-officer in the course of an investigation under this chapter shall, if taken down in writing, be signed by the person making it, nor shall such writing be used as evidence :

Provided that, when any witness is called for, the prosecution whose statement has been taken down in writing as aforesaid, the Court shall, on the request of the accused, refer to such writing and may then direct that the accused be furnished with a copy thereof : and such statement may be used to impeach the credit of such witness in manner provided by the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

*The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part V.—Information to the Police and their Powers to Investigate. Chapter XIV.
—Sections 163-167.)*

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of section 32, sub-section (1), of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

1 of 1872.

163. (1) No police-officer or person in authority shall offer or make, or cause to be offered or made, any such inducement, threat or promise as is mentioned in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 24.

(2) But no police-officer or other person shall prevent, by any caution or otherwise, any person from making in the course of any investigation under this chapter any statement which he may be disposed to make of his own free will.

164. (1) Every Magistrate not being a police-officer may record any statement or confession made to him in the course of an investigation under this chapter or at any time afterwards before the commencement of the inquiry or trial.

Power to record statements and confessions.

(2) Such statements shall be recorded in such of the manners hereinafter prescribed for recording evidence as is, in his opinion, best fitted for the circumstances of the case. Such confessions shall be recorded and signed in the manner provided in section 364, and such statements or confessions shall then be forwarded to the Magistrate by whom the case is to be inquired into or tried.

(3) No Magistrate shall record any such confession unless, upon questioning the person making it, he has reason to believe that it was made voluntarily; and, when he records any confession, he shall make a memorandum at the foot of such record to the following effect:—

"I believe that this confession was voluntarily made. It was taken in my presence and hearing, and was read over to the person making it and admitted by him to be correct, and it contains a full and true account of the statement made by him.

(Signed) A. B.,
Magistrate."

Explanation.—It is not necessary that the Magistrate receiving and recording a confession or statement should be a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case.

165. (1) Whenever an officer in charge of a police-station, or a police-officer making an investigation, considers that the production of any document or thing is necessary to the conduct of an investigation into any offence which he is authorised to investigate, and there is reason to believe that a person to whom a summons or order under section 94 has been or might be issued will not or would not produce such document or thing according to the directions of the summons or order, or when such document or thing is not known to be in the possession of any person, such officer may search, or cause search to be made, for the same, in any place within the limits of the station of which he is in charge, or to which he is attached.

(2) Such officer shall, if practicable, conduct the search in person.

(3) If he is unable to conduct the search in person, and there is no other person competent to make the search present at the time, he may require any officer subordinate to him to make the search, and he shall deliver to such subordinate officer an order in writing, specifying the document or thing for which search is to be made, and the place to be searched; and such subordinate officer may thereupon search for such thing in such place.

(4) The provisions of this Code as to search-warrants shall, so far as may be, apply to a search made under this section.

166. (1) An officer in charge of a police-station may require an officer in charge of another police-station, whether in the same or a different district, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

(2) Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 165, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made.

167. (1) Whenever it appears that any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation or information is well-founded, the officer in charge of the police-station shall forthwith transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused (if any) to such Magistrate.

(2) The Magistrate to whom an accused person is forwarded under this section may, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, from time to time authorise the detention of the accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days in the whole. If he has not jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may order the accused to be forwarded to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction.

*The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part V.—Information to the Police and their Powers to Investigate. Chapter XIV.
—Sections 168-172.)*

(3) A Magistrate authorising under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

(4) If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is immediately subordinate.

168. When any subordinate police-officer has made any investigation under this chapter, he shall report the result of such investigation to the officer in charge of the police-station.

169. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police-report and to try the accused or commit him for trial.

170. (1) If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the police-station that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground as aforesaid, such officer shall forward the accused under custody to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence upon a police-report and to try the accused or commit him for trial or, if the offence is bailable and the accused is able to give security, shall take security from him for his appearance before such Magistrate on a day fixed and for his attendance from day to day before such Magistrate until otherwise directed.

(2) When the officer in charge of a police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant (if any) and so many of the persons who appear to such officer to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as he may think necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate as thereby directed and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

(3) If the Court of the District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, such Court shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided reasonable notice of such reference be given to such complainant or persons.

(4) The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

(5) The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with its report.

171. No complainant or witness on his way to the Court of the Magistrate shall be required to accompany a police-officer, or shall be subjected to unnecessary restraint or inconvenience, or required to give any security for his appearance other than his own bond:

Provided that, if any complainant or witness refuses to attend or to execute a bond as directed in section 170, the officer in charge of the police-station may forward him in custody to the Magistrate, who may detain him in custody until he executes such bond, or until the hearing of the case is completed.

172. (1) Every police-officer making an investigation under this chapter shall day by day enter his proceedings in the investigation in a diary, setting forth the time at which the information reached him, the time at which he began and closed his investigation, the place or places visited by him, and a statement of the circumstances ascertained through his investigation.

(2) Any Criminal Court may send for the police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries, not as evidence in the case, but to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 161 or section 145, as the case may be, shall apply.

173. (1) Every investigation under this chapter shall be completed without unnecessary delay, and, as soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the police-station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police-report a report in the form prescribed by the Local Government, setting forth the names of the parties, the nature of the information and the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case, and stating whether the accused person has been forwarded in custody, or has been released on his bond, and, if so, whether with or without sureties.

(2) Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall, in any cases in which the Local Government by general or special order so directs, be submitted through that officer, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the police-station to make further investigation.

(3) Whenever it appears from a report forwarded under this section that the accused has been released on his bond, the Magistrate shall make such order for the discharge of such bond or otherwise as he thinks fit.

174. (1) The officer in charge of a police-station, or some other police-officer specially empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, on receiving information that a person—

- (a) has committed suicide, or
- (b) has been killed by another, or by an animal, or by machinery, or by an accident, or
- (c) has died under circumstances raising a reasonable suspicion that some other person has committed an offence, shall immediately give intimation thereof to the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests, and, unless otherwise directed by any rule prescribed by the Local Government, or by any general or special order of the District or Subdivisional Magistrate, shall proceed to the place where the body of such deceased person is, and there, in the presence of two or more respectable inhabitants of the neighbourhood, shall make an investigation, and draw up a report of the apparent cause of death, describing such wounds, fractures, bruises and other marks of injury as may be found on the body, and stating in what manner, or by what weapon or instrument (if any), such marks appear to have been inflicted.

(2) The report shall be signed by such police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Subdivisional Magistrate.

(3) When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, or when for any other reason the police-officer considers it expedient so to do, he shall, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other qualified medical man appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

(4) In the Presidencies of Fort St. George and Bombay, investigations under this section may be made by the head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorised to hold inquests.

(5) The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests, namely, any District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

175. (1) A police-officer proceeding under section 174 may, by order in writing, summon two or more persons as aforesaid for the purpose of the said investigation, and any other person who appears to be acquainted with the facts of the case. Every person so summoned shall be bound to attend and to answer truly all questions other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge, or to a penalty or forfeiture.

(2) If the facts do not disclose a cognizable offence to which section 170 applies, such persons shall not be required by the police-officer to attend a Magistrate's Court.

176. (1) When any person dies while in the custody of the police, the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests shall, and, in any other case mentioned in section 174, clauses (a), (b) and (c) of sub-section (1), any Magistrate so empowered may hold an inquiry into the cause of death.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XV.—Of the Jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.—Sections 177-181.)

either instead of, or in addition to, the investigation held by the police-officer; and, if he does so, he shall have all the powers in conducting it which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence. The Magistrate holding such an inquiry shall record the evidence taken by him in connection therewith in any of the manners hereinafter prescribed according to the circumstances of the case.

(2) Whenever such Magistrate considers it expedient to make an examination of the dead body of any person who has been already interred, in order to discover the cause of his death, the Magistrate may cause the body to be disinterred and examined.

PART VI.*PROCEEDINGS IN PROSECUTIONS.*CHAPTER XV.OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE CRIMINAL COURTS IN INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.A.—Place of Inquiry or Trial.

177. Every offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction it was committed.

178. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 177, the Local Government may direct that any cases or class of cases committed for trial in any district may be tried in any sessions division:

Provided that such direction be not repugnant to any direction previously issued by the High Court under section 15 of the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, or under this Code, section 526.

179. When a person is accused of the commission of any offence by reason of anything which has been done, and of any consequence which has ensued, such offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any such thing has been done, or any such consequence has ensued.

Illustrations.

(a) A is wounded within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court X, and dies within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Z. The offence of the culpable homicide of A may be inquired into or tried either by X or Z.

(b) A is wounded within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court X, and is, during ten days within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Y, and during ten days more within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Z, unable in the local limits of the jurisdiction of either Court Y or Court Z to follow his ordinary pursuits. The offence of causing grievous hurt to A may be inquired into or tried by X, Y or Z.

(c) A is put in fear of injury within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court X, and is thereby induced, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Y, to deliver property to the person who put him in fear. The offence of extortion committed on A may be inquired into or tried either by X or Y.

(d) A is wounded in the Native State of Baroda, and dies of his wounds in Poona. The offence of causing A's death may be inquired into and tried in Poona.

180. When an act is an offence by reason of its relation to any other act which is also an offence or which would be an offence if the doer were capable of committing an offence, a charge of the first-mentioned offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction either act was done.

Illustrations.

(a) A charge of abetment may be inquired into or tried either by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the abetment was committed, or by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offence abetted was committed.

(b) A charge of receiving or retaining stolen goods may be inquired into or tried either by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the goods were stolen, or by any Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any of them were at any time dishonestly received or retained.

(c) A charge of wrongfully concealing a person known to have been kidnapped may be inquired into or tried by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the wrongful concealing, or by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the kidnapping, took place.

181. (1) The offence of being a thug, of being a thug and committing murder, of dacoity, of dacoity with murder, of having belonged to a gang of dacoits, or of having escaped from custody, may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person charged is.

(2) The offence of criminal misappropriation or of criminal breach of trust may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any part of the property which is the subject of the offence was received or retained by the accused person, or the offence was committed.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XV.—Of the Jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.—Sections 182-188.)

(3) The offence of stealing anything may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such thing was stolen or was possessed by the thief or by any person who received or retained the same knowing or having reason to believe it to be stolen.

(4) The offence of kidnapping or abduction may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person kidnapped or abducted was kidnapped or abducted or was conveyed or concealed or detained.

182. When it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed, or where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another, or where an offence is a continuing one, and continues to be committed in more local areas than one, or where it consists of several acts done in different local areas, it may be inquired into or tried by a Court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas.

183. An offence committed whilst the offender is in the course of performing a journey or voyage may be inquired into or tried by a Court through or into the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offender, or the person against whom, or the thing in respect of which, the offence was committed, passed in the course of that journey or voyage.

184. All offences against any law for the time being in force relating to Railways, Telegraphs, the Post-office or Arms and Ammunition may be inquired into or tried in a presidency-town, whether the offence is stated to have been committed within such town or not:

Provided that the offender and all the witnesses necessary for his prosecution are to be found within such town.

185. (1) Whenever any doubt arises as to the Court by which any offence should under the preceding provisions of this chapter be inquired into or tried, the High Court, within the local limits of whose appellate criminal jurisdiction the offender actually is, may decide by which Court the offence shall be inquired into or tried.

(2) In Lower Burma, when the offender is an European British subject, the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, and in all other cases the Court of the Judicial Commissioner, shall for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the High Court.

186. (1) When a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate, or, if he is specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, a Magistrate of the first class, sees reason to believe that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction has committed without such limits (whether within or without British India) an offence which cannot, under the provisions of sections 177 to 184 (both inclusive), or any other law for the time being in force, be inquired into or tried within such local limits, but is under some law for the time being in force triable in British India, such Magistrate may inquire into the offence as if it had been committed within such local limits, and compel such person in manner hereinbefore provided to appear before him, and send such person to the Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try such offence, or, if such offence is bailable, take a bond with or without sureties for his appearance before such Magistrate.

(2) When there are more Magistrates than one having such jurisdiction and the Magistrate acting under this section cannot satisfy himself as to the Magistrate to or before whom such person should be sent, or bound to appear, the case shall be reported for the orders of the High Court.

187. (1) If the person has been arrested under a warrant issued under section 186 by a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, such Magistrate shall send the person arrested to the District or Subdivisional Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, unless the Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try such offence issues his warrant for the arrest of such person, in which case the person arrested shall be delivered to the police-officer executing such warrant, or shall be sent to the Magistrate by whom such warrant was issued.

(2) If the offence which the person arrested is alleged or suspected to have committed is one which may be inquired into or tried by any Criminal Court in the same district other than that of the Magistrate acting under section 186, such Magistrate shall send such person to such Court.

188. When a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty commits an offence at any place without and beyond the limits of British India, or when any British subject commits an offence in the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India, or Liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XV.—Of the Jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.—Sections 189-194.)

(b) when a servant of the Queen (whether a British subject or not) commits an offence in the territories of any Native Prince or Chief in India, he may be dealt with in respect of such offence as if it had been committed at any place within British India at which he may be found :

Provided that no charge as to any such offence shall be inquired into in British India unless the Political Agent to certify fitness of inquiry into charge.

Political Agent, if there be one, for the territory in which the offence is alleged to have been committed certifies that, in his opinion, the charge ought to be inquired into in British India; and, where there is no Political Agent, the sanction of the Local Government shall be required :

Provided also that any proceedings taken against any person under this section which would be a bar to subsequent proceedings against such person for the same offence if such offence had been committed in British India shall be a bar to further proceedings against him under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, in respect of the same offence in any territory beyond the limits of British India.

189. Whenever any such offence as is referred to in section 188 is being inquired into or tried, the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, direct that copies of depositions made or exhibits produced before the Political Agent or a judicial officer in or for the territory in which such offence is alleged to have been committed shall be received as evidence by the Court holding such inquiry or trial in any case in which such Court might issue a Commission for taking evidence as to the matters to which such depositions or exhibits relate.

B.—Conditions requisite for Initiation of Proceedings.

[Act X of 1862, s. 191.] 190. (r) Except as hereinafter provided, any Cognizance of of- Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf, may take cognizance of any offence—

- (a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;
- (b) upon a police-report of such facts;
- (c) upon information received from any person other than a police-officer, or upon his own knowledge or suspicion, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Local Government, or the District Magistrate subject to the general or special orders of the Local Government, may empower any Magistrate to take cognizance under sub-section (r), clause (a) or clause (b), of offences for which he may try or commit for trial.

(3) The Local Government may empower any Magistrate of the first or second class to take cognizance under sub-section (r), clause (c), of offences for which he may try or commit for trial.

191. When a Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence under sub-section (r), clause (c), of the preceding section, the accused shall, before any evidence is taken, be informed that he is entitled to have the case tried by another Court, and if the accused, or any of the accused if there be more than one, objects to being tried by such Magistrate, the case shall, instead of being tried by such Magistrate, be committed to the Court of Session or transferred to another Magistrate.

192. (1) Any Chief Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may transfer any case, of which he has taken cognizance, for inquiry or trial to any Magistrate subordinate to him.

(2) Any District Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the first class who has taken cognizance of any case to transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other specified Magistrate in his district who is competent under this Code to try the accused or commit him for trial; and such Magistrate may dispose of the case accordingly.

193. (1) Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction unless the accused has been committed to it by a Magistrate duly empowered in that behalf.

(2) Additional Sessions Judges and Assistant Sessions Judges shall try such cases only as the Local Government by general or special order may direct them to try, or, in the case of Assistant Sessions Judges, as the Sessions Judge of the division by general or special order may make over to them for trial.

194. (r) The High Court may take cognizance of any offence upon a commitment made to it in manner hereinafter provided.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the provisions of any letters patent granted under the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, or any other provision of this Code.

[Act X of 1862, s. 191, last para.]

24 & 25 Vict., c. 104.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XV.—Of the Jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.—Sections 195-197.)

(a) (a) Notwithstanding anything in this section contained, the Advocate General may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, exhibit to the High Court, against persons subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court, informations for all purposes for which Her Majesty's Attorney-General may exhibit informations on behalf of the Crown in the High Court of Justice in England.

[Act X of 1875, s. 144.] (b) Such proceedings may be taken upon every case of such information as may lawfully be taken in case of similar informations filed by Her Majesty's Attorney-General so far as the circumstances of the case and the practice and procedure of the said High Court will admit.

(c) All fines, penalties, forfeitures, debts and sums of money recovered or levied under or by virtue of any such information shall belong to the Government of India.

(d) The High Court may make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of this section.

195. (1) No Court shall take cognizance—

(a) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code, except with the previous sanction, or on the complaint, of the public servant concerned or of some public servant to whom he is subordinate;

(b) of any offence punishable under section 193, 194, 195, 196, 199, 200, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211 or 228 of the same Code, when such offence is committed in, or in relation to, any proceeding in any Court, except with the previous sanction, or on the complaint, of such Court, or of some other Court to which such Court is subordinate;

(c) of any offence described in section 463 or punishable under section 471, 475 or 476 of the same Code, when such offence has been committed by a party to any proceeding in any Court in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in such proceeding, except with the previous sanction, or on the complaint, of such Court, or of some other Court to which such Court is subordinate.

(d) In clauses (b) and (c) of this section the term "Court" means a Civil, Revenue or Criminal Court, but does not include a Registrar or Sub-Registrar under the Indian Registration Act, 1877.

(e) The provisions of this section, with reference to the offences named therein, apply also to the abetment of such offences, and attempts to commit them.

(4) The sanction referred to in this section may be expressed in general terms, and need not name the accused person; but it shall, so far as practicable, specify the Court or other place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence was committed.

(5) When sanction is given in respect of any offence referred to in this section, the Court taking cognizance of the case may frame a charge of any other offence so referred to which is disclosed by the facts.

(6) Any sanction given or refused under this section may be revoked or granted by any authority to which the authority giving or refusing it is subordinate; and no sanction shall remain in force for more than six months from the date on which it was given: provided that the High Court may, for good cause shown, extend the time.

(7) For the purposes of this section every Court shall be deemed to be subordinate only to the Court to which appeals from the former Court ordinarily lie, that is to say:—

(a) where such appeals lie to more than one Court, the Appellate Court of inferior jurisdiction shall be the Court to which such Court shall be deemed to be subordinate;

(b) where such appeals lie to a Civil and also to a Revenue Court, such Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the Civil or Revenue Court according to the nature of the case in connection with which the offence is alleged to have been committed;

(c) where no appeal lies, such Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the principal Court of original jurisdiction within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such first-mentioned Court is situate.

196 No Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under the Chapter VI of the Indian Penal Code (except section 127), or punishable under section 108A, or section 153A or section 294A or section 505 of the same Code, unless upon complaint made by order of, or under authority from, the Governor General in Council, the Local Government, or some officer empowered by the Governor General in Council in this behalf.

197. (1) When any Judge, or any public servant not removable from his office without the sanction of the Government of India or the Local Government, is accused as such Judge or public servant of any offence no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction of the Government having power to order his removal or of some officer empowered in this behalf by such Government, or of some Court or other authority to which such Judge or public servant is subordinate, and whose power to give such sanction has not been limited by such Government.

(2) Such Government may determine the person by whom, and the manner in which, and the offence or offences for which, the prosecution of such Judge or public servant is to be conducted, and may specify the Court before which the trial is to be held.

198. No Court shall take cognizance of an offence falling under Chapter XIX or Chapter XXI of the Indian Penal Code or under sections 493 to 496 (both inclusive) of the same Code, except upon a complaint made by some person aggrieved by such offence.

199. No Court shall take cognizance of an offence under section 497 adultery or enticing or section 498 of the Indian Penal Code, except upon a complaint made by the husband of the woman, or, in his absence, by some person who had care of such woman on his behalf at the time when such offence was committed.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF COMPLAINTS TO MAGISTRATES.

200. Subject to the provisions of section 476, a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall at once examine the complainant upon oath, and the substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant, and also by the Magistrate:

Provided as follows:—

- (a) when the complaint is made in writing, nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require a Magistrate to examine the complainant before transferring the case under section 192;
- (b) where the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate, such examination may be on oath or not as the Magistrate in each case thinks fit, and need not be reduced to writing; but the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, before the matter of the complaint is brought before him, require it to be reduced to writing;
- (c) when the case has been transferred under section 192 and the Magistrate so transferring it has already examined the complainant, the Magistrate to whom it is so transferred shall not be bound to re-examine the complainant.

201. (1) If the complaint has been made in writing to a Magistrate who is not competent to take cognizance of the case, he shall return the complaint for presentation to the proper Court with an endorsement to that effect.

(2) If the complaint has not been made in writing, such Magistrate shall direct the complainant to the proper Court.

202. (1) If the Chief Presidency Magistrate, or any other Presidency Magistrate whom the Local Government may from time to time authorise in this behalf, or any Magistrate of the first or second class, is not satisfied as to the truth of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance, he may, when the complainant has been examined, record his reasons, and may then postpone the issue of process for compelling the attendance of the person complained against, and either inquire into the case himself or direct a previous local investigation to be made by any officer subordinate to such Magistrate, or by a police-officer, or by such other person, not being a Magistrate or police-officer, as he thinks fit, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint.

(2) If such investigation is made by some person not being a Magistrate or a police-officer, he shall exercise all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police-station, except that he shall not have power to arrest without warrant.

(3) This section applies also to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

203. The Magistrate before whom a complaint is made or to whom it has been transferred may dismiss the complaint if, after examining the complainant and considering the result of the investigation (if any) made under section 202, there is in his judgment no sufficient ground for proceeding. In such case he shall briefly record his reasons for so doing.

CHAPTER XVII.

OF THE COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS BEFORE MAGISTRATES.

204. (1) If, in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, and the case appears to be one in which, according to the fourth column of the second schedule, a summons should issue in the first instance, he shall issue his summons for the attendance of the accused. If the case appears to be one in which, according to that column, a warrant should issue in the first instance, he may issue a warrant, or, if he thinks fit, a summons, for causing the accused to be brought or to appear at a certain time before such Magistrate or (if he has not jurisdiction himself) some other Magistrate having jurisdiction.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of section 90.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XVII.—Of the Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.—Section 205. Chapter XVIII.—Of Inquiry into Cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.—Sections 206-212.)

(3) When by any law for the time being in force any process-fees or other fees are payable, no process shall be issued until the fees are paid, and, if such fees are not paid within a reasonable time, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

205. (1) Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader.

(2) But the Magistrate inquiring into or trying the case may, in his discretion, at any stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of the accused, and, if necessary, enforce such attendance in manner hereinbefore provided.

CHAPTER XVIII.

OF INQUIRY INTO CASES TRIABLE BY THE COURT OF SESSION OR HIGH COURT.

206. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 443, any Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Subdivisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or any Magistrate empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, may commit any person for trial to the Court of Session or High Court for any offence triable by such Court.

(2) But, save as herein otherwise provided, no person triable by the Court of Session shall be committed for trial to the High Court.

207. The following procedure shall be adopted in inquiries before Magistrates where the case is triable exclusively by a Court of Session or High Court, or, in the opinion of the Magistrate, ought to be tried by such Court.

208. (1) The Magistrate shall, when the accused appears or is brought before him, proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take in manner hereinafter provided all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution or in behalf of the accused, or as may be called for by the Magistrate.

(2) The accused shall be at liberty to cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution, and in such case the prosecutor may re-examine them.

(3) If the complainant or officer conducting the prosecution, or the accused, applies to the Magistrate to issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless, for reasons to be recorded, he deems it unnecessary to do so.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require a Presidency Magistrate to record his reasons.

209. (1) When the evidence referred to in section 208, sub-sections (1) and (3), has been taken, and he has (if necessary) examined the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, such Magistrate shall, if he finds that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused person for trial, record his reasons and discharge him, unless it appears to the Magistrate that such person should be tried before himself or some other Magistrate, in which case he shall proceed accordingly.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

210. (1) When, upon such evidence being taken and such examination (if any) being made, the Magistrate is satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall frame a charge under his hand, declaring with what offence the accused is charged.

(2) As soon as the charge has been framed, it shall be read and explained to the accused, and a copy thereof shall, if he so requires, be given to him free of cost.

211. (1) The accused shall be required at once to give in, orally or in writing, a list of the persons (if any) whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on his trial.

(2) The Magistrate may, in his discretion, allow the accused to give in any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time; and, where the accused is committed for trial before the High Court, nothing in this section shall be deemed to preclude the accused from giving, at any time before his trial, to the Clerk of the Crown a further list of the persons whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on such trial.

212. The Magistrate may, in his discretion, summon and examine any witness named in any list given in to him under section 211.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XVIII.—Of Inquiry into Cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.—Sections 213-219.)

213. (1) When the accused, on being required to give in a list under section 211, has declined to do so, or when he has given in such list and the witnesses (if any) included therein whom the Magistrate desires to examine have been summoned and examined under section 212, the Magistrate may make an order committing the accused for trial by the High Court or the Court of Session (as the case may be), and (unless the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate) shall also record briefly the reasons for such commitment.

(2) If the Magistrate, after hearing the witnesses for the defence, is satisfied that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused, he may cancel the charge and discharge the accused.

214. If any person (not being an European British subject) is accused before a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate of having committed an offence conjointly with an European British subject who is about to be committed for trial, or to be tried, before the High Court on a similar charge arising out of the same transaction, and the Magistrate finds that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall commit him for trial before the High Court, and not before the Court of Session.

215. A commitment once made under section 213 or section 214 by a competent Magistrate or by a Court of Session under section 477, or by a Civil or Revenue Court under section 478, can be quashed by the High Court only, and only on a point of law.

216. When the accused has given in any list of witnesses under section 211 and has been committed for trial, the Magistrate shall summon such of the witnesses included in the list, as have not appeared before himself, to appear before the Court to which the accused has been committed :

Provided that, where the accused has been committed to the High Court, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, leave such witnesses to be summoned by the Clerk of the Crown, and such witnesses may be summoned accordingly :

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the evidence of such witness is material, and, if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness (recording his reasons for such refusal), or may before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness and all other proper expenses.

217. (1) Complainants and witnesses for the prosecution and defence, whose attendance before the Court of Session or High Court is necessary and who appear before the Magistrate, shall execute before him bonds binding themselves to be in attendance when called upon at the Court of Session or High Court to prosecute or to give evidence, as the case may be.

(2) If any complainant or witness refuses to attend before the Court of Session or High Court, or to execute the bond above directed, the Magistrate may detain him in custody until he executes such bond, or until his attendance at the Court of Session or High Court is required, when the Magistrate shall send him in custody to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

218. (1) When the accused is committed for trial, the Magistrate shall issue an order to such person as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, notifying the commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is already aware of the commitment and the form of the charge ; and shall send the charge, the record of the inquiry and any weapon or other thing which is to be produced in evidence, to the Court of Session or (where the commitment is made to the High Court) to the Clerk of the Crown or other officer appointed in this behalf by the High Court.

(2) When the commitment is made to the High Court and any part of the record is not in English, an English translation of such part shall be forwarded with the record.

219 (1) The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, summon and examine supplementary witnesses after the commencement of the trial, and bind them over in manner hereinbefore provided to appear and give evidence.

(2) Such examination shall, if possible, be taken in the presence of the accused, and, where the Magistrate is not a Presidency Magistrate, a copy of the evidence of such witnesses shall, if the accused so require, be given to him free of cost.

Custody of accused pending trial.

CHAPTER XIX.

OF THE CHARGE.

Form of Charges.

221. (1) Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

(2) If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

(3) If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

(4) The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

(5) The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

(6) In the presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

(7) If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact, date and place of the previous conviction shall be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged with the murder of B. This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300, or that, if it did fall within Exception I, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

XLV of 1860.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

222. (1) The charge shall contain such particulars as to time, place and person. Particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

(2) When the accused is charged with criminal breach of trust or dishonest misappropriation of money, it shall not be necessary to specify the particular items misappropriated or the exact dates of misappropriation, but it shall be sufficient to specify the gross sum misappropriated, and the dates between which it was misappropriated. Provided that the time included between the first and last of such dates shall not exceed one year.

223. When the nature of the case is such that the manner of the particulars mentioned in sections 221 and 222 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in the discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

224. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable. Words in charge shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XIX.—Of the Charge.—Sections 225-232.)

225. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission, and it has occasioned a failure of justice.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January, 1882. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January, 1882. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January, 1882, and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January, 1882. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled and that the error was material.

226. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

Illustrations.

1. A is charged with the murder of C. A charge of abetting the murder of C may be added or substituted.

2. A is charged with forging a valuable security under section 467 of the Indian Penal Code. A charge of fabricating false evidence under section 193 may be added.

3. A is charged with receiving stolen property knowing it to be stolen. During the trial it incidentally appears that he has in his possession instruments for the purpose of counterfeiting coin. A charge under section 225 of the Indian Penal Code cannot be added.

227. (1) Any Court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

(2) Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

228. If the charge framed or alteration made under section 226 or section 227 is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may, in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

229. If the new or altered charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

230. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the new or altered charge is founded.

231. Whenever a charge is altered or added to by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined, and also to call any further witness whom the Court may think to be material.

232. (1) If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

(2) If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

A is convicted of an offence, under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence, which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine, was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but, if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

233. For every distinct offence of which any person is accused there shall be a separate charge, and every such charge shall be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 234, 235, 236 and 239.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and causing grievous hurt.

234. (1) When a person is accused of more than one offence of the same kind committed within the space of twelve months from the first to the last of such offences, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, any number of them not exceeding three.

(2) Offences are of the same kind when they are punishable with the same amount of punishment under the same section of the Indian Penal Code or of any special or local law.

235. (1) If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

(2) If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, each of such offences.

(3) If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself or themselves constitute an offence, constitute when combined a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, the offence constituted by such acts when combined, and for any offence constituted by any one, or more, of such acts.

(4) Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, section 71.

Illustrationsto sub-section (1)—

(a) A rescues B, a person in lawful custody, and in so doing causes grievous hurt to C, a constable in whose custody B was. A may be charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 225 and 333 of the Indian Penal Code.

(b) A commits house-breaking by day with intent to commit adultery, and commits, in the house so entered, adultery with B's wife. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 454 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(c) A entices B, the wife of C, away from C, with intent to commit adultery with B, and then commits adultery with her. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 498 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(d) A has in his possession several seals, knowing them to be counterfeit and intending to use them for the purpose of committing several forgeries punishable under section 466 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, the possession of each seal under section 473 of the Indian Penal Code.

(e) With intent to cause injury to B, A institutes a criminal proceeding against him, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such proceeding; and also falsely accuses B of having committed an offence, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charges. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, two offences under section 211 of the Indian Penal Code.

(f) A, with intent to cause injury to B, falsely accuses him of having committed an offence, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. On the trial, A gives false evidence against B, intending thereby to cause B to be convicted of a capital offence. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 211 and 194 of the Indian Penal Code.

(g) A, with six others, commits the offences of rioting, grievous hurt and assaulting a public servant endeavouring in the discharge of his duty as such to suppress the riot. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 147, 325 and 152 of the Indian Penal Code.

(h) A threatens B, C and D at the same time with injury to their persons with intent to cause alarm to them. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, each of the three offences under section 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

The separate charges referred to in Illustrations (a) to (h) respectively may be tried at the same time.

(1) A wrongfully strikes B with a cane. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 352 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code.

(2) Several stolen sacks of corn are made over to A and B, who know they are stolen property, for the purpose of concealing them. A and B thereupon voluntarily assist each other to conceal the sacks at the bottom of a grain-pit. A and B may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 411 and 414 of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) A exposes her child with the knowledge that she is thereby likely to cause its death. The child dies in consequence of such exposure. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 317 and 304 of the Indian Penal Code.

(4) A dishonestly uses a forged document as genuine evidence, in order to convict B, a public servant, of an offence under section 167 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 471 (read with 466) and 196 of the same Code.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XIX.—Of the Charge.—Sections 236-240. Chapter XX.—Of the Trial of Summons-cases by Magistrates.—Section 241.)

to sub-section (3)—

(iv) A commits robbery on B, and in doing so voluntarily causes hurt to him. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 383, 390 XLV of 1860, and 394 of the Indian Penal Code.

236. If a single act or series of acts is of such a nature that it is doubtful which of several offences the facts which can be proved will constitute, the accused may be charged with having committed all or any of such offences, and any number of such charges may be tried at once; or he may be charged in the alternative with having committed some one of the said offences.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of an act which may amount to theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust or cheating. He may be charged with theft, receiving stolen property, criminal breach of trust and cheating, or he may be charged with having committed theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust or cheating.

(b) A states on oath before the Magistrate that he saw B hit C with a club. Before the Sessions Court A states on oath that B never hit C. A may be charged in the alternative and convicted of intentionally giving false evidence, although it cannot be proved which of these contradictory statements was false.

237. (1) If, in the case mentioned in section 236, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

(2) When the accused is charged with an offence, he may be convicted of having attempted to commit that offence, although the attempt is not separately charged.

Illustration.

A is charged with theft. It appears that he committed the offence of criminal breach of trust, or that of receiving stolen goods. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust, or of receiving stolen goods (as the case may be), though he was not charged with such offence.

238. (1) When a person is charged with an offence consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence, and such combination is proved, but the remaining particulars are not proved, he may be convicted of the minor offence, though he was not charged with it.

(2) When a person is charged with an offence and facts are proved which reduce it to a minor offence, he may be convicted of the minor offence, although he is not charged with it.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise a conviction of any offence referred to in section 198 or section 199 when no complaint has been made as required by that section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 407 of the Indian Penal Code, with criminal breach of trust in respect of property entrusted to him as a carrier. It appears that he did commit criminal breach of trust under section 406 in respect of the property but that it was not entrusted to him as a carrier. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust under section 406. XLV of 1860

(b) A is charged, under section 325 of the Indian Penal Code, with causing grievous hurt. He proves that he acted on grave and sudden provocation. He may be convicted under section 335 of that Code. XLV of 1860

239. When more persons than one are accused of the same offence or of different offences committed in the same transaction, or when one person is accused of committing any offence, and another of abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, they may be charged and tried together or separately, as the Court thinks fit, and the provisions contained in the former part of this chapter shall apply to all such charges.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B are accused of the same murder. A and B may be charged and tried together for the murder.

(b) A and B are accused of a robbery, in the course of which A commits a murder with which B has nothing to do. A and B may be tried together on a charge, charging both of them with the robbery, and A alone with the murder.

(c) A and B are both charged with a theft, and B is charged with two other thefts committed by him in the course of the same transaction. A and B may be both tried together on a charge, charging both with the one theft, and B alone with the two other thefts.

240. When a charge containing more heads than one is framed against the same person, and when a conviction has been had on one or more of them, the complainant, or the officer conducting the prosecution, may, with the consent of the Court, withdraw the remaining charge or charges, or the Court of its own accord may stay the inquiry into, or trial of, such charge or charges. Such withdrawal shall have the effect of an acquittal on such charge or charges, unless the conviction be set aside, in which case the said Court (subject to the order of the Court setting aside the conviction) may proceed with the inquiry into or trial of the charge or charges so withdrawn.

CHAPTER XX.

OF THE TRIAL OF SUMMONS-CASES BY MAGISTRATES.

241. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XX.—Of the Trial of Summons-cases by Magistrates.—Sections 242-250.)

242. When the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate, the particulars of the offence of which he is accused shall be stated to him, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted; but it shall not be necessary to frame a formal charge.

243. If the accused admits that he has committed the offence of which he is accused, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him; and, if he shows no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate shall convict him accordingly.

244. (1) If the accused does not make such admission, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

(2) The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the complainant or accused, issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing.

(3) The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses, incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial, be deposited in Court.

245. (1) If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 244 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

(2) If he finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

246. A Magistrate may, under section 243 or section 245, convict the accused of any offence triable under this chapter which from the facts admitted or proved he appears to have committed, whatever may be the nature of the complaint or summons.

247. If the summons has been issued on complaint, and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused, or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

248. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

249. In any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, a Presidency Magistrate, a Magistrate of the first class, or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded by him, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction, and may thereupon release the accused.

Frivolous Accusations in Summons and Warrant Cases.

250. (1) If, in any case instituted by complaint as defined in this Code, or upon information given to a police-officer or to a Magistrate, a person is accused before a Magistrate of any offence triable by a Magistrate, and the Magistrate by whom the case is heard discharges or acquits the accused and is satisfied that the accusation against him was frivolous or vexatious, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, by his order of discharge or acquittal, direct the person upon whose complaint or information the accusation was made to pay to the accused, or to each of the accused where there are more than one, such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Magistrate thinks fit:

Provided that, before making any such direction, the Magistrate shall—

(a) record and consider any objection which the complainant or informant may urge against the making of the direction, and,

(b) if the Magistrate directs any compensation to be paid, state in writing, in his order of discharge or acquittal, his reasons for awarding the compensation.

(2) Compensation of which a Magistrate has ordered payment under sub-section (1) shall be recoverable as if it were a fine:

Provided that, if it cannot be recovered, the imprisonment to be awarded shall be simple, and for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs.

(3) A complainant or informant who has been ordered under sub-section (1) by a Magistrate of the second or third class to pay compensation to an accused person may appeal from the order, in so far as the order relates to the payment of the compensation, as if such complainant or informant had been convicted on a trial held by such Magistrate.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXI.—Of the Trial of Warrant-cases by Magistrates.—Sections 251-259.)

(4) Where an order for payment of compensation to an accused person is made in a case which is subject to appeal under sub-section (3), the compensation shall not be paid to him before the period allowed for the presentation of the appeal has elapsed, or, if an appeal is presented, before the appeal has been decided.

(5) At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any compensation paid or recovered under this section.

CHAPTER XXI.

OF THE TRIAL OF WARRANT-CASES BY MAGISTRATES.

251. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of warrant-cases.

252. (1) When the accused appears or is brought before a Magistrate, such Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any) and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution.

(2) The Magistrate shall ascertain, from the complainant or otherwise, the names of any persons likely to be acquainted with the facts of the case and to be able to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall summon to give evidence before himself such of them as he thinks necessary.

253. (1) If, upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 252, and making such examination (if any) of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary, he finds that no case against the accused has been made out which, if unrebutted, would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

254. If, when such evidence and examination have been taken and when offence appears made, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

255. (1) The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

(2) If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate shall record the plea, and may in his discretion convict him thereon.

256. (1) If the accused refuses to plead, or does not plead, or claims to be tried, he shall be required to state whether he wishes to cross-examine any, and, if so, which, of the witnesses for the prosecution. If he says he does so wish, the witnesses named by him shall be re-called and after cross-examination and re-examination (if any) they shall be discharged. The accused shall then be called upon to enter upon his defence and to produce his evidence.

(2) If the accused puts in any written statement, the Magistrate shall file it with the record.

257. (1) If the accused, after he has entered upon his defence, applies to the Magistrate to issue any process for compelling the attendance of any witness for the purpose of examination or cross-examination, or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless he considers that such application should be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice. Such ground shall be recorded by him in writing:

Provided that, when the accused has cross-examined or had the opportunity of cross-examining any witness after the charge is framed, the attendance of such witness shall not be compelled under this section, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that it is necessary for the purposes of justice.

(2) The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

258. (1) If in any case under this chapter in which a charge has been framed the Magistrate finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

(2) If in any such case the Magistrate finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

259. When the proceedings have been instituted upon complaint, and upon any day fixed for the hearing of the case the complainant is absent, and the offence may be lawfully compounded, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, at any time before the charge has been framed, discharge the accused.

CHAPTER XXII.

OF SUMMARY TRIALS.

Power to try summarily. 260. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code—

- (a) the District Magistrate,
- (b) any Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, and
- (c) any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class and specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, may, if he or they think fit, try in a summary way all or any of the following offences:—

- (a) offences not punishable with death, transportation or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months;
- (b) offences relating to weights and measures under sections 264, 265 and 266 of the Indian Penal Code;
- (c) hurt, under section 323 of the same Code;
- (d) theft, under section 379, 380 or 381 of the same Code, where the value of the property stolen does not exceed fifty rupees;
- (e) dishonest misappropriation of property under section 403 of the same Code, where the value of the property misappropriated does not exceed fifty rupees;
- (f) receiving or retaining stolen property, under section 411 of the same Code, where the value of such property does not exceed fifty rupees;
- (g) assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, under section 414 of the same Code, where the value of such property does not exceed fifty rupees;
- (h) mischief, under section 427 of the same Code;
- (i) house-trespass, under section 448 of the same Code;
- (j) insult with intent to provoke a breach of the peace, under section 504, and criminal intimidation, under section 506, of the same Code;
- (k) abetment of any of the foregoing offences;
- (l) an attempt to commit any of the foregoing offences, when such attempt is an offence;
- (m) offences under section 20 of the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871;

Provided that no case in which a Magistrate exercises the special powers conferred by section 34 shall be tried in a summary way.

(2) When in the course of a summary trial it appears to the Magistrate or Bench that the case is one which is of a character which renders it undesirable that it should be tried summarily, the Magistrate or Bench shall recall any witnesses who may have been examined and proceed to re-hear the case in manner provided by this Code.

261. The Local Government may confer on any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second or third class power to try summarily all or any of the following offences:—

- (a) offences against the Indian Penal Code, sections 277, 278, 279, 285, 286, 289, 290, 292, 293, 294, 323, 334, 336, 341, 352, 426 and 447;
- (b) offences against Municipal Acts, and the conservancy clauses of Police Acts which are punishable only with fine, or with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month;
- (c) abetment of any of the foregoing offences;
- (d) an attempt to commit any of the foregoing offences, when such attempt is an offence.

262. (1) In trials under this chapter, the procedure prescribed for summons-cases shall be followed in summons-cases, and the procedure prescribed for warrant-cases shall be followed in warrant-cases, except as hereinafter mentioned.

(2) No sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three months shall be passed in the case of any conviction under this chapter.

263. In cases where no appeal lies, the Record in cases where there is no appeal. Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates need not record the evidence of the witnesses or frame a formal charge; but he or they shall enter in such form as the Local Government may direct the following particulars:—

- (a) the serial number;
- (b) the date of the commission of the offence;
- (c) the date of the report or complaint;
- (d) the name of the complainant (if any);
- (e) the name, parentage and residence of the accused;
- (f) the offence complained of and the offence (if any) proved, and in cases coming under clause (d), clause (e), clause (f) or clause (g) of sub-section (1) of section 260 the value of the property in respect of which the offence has been committed;

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXII.—Of Summary Trials.—Sections 264-265. Chapter XXIII.—Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.—Sections 266-271.)

- (g) the plea of the accused and his examination (if any);
- (h) the finding, and, in the case of a conviction, a brief statement of the reasons therefor;
- (i) the sentence or other final order; and
- (j) the date on which the proceedings terminated.

264. (1) In every case tried summarily by a Record in appealable Magistrate or Bench in cases. which an appeal lies, such Magistrate or Bench shall, before passing sentence, record a judgment embodying the substance of the evidence and also the particulars mentioned in section 263.

(2) Such judgment shall be the only record in cases coming within this section.

265. (1) Records made under section 263 and Language of record judgments recorded under and judgment. section 264 shall be written by the presiding officer, either in English or in the language of the Court, or, if the Court to which such presiding officer is immediately subordinate so directs, in such officer's mother-tongue.

(2) The Local Government may authorise any Bench may be au- Bench of Magistrates em- thorised to employ clerk. powered to try offences summarily to prepare the aforesaid record or judgment by means of an officer appointed in his behalf by the Court to which such Bench is immediately subordinate, and the record or judgment so prepared shall be signed by each member of such Bench present taking part in the proceedings.

(3) If no such authorisation be given, the record prepared by a member of the Bench and signed as aforesaid shall be the proper record.

(4) If the Bench differ in opinion, any dissentient member may write a separate judgment.

CHAPTER XXIII.

OF TRIALS BEFORE HIGH COURTS AND COURTS OF SESSION.

A.—Preliminary.

266. In this chapter, except in sections 276 and 307, and in Chapter XVIII, the expression "High Court" means a High Court of Judicature established or to be established under the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, and includes the Chief Court of the Punjab, the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon and such other Courts as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare to be High Courts for the purposes of this chapter.

267. All trials under this chapter before a Trials before High High Court shall be by Court to be by jury. jury; and, notwithstanding anything herein contained, in all criminal cases transferred to a High Court under this Code or under the Letters Patent of any High Court established under the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, the trial may, if the High Court so directs, be by jury.

he is guilty of the offence charged, or claims to be tried.

(2) If the accused pleads guilty, the plea shall be recorded, and he may be convicted thereon.

272. If the accused refuses to, or does not, plead, or if he claims to be tried, the Court shall proceed to choose jurors or assessors as hereinafter directed and to try the case :

Provided that, subject to the right of objection hereinafter mentioned, the same jury may try, or the same assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as the Court thinks fit.

273. (1) In trials before the High Court, when it appears to the High Court, at any time before the commencement of the trial of the person charged, that any charge or any portion thereof is clearly unsustainable, the Judge may make on the charge an entry to that effect.

(2) Such entry shall have the effect of staying proceedings upon the charge or portion of the charge, as the case may be.

C.—Choosing a Jury.

274. (1) In trials before the High Court the jury shall consist of nine persons.

(2) In trials by jury before the Court of Session the jury shall consist of such uneven number, not being less than three, or more than nine, as the Local Government, by order applicable to any particular district or to any particular class of offences in that district, may direct.

275. In a trial by jury before the Court of Session of a person not being an European or an American, a majority of the jury shall, if he so desires, consist of persons who are neither Europeans nor Americans.

276. The jurors shall be chosen by lot from the persons summoned to act as such, in such manner as the High Court may from time to time by rule direct :

Provided that—first, pending the issue under this section of rules for any Court, the practice now prevailing in such Court in respect to the choosing of jurors shall be followed ;

secondly, in case of a deficiency of persons summoned, the number of jurors required may, with the leave of the Court, be chosen from such other persons as may be present ;

thirdly, in the presidency towns—

(a) if the accused person is charged with having committed an offence punishable with death, or

(b) if in any other case a Judge of the High Court so directs, the jurors shall be chosen from the special jury list hereinafter prescribed ; and fourthly, in any district for which the Local Government has declared that the trial of certain offences may be by special jury, the jurors shall, in any case in which the Judge so directs, be chosen from the special jury list prescribed in section 325.

277. (1) As each juror is chosen, his name shall be called aloud, and, upon his appearance, the accused shall be asked if he objects to be tried by such juror.

(2) Objection may then be taken to such juror by the accused or by the prosecutor, and the grounds of objection shall be stated :

Provided that, in the High Court, objections without grounds stated shall be allowed to the number of eight on behalf of the Crown and eight on behalf of the person or all the persons charged.

278. Any objection taken to a juror on any of the following grounds, if made out to the satisfaction of the Court, shall be allowed—

(a) some presumed or actual partiality in the juror ;

(b) some personal ground, such as alienage, deficiency in the qualification required by any law or rule having the force of law for the time being in force, or being under the age of twenty-one or above the age of sixty years ;

(c) his having by habit or religious vows relinquished all care of worldly affairs ;

(d) his holding any office in or under the Court ;

(e) his executing any duties of police or being entrusted with police duties ;

(f) his having been convicted of any offence which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him unfit to serve on the jury ;

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIII.—Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.—Sections 279-289.)

(g) his inability to understand the language in which the evidence is given, or when such evidence is interpreted the language in which it is interpreted;

(h) any other circumstance which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him improper as a juror.

279. (1) Every objection taken to a juror shall be decided by the Court, and such decision shall be recorded and be final.

(2) If the objection is allowed, the place of such juror shall be supplied by any other juror attending in obedience to a summons and chosen in manner provided by section 276, or if there is no such other juror present, then by any other person present in the Court whose name is on the list of jurors, or whom the Court considers a proper person to serve on the jury:

Provided that no objection to such juror or other person is taken under section 278 and allowed.

280. (1) When the jurors have been chosen, they shall appoint one of their number to be foreman.

(2) The foreman shall preside in the debates of the jury, deliver the verdict of the jury, and ask any information from the Court that is required by the jury or any of the jurors.

(3) If a majority of the jury do not, within such time as the Judge thinks reasonable, agree in the appointment of a foreman, he shall be appointed by the Court.

281. When the foreman has been appointed, the jurors shall be sworn under the Indian Oaths Act, 1873.

282. (1) If, in the course of a trial by jury, at any time before the return of the verdict, any juror, from any sufficient cause, is prevented from attending throughout the trial, or if any juror absents himself, and it is not practicable to enforce his attendance, or if it appears that any juror is unable to understand the language in which the evidence is given, or when such evidence is interpreted, the language in which it is interpreted, a new juror shall be added, or the jury shall be discharged and a new jury chosen.

(2) In each of such cases the trial shall commence anew.

283. The Judge may also discharge the jury whenever the prisoner becomes incapable of remaining at the bar.

284. When the trial is to be held with the aid of assessors, two or more shall be chosen, as the Judge thinks fit, from the persons summoned to act as such.

285. (1) If, in the course of a trial with the aid of assessors, at any time before the finding, any assessor is unable to attend, or is, from any sufficient cause, prevented from attending throughout the trial, or absents himself, and it is not practicable to enforce his attendance, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other assessor or assessors.

(2) If all the assessors are prevented from attending, or absent themselves, the proceedings shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh assessors.

E.—Trial to Close of Cases for Prosecution and Defence.

286. (1) When the jurors or assessors have been chosen, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal Code or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused.

(2) The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses.

287. The examination of the accused duly recorded by or before the committing Magistrate shall be tendered by the prosecutor and read as evidence.

288. The evidence of a witness duly taken in the presence of the accused before the committing Magistrate may, in the discretion of the presiding Judge, if such witness is produced and examined, be treated as evidence in the case.

289. (1) When the examination of the witnesses for the prosecution and the examination (if any) of the accused are concluded, the accused shall be asked whether he means to adduce evidence.

(2) If he says that he does not, the prosecutor may sum up his case; and, if the Court considers that there is no evidence that the accused committed the offence, it may then, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, record a finding, or, in a case tried by a jury, direct the jury to return a verdict, of not guilty.

(3) If the accused, or any one of several accused, says that he means to adduce evidence, and the Court considers that there is no evidence that the accused committed the offence, the Court may then, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, record a finding, or, in a case tried by a jury, direct the jury to return a verdict, of not guilty.

(4) If the accused, or any one of several accused, says that he means to adduce evidence, and the Court considers that there is evidence that he committed the offence, or if, on his saying that he does not mean to adduce evidence, the prosecutor sums up his case and the Court considers that there is evidence that the accused committed the offence, the Court shall call on the accused to enter on his defence.

290. The accused or his pleader may then open his case, stating the facts or law on which he intends to rely, and making such comments as he thinks necessary on the evidence for the prosecution. He may then examine his witnesses (if any) and after their cross-examination and re-examination (if any) may sum up his case.

291. The accused shall be allowed to examine any witness not previously named by him, if such witness is in attendance; but he shall not, except as provided in sections 211 and 231, be entitled of right to have any witness summoned, other than the witnesses named in the list delivered to the Magistrate by whom he was committed for trial.

292. If the accused, or any of the accused, adduces any evidence, the prosecutor shall be entitled to reply.

293. (1) Whenever the Court thinks that the jury or assessors should view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, or any other place in which any other transaction material to the trial is alleged to have occurred, the Court shall make an order to that effect, and the jury or assessors shall be conducted in a body, under the care of an officer of the Court, to such place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court.

(2) Such officer shall not except with the permission of the Court, suffer any other person to speak to, or hold any communication with, any of the jury or assessors, and, unless the Court otherwise directs, they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

294. If a juror or assessor is personally acquainted with any relevant fact, it is his duty to inform the Judge that such is the case, whereupon he may be sworn, examined, cross-examined and re-examined in the same manner as any other witness.

295. If a trial is adjourned, the jury or assessors shall attend at the adjourned sitting, and at every subsequent sitting, until the conclusion of the trial.

296. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial before such Court lasting for more than one day; and, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether and in what manner the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer of the Court, or whether they shall be allowed to return to their respective homes.

F.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried by Jury.

297. In cases tried by jury, when the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court shall proceed to charge the jury, summing up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided.

298. (1) In such cases it is the duty of the Judge—

- (a) to decide all questions of law arising in the course of the trial, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, and the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of questions asked by or on behalf of the parties; and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;
- (b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;
- (c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIII.—Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.—Sections 299-306.)

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall bind the jurors.

(2) The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not being a witness in the case, on the ground that circumstances are proved which render evidence of such statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

299. It is the duty of the jury—

Duty of jury.

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms (other than terms of law) and words used in an unusual sense which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried for the murder of B.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury

300. In cases tried by jury, after the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Except with the leave of the Court, no person other than a juror shall speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

301. When the jury have considered their verdict the foreman shall inform the Judge what is their verdict, or what is the verdict of a majority.

302. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

303. (1) Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the jury shall return a verdict on all the charges on which the accused is tried, and the Judge may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is.

(2) Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

304. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

305. (1) When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

(2) When in any such case the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

(3) If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall at once discharge the jury.

(4) If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

306. (1) When in a case tried before the Court of Session the Judge does not think it necessary to express disagreement with the verdict of the jurors or of a majority of the jurors, he shall give judgment accordingly.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIII.—Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.—Sections 307-311.)

(2) If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

307. (1) If in any such case the Judge Procedure where disagrees with the verdict Sessions Judge dis- of the jurors, or of a agrees with verdict. majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, and is clearly of opinion that it is necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion, and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

(2) Whenever the Judge submits a case under this section, he shall not record judgment of acquittal or of conviction on any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, but he may either remand the accused to custody or admit him to bail.

(3) In dealing with the case so submitted the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal, and subject thereto it shall, after considering the entire evidence and after giving due weight to the opinions of the Sessions Judge and the jury, acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it; and, if it convicts him, may pass such sentence as might have been passed by the Court of Session.

G.—Re-trial of Accused after Discharge of Jury.

308. Whenever the jury is discharged, the Re-trial of accused accused shall be detained after discharge of jury. in custody or on bail (as the case may be), and shall be tried by another jury, unless the Judge considers that he should not be re-tried, in which case the Judge shall make an entry to that effect on the charge, and such entry shall operate as an acquittal.

H.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried with Assessors.

309. (1) When, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, the case for the Defence and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court may sum up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and shall then require each of the assessors to state his opinion orally, and shall record such opinion.

(2) The Judge shall then give judgment, but in doing so shall not be bound to conform to the opinions of the assessors.

(3) If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

I.—Procedure in Case of Previous Conviction.

310. In the case of a trial by jury or with the aid of assessors, where the accused is charged with an offence committed after a previous conviction for any offence, the procedure laid down in sections 271, 286, 305, 306 and 309 shall be modified as follows:—

(a) the part of the charge stating the previous conviction shall not be read out in Court, nor shall the accused be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the charge unless and until he has either pleaded guilty to, or been convicted of, the subsequent offence:

(b) if he pleads guilty to, or is convicted of, the subsequent offence, he shall then be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the charge:

(c) if he answers that he has been so previously convicted, the Judge may proceed to pass sentence on him accordingly; but, if he denies that he has been so previously convicted, or refuses to, or does not, answer such question, the jury, or the Court and the assessors (as the case may be), shall then hear evidence concerning such previous conviction, and in such case (where the trial is by jury) it shall not be necessary to swear the jurors again.

311. Notwithstanding anything in the last [Act X of 1892, s. 310,] When evidence of preceding section, evidence of the previous conviction may be given. conviction may be given at the trial for the subsequent offence, if the fact of the previous conviction is relevant under the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIII.—Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.—Sections 312-319.)7.—List of Jurors for High Court, and summoning Jurors for that Court.

313. (1) The Clerk of the Crown shall, before Lists of common and the first day of April in special jurors. each year, and subject to such rules as the High Court from time to time prescribes, prepare—

(a) a list of all persons liable to serve as common jurors; and

(b) a list of persons liable to serve as special jurors only.

(2) Regard shall be had, in the preparation of the latter list, to the property, character and education of the persons whose names are entered therein.

(3) No person shall be entitled to have his name entered in the special jurors' list merely because he may have been entered in the special jurors' list for a previous year.

(4) The Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Fort William in Bengal, and, in the case of other High Courts, the Local Government, may exempt any salaried officer of Government from serving as a juror.

(5) The Clerk of the Crown shall, subject to

(a) to determine such rules as aforesaid, have Discretion of officer full discretion to prepare the preparing lists. said lists as seems to him to be proper, and there shall be no appeal from, or review of, his decision.

314. (1) Preliminary lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and Publication of lists, preliminary and re-vised. as special jurors, respectively, signed by the Clerk of the Crown, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the fifteenth day of April next after their preparation.

(2) Revised lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and special jurors, respectively, signed as aforesaid, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the first day of May next after their preparation.

(3) Copies of the said lists shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the court-house.

315. (1) Out of the persons named in the revised lists aforesaid, there shall be summoned for each sessions in each presidency-town at least twenty-seven Number of jurors to be summoned in presi- dency-towns. of those who are liable to serve on special juries, and fifty-four of those who are liable to serve on common juries.

(2) No person shall be so summoned more than once in six months unless the number cannot be made up without him.

(3) If, during the continuance of any sessions, Supplementary sum- it appears that the number of persons so summoned is not sufficient, such number as may be necessary of other persons liable to serve as aforesaid shall be summoned for such sessions.

316. Whenever a High Court has given notice of its intention to hold sittings at any place outside the presidency-towns for the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Session at such place shall, subject to any direction which may be given by the High Court, summon a sufficient number of jurors from its own list, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for summoning jurors to the Court of Session.

317. (1) In addition to the persons so summoned as jurors, the said Court of Session shall, if it thinks needful, after communication with the commanding officer, cause to be summoned such number of commissioned and non-commissioned officers in Her Majesty's Army resident within ten miles of its place of sitting as the Court considers to be necessary to make up the juries required for the trial of persons charged with offences before the High Court as aforesaid.

(2) All officers so summoned shall be liable to serve on such juries notwithstanding anything contained in this Code; but no such officer shall be summoned whom his commanding officer desires to have excused on the ground of urgent military duty, or for any other special military reason.

318. Any person summoned under section 315, section 316 or section 317, who, without lawful excuse, fails to attend as required by the summons, or who, having attended, departs without having obtained the permission of the Judge, or fails to attend after an adjournment of the Court after being ordered to attend, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt and be liable, by order of the Judge, to such fine as he thinks fit; and, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months in the civil jail until the fine is paid:

Provided that the Court may in its discretion remit any fine or imprisonment so imposed.

K.—List of Jurors and Assessors for Court of Session, and summoning Jurors and Assessors for that Court.

on behalf of Her Majesty that he will not further prosecute the defendant upon the charge; and thereupon all proceedings on such charge against the defendant shall be stayed, and he shall be discharged of and from the same. But such discharge shall not amount to an acquittal unless the presiding Judge otherwise directs.

334. For the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, every High Court shall hold sittings on such days and at such convenient intervals as the Chief Justice of such Court from time to time appoints.

335. (r) The High Court shall hold its sittings at the place at which it now holds them, or at such other place (if any) as the Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Fort William, or the Local Government in the case of the other High Courts, may direct.

(a) But it may, from time to time, in the case of the High Court at Fort William with the consent of the Governor General in Council, and in all other cases with the consent of the Local Government, hold sittings at such other places within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction as the High Court appoints.

(3) Such officer as the Chief Justice directs shall give notice beforehand in the local official Gazette of all sittings intended to be held for the exercise of the original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court.

336. The High Court may direct that all European British subjects and persons liable to be tried by it under section 214, who have been committed for trial by it within certain specified districts or during certain specified periods of the year, shall be tried at the ordinary place of sitting of the Court, or direct that they shall be tried at a particular place named.

CHAPTER XXIV.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AS TO INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

337. (r) In the case of any offence triable exclusively by the Court of Session or High Court, the District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, any Magistrate of the first class inquiring into the offence, or, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, any other

Magistrate, may, with the view of obtaining the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, the offence under inquiry, tender a pardon to such person on condition of his making a full and true disclosure of the whole of the circumstances within his knowledge relative to such offence, and to every other person concerned, whether as principal or abettor, in the commission thereof.

(a) Every person accepting a tender under this section shall be examined as a witness in the case.

(3) Such person, if not on bail, shall be detained in custody until the termination of the trial by the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

(4) Every Magistrate, other than a Presidency Magistrate, who tenders a pardon under this section, shall record his reasons for so doing; and, when any Magistrate has made such tender and examined the person to whom it has been made, he shall not try the case himself, although the offence which the accused appears to have committed may be triable by such Magistrate.

338. At any time after commitment, but before judgment is passed, the Court to which the commitment is made may, with the view of obtaining on the trial the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, any such offence, tender, or order the committing Magistrate or the District Magistrate to tender, a pardon on the same condition to such person.

339. (r) Where a pardon has been tendered under section 337 or section 338, and any person who has accepted such tender has, either by wilfully concealing anything essential or by giving false evidence, not complied with the condition on which the tender was made, he may be tried for the offence in respect of which the pardon was so tendered, or for any other offence of which he appears to have been guilty in connection with the same matter.

(a) The statement made by a person who has accepted a tender of pardon may be given in evidence against him when the pardon has been forfeited under this section.

(3) No prosecution for the offence of giving false evidence in respect of such statement shall be entertained without the sanction of the High Court.

**The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.*

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIV.—General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials—Sections 340-345.)

340. Every person accused before any Criminal Court may of right be defended by a pleader.

Right of accused to be defended.

341. If the accused, though not insane, cannot be made to understand the proceedings, the Court may proceed with the inquiry or trial; and, in the case of a Court other than a High Court, if such inquiry results in a commitment, or if such trial results in a conviction, the proceedings shall be forwarded to the High Court with a report of the circumstances of the case, and the High Court shall pass thereon such order as it thinks fit.

342. (1) For the purpose of enabling the accused to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court may, at any stage of any inquiry or trial, without previously warning the accused, put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary, and shall, for the purpose aforesaid, question him generally on the case after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined, and before he is called on for his defence.

(2) The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them; but the Court and the jury (if any) may draw such inference from such refusal or answers as it thinks just.

(3) The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answers may tend to show he has committed.

(4) No oath shall be administered to the accused.

343. Except as provided in sections 337 and 338, no influence, by means of any promise or threat or otherwise, shall be used to an accused person to induce him to disclose or withhold any matter within his knowledge.

344. (1) If, from the absence of a witness, or any other reasonable cause, it becomes necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, the Court may, if it thinks fit, by order in writing, stating the reasons therefor, from time to time, postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit, for such time as it considers reasonable, and may by a warrant remand the accused if in custody:

Provided that no Magistrate shall remand an accused person to custody under this section for a term exceeding fifteen days at a time.

(2) Every order made under this section by a Court other than a High Court shall be in writing signed by the presiding Judge or Magistrate.

EXPLANATION.—If sufficient evidence has been obtained to raise a suspicion that the accused may have committed an offence, and it appears likely that further evidence may be obtained by a remand, this is a reasonable cause for a remand.

345. (1) The offences punishable under the sections of the Indian Penal Code described in the first two columns of the table next following may be compounded by the persons mentioned in the third column of that table:—

Offence.	Sections of Indian Penal Code applicable.	Person by whom offence may be compounded.
Uttering words, etc., with deliberate intent to wound the religious feelings of any person	298	The person whose religious feelings are intended to be wounded.
Causing hurt . . .	323, 334	The person to whom the hurt is caused.
Wrongfully restraining or confining any person.	341, 342	The person restrained or confined.
Assault or use of criminal force.	352, 355, 358	The person assaulted or to whom criminal force is used.
Unlawful compulsory labour.	374	The person compelled to labour.
Mischief, when the only loss or damage caused is loss or damage to a private person.	426, 427	The person to whom the loss or damage is caused.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIV.—General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials—Sections 345-348.)

Offence.	Sections of Indian Penal Code applicable.	Person by whom offence may be compounded.
Criminal trespass .	447	The person in possession of the property trespassed upon.
House-trespass .	448
Criminal breach of contract of service.	490, 491, 492	The person with whom the offender has contracted.
Adultery . . .	497	The husband of the woman.
Enticing or taking away or detaining with a criminal intent a married woman.	498
Defamation . . .	500	The person defamed.
Printing or engraving matter knowing it to be defamatory.	501
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter, knowing it to contain such matter.	502
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace.	504
Criminal intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years.	506	The person intimidated.

(2) The offences of causing hurt and grievous hurt, punishable under section 324, section 325, section 335, section 337, or section 338 of the Indian Penal Code, may, with the permission of the Court before which any prosecution for such offence is pending, be compounded by the person to whom the hurt has been caused.

(3) When any offence is compoundable under this section, the abetment of such offence or an attempt to commit such offence (when such attempt is itself an offence) may be compounded in like manner.

(4) When the person who would otherwise be competent to compound an offence under this section is a minor, an idiot or a lunatic, any person competent to contract on his behalf may compound such offence.

(5) When the accused has been committed for trial or when he has been convicted and an appeal is pending, no composition for the offence shall be allowed without the leave of the Court to which he is committed, or, as the case may be, before which the appeal is to be heard.

(6) The composition of an offence under this section shall have the effect of an acquittal of the accused.

(7) No offence shall be compounded except as provided by this section.

346. (1) If, in the course of an inquiry or a trial before a Magistrate in any district outside the presidency-towns, the evidence appears to him to warrant a presumption that the case is one which should be tried or committed for trial by some other Magistrate in such district, he shall stay proceedings and submit the case, with a brief report explaining its nature, to any Magistrate to whom he is subordinate or to such other Magistrate, having jurisdiction, as the District Magistrate directs.

(2) The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted may, if so empowered, either try the case himself, or refer it to any Magistrate subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or commit the accused for trial.

347. (1) If in any inquiry before a Magistrate, or in any trial before a Magistrate before signing judgment, it appears to him at any stage of the proceedings that the case is one which ought to be tried by the Court of Session or High Court, and if he is empowered to commit for trial, he shall stop further proceedings and commit the accused under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

(2) If such Magistrate is not empowered to commit for trial, he shall proceed under section 346.

348. Whoever, having been convicted of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, is again accused of any offence punishable under either of those chapters with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, shall be committed to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be, unless the Magistrate before whom the proceedings are pending is of opinion that he can himself pass an adequate sentence if the accused is convicted:

Provided that, if the District Magistrate has been invested with powers under section 30, the case may be transferred to him instead of being committed to the Court of Session.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXIV.—General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials—Sections 349-352. Chapter XXV.—Of the Mode of taking and recording Evidence in Inquiries and Trials—Sections 353-355.)

349. (1) Whenever a Magistrate of the second or third class, having jurisdiction, is of opinion, after hearing the evidence for the prosecution and the accused, that the accused is guilty, and that he ought to receive a punishment different in kind from, or more severe than, that which such Magistrate is empowered to inflict, or that he ought to be required to execute a bond under section 106, he may record the opinion and submit his proceedings, and forward the accused, to the District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

(2) The Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted may, if he thinks fit, examine the parties and recall and examine any witness who has already given evidence in the case, and may call for and take any further evidence, and shall pass such judgment, sentence or order in the case as he thinks fit, and as is according to law :

Provided that he shall not inflict a punishment more severe than he is empowered to inflict under sections 32 and 33.

350. (1) Whenever any Magistrate, after having heard and recorded the whole or any part of the evidence in an inquiry or a trial, ceases to exercise jurisdiction therein, and is succeeded by another Magistrate who has and who exercises such jurisdiction, the Magistrate so succeeding may act on the evidence so recorded by his predecessor, or partly recorded by his predecessor and partly recorded by himself ; or he may re-summon the witnesses and recommence the inquiry or trial :

Provided as follows :—

(a) in any trial the accused may, when the second Magistrate commences his proceedings, demand that the witnesses or any of them be re-summoned and re-heard ;

(b) the High Court or, in cases tried by Magistrates subordinate to the District Magistrate, the District Magistrate may, whether there be an appeal or not, set aside any conviction passed on evidence not wholly recorded by the Magistrate before whom the conviction was had, if such Court or District Magistrate is of opinion that the accused has been materially prejudiced thereby, and may order a new inquiry or trial.

(c) Nothing in this section applies to cases in which proceedings have been stayed under section 346.

351. (1) Any person attending a Criminal Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of inquiry into or trial of any offence of which such Court can take cognizance and which, from the evidence, may appear to have been committed, and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned.

(2) When the detention takes place in the course of an inquiry under Chapter XVIII, or after a trial has been begun, the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh and the witnesses re-heard.

352. The place in which any Criminal Court is held for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence shall be deemed an open Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them :

Provided that the presiding Judge or Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, order at any stage of any inquiry into, or trial of, any particular case that the public generally or any particular person, shall not have access to, or be or remain in, the room or building used by the Court.

CHAPTER XXV.

OF THE MODE OF TAKING AND RECORDING EVIDENCE IN INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

353. Except as otherwise expressly provided all evidence taken under Chapters XVIII, XX, XXI, XXII and XXIII shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in presence of his pleader.

354. In inquiries and trials (other than summary trials) under this Code by or before a Magistrate (other than a Presidency Magistrate) or Sessions Judge, the evidence of the witnesses shall be recorded in the following manner.

355. (1) In summons-cases tried before a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate, and in cases of the offences mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 260, clauses (b) to (m), both inclusive, when tried by a Magistrate of the first or second class, and in all proceedings under section 514 (if not in the course of a trial), the Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of the witness proceeds.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXV.—Of the Mode of taking and recording Evidence in Inquiries and Trials—Sections 356-351.)

(2) Such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

(3) If the Magistrate is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same; and such memorandum shall form part of the record.

356. (1) In all other trials before Courts of Session and Magistrates (other than Presidency Magistrates) and in all inquiries under Chapters XII and XVIII, the evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language of the Court, by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, or in his presence, and hearing and under his personal direction and superintendence, and shall be signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge.

(2) When the evidence of such witness is given in English, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may take it down in that language with his own hand, and, unless the accused is familiar with English, or the language of the Court is English, an authenticated translation of such evidence in the language of the Court shall form part of the record.

(3) In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

(4) If the Magistrate or Sessions Judge is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to make it.

357. (1) The Local Government may direct that in any district or part of a district, or in proceedings before any Court of Session, or before any Magistrate or class of Magistrates, the evidence of each witness shall, in the cases referred to in section 356, be taken down by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate with his own hand and in his mother-tongue, unless he is prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court.

(2) The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate, and shall form part of the record:

Provided that the Local Government may direct the Sessions Judge or Magistrate to take down the evidence in the English language, or in the language of the Court, although such language is not his mother-tongue.

358. In cases of the kind mentioned in section 355, the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take down the evidence of any witness in the manner provided in section 356, or, if within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the Local Government has made the order referred to in section 357, in the manner provided in the same section.

359. (1) Evidence taken under section 356 or section 357 shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative.

(2) The Magistrate or Sessions Judge may, in his discretion, take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer.

360. (1) As the evidence of each witness taken under section 356 or section 357 is completed, it shall be read over to him in the presence of the accused, if in attendance, or of his pleader, if he appears by pleader, and shall, if necessary, be corrected.

(2) If the witness deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he thinks necessary.

(3) If the evidence be taken down in a language different from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the evidence so taken down shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

361. (1) Whenever any evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused, or he is present in person, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him.

(2) If he appears by pleader and the evidence is given in a language other than the language of the Court, and not understood by the pleader, it shall be interpreted to such pleader in that language.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXV.—Of the Mode of taking and recording Evidence in Inquiries and Trials—Sections 362-365. Chapter XXVI.—Of the Judgment—Section 366.)

(3) When documents are put in for the purpose of formal proof, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to interpret as much thereof as appears necessary.

362. (1) In every case in which a Presidency Magistrate imposes a fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months, he shall either take down the evidence of the witnesses with his own hand, or cause it to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. All evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate and shall form part of the record.

(2) Evidence so taken down shall ordinarily be recorded in the form of a narrative, but the Magistrate may, in his discretion, take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question or answer.

(3) Sentences passed under section 35 on the same occasion shall, for the purposes of this section, be considered as one sentence.

363. When a Sessions Judge or Magistrate has recorded the evidence of a witness he shall also record such remarks (if any) as he thinks material respecting the demeanour of such witness whilst under examination.

364. (1) Whenever the accused is examined by any Magistrate, or by any Court other than a High Court established by Royal Charter or the Chief Court of the Punjab, the whole of such examination, including every question put to him and every answer given by him, shall be recorded in full, in the language in which he is examined, or, if that is not practicable, in the language of the Court or English: and such record shall be shown or read to him, or, if he does not understand the language in which it is written, shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers.

(2) When the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the record shall be signed by the accused and the Magistrate or Judge of such Court, and such Magistrate or Judge shall certify under his own hand that the examination was taken in his presence and hearing, and that the record contains a full and true account of the statement made by the accused.

(3) In cases in which the examination of the accused is not recorded by the Magistrate or Judge himself, he shall be bound, unless he is a Presidency Magistrate, as the examination proceeds, to make a memorandum thereof in the language of the Court, or in English, if he is sufficiently acquainted with the latter language; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Judge with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate or Judge is unable to make a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of such inability.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to the examination of an accused person under section 263.

365. Every High Court established by Royal Charter and the Chief Court of the Punjab may, from time to time, by general rule, prescribe the manner in which evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Court, and the Judges of such Court shall take down the evidence or the substance thereof in accordance with the rule (if any) so prescribed.

CHAPTER XXVI.

OF THE JUDGMENT.

366. (1) The judgment in every trial in any Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall be pronounced, or the substance of such judgment shall be explained,—

(a) in open Court either immediately after the termination of the trial or at some subsequent time of which notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders, and

(b) in the language of the Court, or in some other language which the accused or his pleader understands:

Provided that the whole judgment shall be read out by the presiding Judge, if he is requested so to do either by the prosecution or the defence.

(2) The accused shall, if in custody, be brought up, or, if not in custody, shall be required by the Court to attend, to hear judgment delivered, except where his personal attendance during the trial has been dispensed with and the sentence is one of fine only or he is acquitted, in either of which cases it may be delivered in the presence of his pleader.

(3) No judgment delivered by any Criminal Court shall be deemed to be invalid by reason only of the absence of any party or his pleader on the day or from the place notified for the delivery thereof, or of any omission to serve, or defect in serving, on the parties or their pleaders, or any of them, the notice of such day and place.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit in any way the extent of the provisions of section 537.

367. (1) Every such judgment shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be written by the presiding officer of the Court in the language of the Court, or in English; and shall contain the point or points for determination, the decision thereon and the reasons for the decision; and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer in open Court at the time of pronouncing it.

XLV of 1860. (2) It shall specify the offence (if any) of which, and the section of the Indian Penal Code or other law under which the accused is convicted, and the punishment to which he is sentenced.

XLV of 1860. (3) When the conviction is under the Indian Penal Code, and it is doubtful under which of two sections, or under which of two parts of the same section, of that Code the offence falls, the Court shall distinctly express the same, and pass judgment in the alternative.

(4) If it be a judgment of acquittal, it shall state the offence of which the accused is acquitted and direct that he be set at liberty.

(5) If the accused is convicted of an offence punishable with death, and the Court sentences him to any punishment other than death, the Court shall in its judgment state the reason why sentence of death was not passed:

Provided that, in trials by jury, the Court need not write a judgment, but the Court of Session shall record the heads of the charge to the jury.

368. (1) When any person is sentenced to death, the sentence shall direct that he be hanged by the neck till he is dead.

(2) No sentence of transportation shall specify the place to which the person sentenced is to be transported.

369. No Court, other than a High Court, when it has signed its judgment, shall alter or review the same, except as provided in sections 395 and 484 or to correct a clerical error.

370. Instead of recording a judgment in manner hereinbefore provided, a Presidency Magistrate shall record the following particulars:—

- (a) the serial number of the case;
- (b) the date of the commission of the offence;
- (c) the name of the complainant (if any);
- (d) the name of the accused person, and (except in the case of an European British subject) his parentage and residence;
- (e) the offence complained of or proved;
- (f) the plea of the accused and his examination (if any);
- (g) the final order;
- (h) the date of such order; and
- (i) in all cases in which the Magistrate inflicts imprisonment, or fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or both, a brief statement of the reasons for the conviction.

371. (1) On the application of the accused a copy of the judgment, or, when he so desires, a translation in his own language, if practicable, or in the language of the Court, shall be given to him without delay. Such copy shall, in any case other than a summons-case, be given free of cost.

(2) In trials by jury in a Court of Session, a copy of the heads of the charge to the jury shall, on the application of the accused, be given to him without delay and free of cost.

(3) When the accused is sentenced to death by a Sessions Judge, such Judge shall further inform him of the period within which, if he wishes to appeal, his appeal should be preferred.

372. The original judgment shall be filed with the record of proceedings, and, where the original is recorded in a different language from that of the Court, and the accused so requires, a translation thereof into the language of the Court shall be added to such record.

373. In cases tried by the Court of Session, the Court shall forward a copy of its finding and sentence (if any) to the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the trial was held.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXVII.—Of the Submission of Sentences for Confirmation—Sections 374-380. Chapter XXVIII.—Of Execution—Sections 381-383.)

CHAPTER XXVII.

OF THE SUBMISSION OF SENTENCES FOR CONFIRMATION.

374. When the Court of Session passes sentence of death, the proceedings shall be submitted to the High Court and the sentence shall not be executed unless it is confirmed by the High Court.

375. (1) If when such proceedings are submitted the High Court thinks that a further inquiry should be made into, or additional evidence taken upon, any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the convicted person, it may make such inquiry or take such evidence itself, or direct it to be made or taken by the Court of Session.

(2) Such inquiry shall not be made nor shall such evidence be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors, and, unless the High Court otherwise directs, the presence of the convicted person may be dispensed with when the same is made or taken.

(3) When the inquiry and the evidence (if any) are not made and taken by the High Court, the result of such inquiry and the evidence shall be certified to such Court.

376. In any case submitted under section 374, whether tried with the aid of assessors or by jury, the High Court—

- (a) may confirm the sentence, or pass any other sentence warranted by law, or
- (b) may annul the conviction, and convict the accused of any offence of which the Sessions Court might have convicted him, or order a new trial on the same or an amended charge, or
- (c) may acquit the accused person :

Provided that no order of confirmation shall be made under this section until the period allowed for preferring an appeal has expired, or, if an appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal is disposed of.

377. In every case so submitted, the confirmation of the sentence, or any new sentence or order passed by the High Court, shall, when such Court consists of two or more Judges, be made, passed and signed by at least two of them.

378. When any such case is heard before a Bench of Judges and such difference of opinion. Judges are equally divided in opinion, the case, with their opinions thereon, shall be laid before another Judge, and such Judge, after such hearing as he thinks fit, shall deliver his opinion, and the judgment or order shall follow such opinion.

379. In cases submitted by the Court of Session to the High Court for the confirmation of a sentence of death, the proper officer of the High Court shall, without delay, after the order of confirmation or other order has been made by the High Court, send a copy of the order, under the seal of the High Court and attested with his official signature, to the Court of Session.

380. Where proceedings are submitted to a Magistrate of the first class or a Subdivisional Magistrate as provided by section 562, such Magistrate may thereupon pass such sentence or make such order as he might have passed or made if the case had originally been heard by him, and if he thinks further inquiry or additional evidence on any point to be necessary, he may make such inquiry or take such evidence himself or direct such inquiry or evidence to be made or taken

CHAPTER XXVIII.

OF EXECUTION.

381. When a sentence of death passed by a Court of Session is submitted to the High Court for confirmation, such Court of Session shall, on receiving the order of confirmation or other order of the High Court thereon, cause such order to be carried into effect by issuing a warrant or taking such other steps as may be necessary.

382. If a woman sentenced to death be found to be pregnant, the High Court shall order the execution of the sentence to be postponed, and may, if it thinks fit, commute the sentence to transportation for life.

383. Where the accused is sentenced to transportation or imprisonment in cases other than those provided for by section 381, the Court passing the sentence shall forthwith forward a warrant to the jail in which he is or is to be confined, and, unless the accused is already confined in such jail, shall forward him to such jail, with the warrant.

384. Every warrant for the execution of a sentence of imprisonment shall be directed to the officer in charge of the jail or other place in which the prisoner is, or is to be, confined.

385. When the prisoner is to be confined in a jail, the warrant shall be lodged with the jailor.

386. Whenever an offender is sentenced to pay a fine, the Court passing the sentence may, in its discretion, issue a warrant for the levy of the amount by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender, although the sentence directs that, in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall be imprisoned.

387. Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court, and it shall authorise the distress and sale of any such property without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

388. (1) When an offender has been sentenced to fine only, and to imprisonment in default of payment of the fine, and the Court issues a warrant under section 386, it may suspend the execution of the sentence of imprisonment and may release the offender on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as the Court thinks fit, conditioned for his appearance before such Court on the day appointed for the return to such warrant, such day not being more than fifteen days from the time of executing the bond; and in the event of the fine not having been realized the Court may direct the sentence of imprisonment to be carried into execution at once.

(2) In any case in which an order for the payment of money has been made, on non-recovery of which imprisonment may be awarded, and the money is not paid forthwith, the Court may require the person ordered to make such payment to enter into a bond as prescribed in sub-section (1), and in default of his so doing may at once pass sentence of imprisonment as if the money had not been recovered.

389. Every warrant for the execution of any sentence may be issued either by the Judge or Magistrate who passed the sentence or by his successor in office.

390. When the accused is sentenced to whipping only, the sentence shall be executed at such place and time as the Court may direct.

391. (1) When the accused is sentenced to whipping in addition to imprisonment in a case which is subject to appeal, the whipping shall not be inflicted until fifteen days from the date of the sentence, or, if an appeal be made within that time, until the sentence is confirmed by the Appellate Court; but the whipping shall be inflicted as soon as practicable after the expiry of the fifteen days, or, in case of an appeal, as soon as practicable after the receipt of the order of the Appellate Court confirming the sentence.

(2) The whipping shall be inflicted in the presence of the officer in charge of the jail, unless the Judge or Magistrate orders it to be inflicted in his own presence.

(3) No accused person shall be sentenced to whipping in addition to imprisonment when the term of imprisonment to which he is sentenced is less than three months.

392. (1) In the case of a person of or over sixteen years of age, whipping shall be inflicted with a light ratan not less than half an inch in diameter, in such mode, and on such part of the person, as the Local Government directs; and, in the case of a person under sixteen years of age, it shall be inflicted in such mode, and on such part of the person, and with such instrument as the Local Government directs.

(2) In no case shall such punishment exceed thirty stripes.

393. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments: none of the following persons shall be punishable with whipping (namely):—

- (a) females;
- (b) males sentenced to death, or to transportation, or to penal servitude, or to imprisonment for more than five years;
- (c) males whom the Court considers to be more than forty-five years of age.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXVIII.—Of Execution.—Sections 394-399.)

394. (1) The punishment of whipping shall not be inflicted unless a medical officer, if present, certifies, or, if there is not a medical officer present, unless it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo such punishment.

(2) If, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a medical officer certifies, or it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the sentence, the whipping shall be finally stopped.

395. (1) In any case in which, under section 394, a sentence of whipping is wholly or partially, prevented from being executed, the offender shall be kept in custody till the Court which passed the sentence can revise it; and the said Court may, at its discretion, either remit such sentence, or sentence the offender in lieu of whipping, or in lieu of so much of the sentence of whipping as was not executed, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding twelve months, which may be in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise any Court to inflict imprisonment for a term exceeding that to which the accused is liable by law, or that which the said Court is competent to inflict.

396. (1) When sentence is passed under this Code on an escaped convict, such sentence, if of death, fine or whipping, shall, subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, take effect immediately, and if of imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, shall take effect according to the following rules, that is to say:—

(2) If the new sentence is severer in its kind than the sentence which such convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect immediately.

(3) When the new sentence is not severer in its kind than the sentence the convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect after he has suffered imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, as the case may be, for a further period equal to that which, at the time of his escape, remained unexpired of his former sentence.

EXPLANATION.—For the purposes of this section—

(a) a sentence of transportation or penal servitude shall be deemed severer than a sentence of imprisonment;

(b) a sentence of imprisonment with solitary confinement shall be deemed severer than a sentence of the same description of imprisonment without solitary confinement; and

(c) a sentence of rigorous imprisonment shall be deemed severer than a sentence of simple imprisonment with or without solitary confinement.

397. When a person already undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, already sentenced for another offence, or penal servitude or transportation is sentenced to imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, such imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation shall commence at the expiration of the imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation to which he has been previously sentenced:

Provided that if he is undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, and the sentence on such subsequent conviction be one of transportation, the Court may, in its discretion, direct that the latter sentence shall commence immediately, or at the expiration of the imprisonment to which he has been previously sentenced.

398. (1) Nothing in section 396 or section 397 shall be held to excuse any person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon his former or subsequent conviction.

(2) When an award of imprisonment in default of payment of a fine is annexed to a substantive sentence of imprisonment, or to a sentence of transportation or penal servitude for an offence punishable with imprisonment, and the person undergoing the sentence is after its execution to undergo a further substantive sentence, or further substantive sentences, of imprisonment, transportation or penal servitude, effect shall not be given to the award of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine, until the person has undergone the further sentence or sentences.

399. (1) When any person under the age of fifteen years is sentenced by any Criminal Court to imprisonment for any offence, the Court may direct that such person, instead of being imprisoned in a criminal jail, shall be confined in any reformatory established by the Local Government as a fit place for confinement, in which there are means of suitable discipline and of training in some branch of useful industry or which is kept by a person

[cf. s. 10, Act VIII of 1897.]

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions. Chapter XXVIII.—Of Execution.—Section 400. Chapter XXIX.—Of Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.—Sections 401-402. Chapter XXX.—Of previous Acquittals or Convictions.—Section 403.)

willing to obey such rules as the Local Government prescribes with regard to the discipline and training of persons confined therein.

(2) All persons confined under this section shall be subject to the rules so prescribed.

(3) This section shall not apply to any place in which the Reformatory Schools Act, 1897, is for the time being in force.

400. When a sentence has been fully executed, the officer executing it shall return the warrant to the Court from which it issued, with an endorsement under his hand certifying the manner in which the sentence has been executed.

CHAPTER XXIX.

OF SUSPENSIONS, REMISSIONS AND COMMUTATIONS OF SENTENCES.

401. (1) When any person has been sentenced to punishment for an offence, the Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may at any time, without conditions or upon any conditions which the person sentenced accepts, suspend the execution of his sentence or remit the whole or any part of the punishment to which he has been sentenced.

(2) Whenever an application is made to the Governor General in Council or the Local Government for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, may require the presiding Judge of the Court before or by which the conviction was had or confirmed to state his opinion as to whether the application should be granted or refused, together with his reasons for such opinion.

(3) If any condition on which a sentence has been suspended or remitted is, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council or of the Local Government, as the case may be, not fulfilled, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may cancel the suspension or remission, and thereupon the person in whose favour the sentence has been suspended or remitted may, if at large, be arrested by any police-officer without warrant and remanded to undergo the unexpired portion of the sentence.

(4) The condition on which a sentence is suspended or remitted under this section may be one to be fulfilled by the person in whose favour the sentence is suspended or remitted, or one independent of his will.

(5) Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to interfere with the right of Her Majesty to grant pardons, reprieves, respites or remissions of punishment.

(6) The Governor General in Council and the Local Government may by general rules or special orders give directions as to the suspension of sentences, and the conditions on which petitions should be presented and dealt with.

402. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may, without the consent of the person sentenced, commute any one of the following sentences for any other mentioned after it:—

death, transportation, penal servitude, rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding that to which he might have been sentenced, simple imprisonment for a like term, fine.

CHAPTER XXX.

OF PREVIOUS ACQUITTALS OR CONVICTIONS.

403. (1) A person who has once been tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 236, or for which he might have been convicted under section 237.

(2) A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 235, sub-section (1).

(3) A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that of which he was convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

(4) A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

(5) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of section 26 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, or of section 188 of this Code.

EXPLANATION.—The dismissal of a complaint, the stopping of proceedings under section 249, the discharge of the accused or any entry made upon a charge under section 273, is not an acquittal for the purposes of this section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried upon a charge of theft as a servant and acquitted. He cannot afterwards, while the acquittal remains in force, be charged with theft as a servant, or, upon the same facts, with theft simply, or with criminal breach of trust.

*The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VII.—Of Appeal, Reference and Revision. Chapter XXXI.—Of Appeals.—Sections 404-413.)

(b) A is tried upon a charge of murder and acquitted. There is no charge of robbery; but it appears from the facts that A committed robbery at the time when the murder was committed; he may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, robbery.

(c) A is tried for causing grievous hurt and convicted. The person injured afterwards dies. A may be tried again for culpable homicide.

(d) A is charged before the Court of Session and convicted of the culpable homicide of B. A may not afterwards be tried on the same facts for the murder of B.

(e) A is charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, voluntarily causing hurt to B. A may not afterwards be tried for voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B on the same facts, unless the case comes within paragraph 3 of the section.

(f) A is charged by a Magistrate of the second class with, and convicted by him of, theft of property from the person of B. A may be subsequently charged with, and tried for, robbery on the same facts.

(g) A, B and C are charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, robbing D. A, B and C may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, dacoity on the same facts.

PART VII.*OF APPEAL, REFERENCE AND REVISION.*CHAPTER XXXI.*OF APPEALS.

404. No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force.

405. Any person whose application under section 89 for the delivery of property or the proceeds of the sale thereof has been rejected by any Court may appeal to the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the sentences of the former Court.

406. Any person ordered by a Magistrate, other than the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate, to give security for good behaviour under section 118 may appeal to the District Magistrate.

407. (1) Any person convicted on a trial held by any Magistrate of the second or third class, or any person sentenced under section 349 by a Sub-divisional Magistrate of the second class, may appeal to the District Magistrate.

(2) The District Magistrate may direct that any appeal under this section, or any class of such appeals, shall be heard by any Magistrate of the first class subordinate to him and empowered by the Local Government to hear such appeals, and thereupon such appeal or class of appeals may be presented to such subordinate Magistrate, or, if already presented to the District Magistrate, may be transferred to such subordinate Magistrate. The District Magistrate may withdraw from such Magistrate any appeal or class of appeals so presented or transferred.

408. Any person convicted on a trial held by an Assistant Sessions Judge, a District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class, or any person sentenced under section 349 by a Magistrate of the first class, may appeal to the Court of Session:

Provided as follows:—

(a) any European British subject so convicted may, at his option, appeal either to the High Court or the Court of Session.

(b) when in any case an Assistant Sessions Judge or a Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 passes any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding four years, or any sentence of transportation, the appeal shall lie to the High Court;

(c) when any person is convicted by a District Magistrate of an offence under section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, the appeal shall lie to the High Court. XLV of 186

409. An appeal to the Court of Session or Appeals to Court of Sessions Judge shall be heard by the Sessions Judge or by an Additional Sessions Judge.

410. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Sessions Judge, or an Additional Sessions Judge, may appeal to the High Court.

411. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Presidency Magistrate may appeal to the High Court if the Magistrate has sentenced him to imprisonment for a term exceeding three months or to fine exceeding two hundred rupees.

412. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, where an accused person has pleaded guilty and has been convicted by a Court of Session or any Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class on such plea, there shall be no appeal except as to the extent or legality of the sentence.

413. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in cases in which a Court of Session or the District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class passes a sentence of imprisonment not exceeding one month only, or of fine not exceeding fifty rupees only, or of whipping only.

EXPLANATION.—There is no appeal from a sentence of imprisonment passed by such Court or Magistrate in default of payment of fine when no substantive sentence of imprisonment has also been passed.

414. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in any case tried summarily in which a Magistrate empowered to act under section 260 passes a sentence of imprisonment not exceeding three months only, or of fine not exceeding two hundred rupees only, or of whipping only.

415. An appeal may be brought against Proviso to sections 413 and 414. any sentence referred to in section 413 or section 414 by which any two or more of the punishments therein mentioned are combined, but no sentence which would not otherwise be liable to appeal shall be appealable merely on the ground that the person convicted is ordered to find security to keep the peace.

EXPLANATION.—A sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine is not a sentence by which two or more punishments are combined within the meaning of this section.

416. Nothing in sections 413 and 414 applies Saving of sentences to appeals from sentences on European British subjects. to appeals from sentences passed under Chapter XXXIII on European British subjects.

417. The Local Government may direct the Appeal on behalf of Government in case of acquittal. Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court.

418. An appeal may lie on a matter of fact Appeal on what matters admissible. as well as a matter of law, except where the trial was by jury; in which case the appeal shall lie on a matter of law only.

EXPLANATION.—The alleged severity of a sentence shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be a matter of law.

419. Every appeal shall be made in the form Petition of appeal. of a petition in writing presented by the appellant or his pleader, and every such petition shall (unless the Court to which it is presented otherwise directs) be accompanied by a copy of the judgment or order appealed against, and, in cases tried by a jury, a copy of the heads of the charge recorded under section 367.

420. If the appellant is in jail, he may Procedure when appellant in jail. present his petition of appeal and the copies accompanying the same to the officer in charge of the jail, who shall thereupon forward such petition and copies to the proper Appellate Court.

421. (r) On receiving the petition and copy Summary dismissal of appeal. under section 419 or section 420, the Appellate Court shall peruse the same, and, if it considers that there is no sufficient ground for interfering, it may dismiss the appeal summarily :

Provided that no appeal presented under section 419 shall be dismissed unless the appellant or his pleader has had a reasonable opportunity of being heard in support of the same.

(2) Before dismissing an appeal under this section, the Court may call for the record of the case, but shall not be bound to do so.

422. If the Appellate Court does not dismiss the appeal summarily, it Notice of appeal. shall cause notice to be given to the appellant or his pleader, and to such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, of the time and place at which such appeal will be heard, and shall, on the application of such officer, furnish him with a copy of the grounds of appeal ; and, in cases of appeals under section 417, the Appellate Court shall cause a like notice to be given to the accused.

423. (r) The Appellate Court shall then send Powers of Appellate Court in disposing of appeal. for the record of the case, if such record is not already in Court. After perusing such record, and hearing the appellant or his pleader, if he appears, and the Public Prosecutor, if he appears, and, in case of an appeal under section 417, the accused if he appears, the Court may, if it considers there is no sufficient ground for interfering, dismiss the appeal, or may—

(a) in an appeal from an order of acquittal, reverse such order and direct that further inquiry be made, or that the accused be retried or committed for trial, as the case may be, or find him guilty and pass sentence on him according to law ;

(b) in an appeal from a conviction, (1) reverse the finding and sentence, and acquit or discharge the accused, or order him to be retried by a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to such Appellate Court or committed for trial, or

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VII.—Of Appeal, Reference and Revision. Chapter XXXI.—Of Appeals.—Sections 424-431. Chapter XXXII.—Of Reference and Revision.—Section 432.)

(2) alter the finding, maintaining the sentence, or, with or without altering the finding, reduce the sentence, or, (3) with or without such reduction and with or without altering the finding, alter the nature of the sentence but (subject to the provisions of section 106, sub-section (3)) not so as to enhance the same ;

(c) in an appeal from any other order, alter or reverse such order ;

(d) make any amendment or any consequential or incidental order that may be just or proper.

(e) Nothing herein contained shall authorise the Court to alter or reverse the verdict of a jury, unless it is of opinion that such verdict is erroneous owing to a misdirection by the Judge, or to a misunderstanding on the part of the jury of the law as laid down by him.

424. The rules contained in Chapter XXVI as to the judgment of a Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to the judgment of any Appellate Court other than a High Court :

Provided that, unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the accused shall not be brought up, or required to attend, to hear judgment delivered.

425. (1) Whenever a case is decided on appeal by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its judgment or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed. If the finding, sentence or order was recorded or passed by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate, the certificate shall be sent through the District Magistrate.

(2) The Court to which the High Court certifies its judgment or order shall thereupon make such orders as are conformable to the judgment or order of the High Court ; and, if necessary, the record shall be amended in accordance therewith.

426. (1) Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, also, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond.

(2) The power conferred by this section on an Appellate Court may be exercised also by the High Court in the case of any appeal by a convicted person to a Court subordinate thereto.

(3) When the appellant is ultimately sentenced to imprisonment, penal servitude or transportion, the time during which he is so released shall be excluded in computing the term for which he is so sentenced.

427. When an appeal is presented under section 417, the High Court may issue a warrant directing that the accused be arrested and brought before it or any subordinate Court, and the Court before which he is brought may commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail.

428. (1) In dealing with any appeal under this chapter, the Appellate Court, if it thinks additional evidence to be necessary, shall record its reasons, and may either take such evidence itself, or direct it to be taken by a Magistrate, or, when the Appellate Court is a High Court, by a Court of Session or a Magistrate.

(2) When the additional evidence is taken by the Court of Session or the Magistrate, it or he shall certify such evidence to the Appellate Court, and such Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the appeal.

(3) Unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the accused or his pleader shall be present when the additional evidence is taken ; but such evidence shall not be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors.

(4) The taking of evidence under this section shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter XXV as if it were an inquiry.

429. When the Judges composing the Court where of Appeal are equally divided in opinion, the Judges of Court of Appeal are equally divided. case, with their opinions thereon, shall be laid before another Judge of the same Court, and such Judge, after such hearing (if any) as he thinks fit, shall deliver his opinion, and the judgment or order shall follow such opinion.

430. Judgments and orders passed by an Appellate Court upon appeal shall be final, except in the cases provided for in section 417 and Chapter XXXII.

431. Every appeal under section 417 shall finally abate on the death of the accused, and every other appeal under this chapter (except an appeal from a sentence of fine) shall finally abate on the death of the appellant.

CHAPTER XXXII.

OF REFERENCE AND REVISION.

432. A Presidency Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, refer for the opinion of the High Court any question of law which arises in the hearing of any case pending before him, or may give judgment in any such case subject to the decision of the High Court on such reference and, pending such decision, may either commit the accused to jail, or release him on bail to appear for judgment when called upon.

433. (1) When a question has been so referred, the High Court shall pass such order thereon as it thinks fit, and shall cause a copy of such order to be sent to the Magistrate by whom the reference was made, who shall dispose of the case conformably to the said order.

(2) The High Court may direct by whom the costs of such reference shall be paid.

434. (1) When any person has, in a trial before a Judge of a High Court consisting of more Judges than one and acting in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, been convicted of an offence, the Judge, if he thinks fit, may reserve and refer for the decision of a Court consisting of two or more Judges of such Court any question of law which has arisen in the course of the trial of such person, and the determination of which would affect the event of the trial.

(2) If the Judge reserves any such question, the person convicted shall, pending the decision thereon, be remanded to jail, or, if the Judge thinks fit, be admitted to bail; and the High Court shall have power to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such question, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment or order as the High Court thinks fit.

435. (1) The High Court or any Sessions Judge or District Magistrate, or any Sub-divisional Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within the local limits of its or his jurisdiction for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court.

(2) If any Sub-divisional Magistrate acting under sub-section (1) considers that any such finding, sentence or order is illegal or improper, or that any such proceedings are irregular, he shall forward the record, with such remarks thereon as he thinks fit, to the District Magistrate.

(3) Orders made under sections 143 and 144 and proceedings under Chapter XII and section 176 are not proceedings within the meaning of this section.

(4) If an application under this section has been made either to the Sessions Judge or District Magistrate, no further application shall be entertained by the other of them.

436. When, on examining the record of any case under section 435 or otherwise, the Sessions Judge or District Magistrate considers that such case is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, and that an accused person has been improperly discharged by the inferior Court, the Sessions Judge or District Magistrate may cause him to be arrested, and may thereupon, instead of directing a fresh inquiry, order him to be committed for trial upon the matter of which he has been, in the opinion of the Sessions Judge or District Magistrate, improperly discharged:

Provided as follows:—

(a) that the accused has had an opportunity of showing cause to such Judge or Magistrate why the commitment should not be made;

(b) that, if such Judge or Magistrate thinks that the evidence shows that some other offence has been committed by the accused, such Judge or Magistrate may direct the inferior Court to inquire into such offence.

437. On examining any record under section 435 or otherwise, the High Court or the Sessions Judge may direct the District Magistrate by himself or by any of the Magistrates subordinate to him to make, and the District Magistrate may himself make, or direct any subordinate Magistrate to make, further inquiry into any complaint which has been dismissed under section 203 or sub-section (3) of section 204, or into the case of any accused person who has been discharged.

438. (1) The Sessions Judge or District Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on examining under section 435 or otherwise the record of any proceeding, report for the orders of the High Court the result of such examination, and, when such report contains a recommendation that a sentence be reversed or altered, may order that the execution of such sentence be suspended, and, if the accused is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond.

(2) An Additional Sessions Judge shall have and may exercise all the powers of a Sessions Judge under this Chapter in respect of any case which may be transferred to him by the Sessions Judge.

439. (1) In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself or

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VII.—Of Appeal, Reference and Revision. Chapter XXXII.—Of Reference and Revision.—Sections 440-442. Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXXIII.—Criminal Proceedings against European and Americans.—Sections 443-446.)

which has been reported for orders, or which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by sections 195, 423, 426, 427 and 428, or on a Court by section 338, and may enhance the sentence; and, when the Judges composing the Court of Revision are equally divided in opinion, the case shall be disposed of in manner provided by section 429.

(2) No order under this section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.

(3) Where the sentence dealt with under this section has been passed by a Magistrate acting otherwise than under section 34, the Court shall not inflict a greater punishment for the offence which, in the opinion of such Court, the accused has committed, than might have been inflicted for such offence by a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class.

(4) Nothing in this section applies to an entry made under section 273, or shall be deemed to authorise a High Court to convert a finding of acquittal into one of conviction.

(5) Where under this Code an appeal lies and no appeal is brought, no proceedings by way of revision shall be entertained at the instance of the party who could have appealed.

(6) Subject to any express provision in this Code, every order of an inferior Court under this Code shall be open to revision by the High Court.

440. No party has any right to be heard. Optional with Court either personally or by pleader before any Court to hear parties. when exercising its powers of revision:

Provided that the Court may, if it thinks fit, when exercising such powers, hear any party either personally or by pleader, and that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect section 439, sub-section (2).

441. When the record of any proceeding of any Presidency Magistrate is called for by the High Court under section 435, the Magistrate may submit with the record a statement setting forth the grounds of his decision or order and any facts which he thinks material to the issue; and the Court shall consider such statement before over-ruling or setting aside the said decision or order.

442. When a case is revised under this chapter by the High Court, it shall, in manner hereinbefore provided by section 425, certify its decision or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence, or order revised was recorded or passed, and the Court or Magistrate to which the decision or order is so certified shall

High Court's order to be certified to lower Court or Magistrate. 425, certify its decision or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence, or order revised was recorded or passed, and the Court or Magistrate to which the decision or order is so certified shall thereupon make such orders as are conformable to the decision so certified; and, if necessary, the record shall be amended in accordance therewith.

PART VIII.

SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS AGAINST EUROPEANS AND AMERICANS.

443. No Magistrate, unless he is a Justice of the Peace, and (except in the case of a District Magistrate or Presidency Magistrate) unless he is a Magistrate of the first class and an European British subject, shall inquire into or try any charge against an European British subject.

444. No Judge presiding in a Court of Session, except the Sessions Judge, shall exercise jurisdiction over an European British subject unless he himself is an European British subject; and if he is an Assistant Sessions Judge, unless he has held the office of Assistant Sessions Judge for at least three years, and has been specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

445. Nothing in section 443 or section 444 shall prevent any Magistrate from taking cognizance of an offence committed by an European British subject in any case in which he could take cognizance of a like offence if committed by another person:

Provided that, if he issues any process for the purpose of compelling the appearance of an European British subject accused of an offence, such process shall be made returnable before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try the case.

446. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 32 or section 34, no Magistrate other than a District Magistrate or Presidency Magistrate shall pass any sentence on an European British subject other than imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or both, and a District Magistrate shall not pass any such sentence other than imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or both.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXXIII.—Criminal Proceedings against Europeans and Americans.—Sections 447-451.)

447. (1) When an European British subject is accused of an offence before a Magistrate, and such offence cannot, in the opinion of such Magistrate, be adequately punished by him, and is not punishable with death or with transportation for life, such Magistrate shall, if he thinks that the accused ought to be committed, commit him to the Court of Session, or, in the case of a Presidency Magistrate, to the High Court.

(2) When the offence which appears to have been committed is punishable with death or with transportation for life, the commitment shall be to the High Court.

448. Where any person committed to the High Court under section 447 is charged with several offences of which one is punishable with death or transportation for life and the others with a less punishment, and the High Court considers that he should not be tried for the offence punishable with death or transportation, the High Court may nevertheless try him for the other offences.

449. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 31, no Court of Session shall pass on any European British subject any sentence other than a sentence of imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or fine, or both.

(2) If, at any time after the commitment and before signing judgment the presiding Judge thinks that the offence which appears to be proved cannot be adequately punished by such a sentence, he shall record his opinion to that effect and transfer the case to the High Court. Such Judge may either himself bind over, or direct the committing Magistrate to bind over, the complainant and witnesses to appear before the High Court.

450. (1) In trials of European British subjects before a High Court or Court of Session, if, before the first juror is called and accepted, or the first assessor is appointed, as the case may be, any such subject requires to be tried by a mixed jury, the trial shall be by a jury of which not less than half the number shall be Europeans or Americans or both Europeans and Americans.

(2) When any such trial before a Court of Session would in the ordinary course be with the aid of assessors, the European British subject accused, or, where there are several European British subjects accused, all of them jointly, may, instead of claiming to be tried by a mixed jury under sub-section (1), require that not less than half the number of the assessors shall be Europeans or Americans or both Europeans and Americans.

451. (1) In trials of European British subjects before a District Magistrate for any offence, any such subject may, in a summons-case before he is heard in his defence under section 244, or in a warrant-case before he enters on his defence under section 256, claim that the trial shall be by a jury composed in manner prescribed by section 450. [Act X of 1882, s. 451A.]

(2) If a claim is made under sub-section (1) in a summons-case at the time when the Magistrate proceeds under section 244 to hear the accused, or in a warrant-case at the time when the Magistrate calls upon the accused under section 256 to enter upon the defence, the Magistrate shall forthwith issue the necessary orders for the trial by a jury as aforesaid.

(3) If such a claim is made at an earlier stage of the proceedings, the Magistrate shall issue such orders whenever it appears to him from the evidence recorded that there will be a sufficient case to go before a jury.

(4) In every such case the Magistrate shall notwithstanding anything contained in section 242, before issuing any orders as aforesaid, frame a formal charge.

(5) The provisions of sections 211, 216, 217, 219 and 220 shall, so far as may be, apply for the purpose of securing the attendance of the complainant, the accused and the witnesses at every trial to be held under this section.

(6) The provisions of this Code relating to the procedure in a trial by jury before a Court of Session shall, as nearly as may be, apply to every trial under this section as if the District Magistrate were a Sessions Judge and the accused had been committed to his Court for trial.

(7) All Courts may construe any of the provisions referred to in sub-section (5) or sub-section (6), in so far as they are made applicable by those sub-sections, with such verbal alterations not affecting the substance as may be necessary or proper to adapt the same to the matter before them.

(8) Nothing in this section shall affect the power of the Magistrate to commit an accused person for trial under section 347 or section 447.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXXIII.—Criminal Proceedings against Europeans and Americans.—Sections 452-457.)

[Act X of 1882, s.

(9) If an accused person claims to be tried by jury under this section and in the opinion of the District Magistrate there is reason to believe that a jury composed in manner prescribed by section 450 cannot be constituted for the trial before himself, or cannot be so constituted without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which under the circumstances of the case would be unreasonable, he may, instead of issuing orders for the trial before himself under this section, transfer the case for trial to such other District Magistrate or to such Sessions Judge as the High Court may, from time to time, by rules made by it in this behalf and approved by the Local Government, or by special order, direct.

(10) When a case is transferred under this section to a Sessions Judge or District Magistrate, he shall with all convenient speed try it with the same powers (including the power of commitment) and according to the same procedure as if he were a District Magistrate acting under this section.

452. In any case in which an European British subject is accused jointly with a person not being an European British subject, and such European British subject is committed for trial before a High Court or Court of Session, such subject and person may be tried together, and the procedure on the trial shall be the same as it would have been had the European British subject been tried separately :

Provided that, if the European British subject When Native may requires under section 450 claim separate trial. to be tried by a mixed jury, or by a mixed set of assessors, and the person not being an European British subject requires that he shall be tried separately, the latter person shall be tried separately in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XXIII.

453. (1) When any person claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, he shall state the grounds of such claim to the Magistrate before whom he is brought for the purposes of the inquiry or trial; and such Magistrate shall inquire into the truth of such statement, and allow the person making it a reasonable time within which to prove that it is true, and shall then decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If any such person is convicted by such Magistrate and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Magistrate's said decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

(2) When any such person is committed by the Magistrate for trial before the Court of Session, and such person before such Court claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, such Court shall, after such further enquiry, if any, as it thinks fit, decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If he is convicted by such Court and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Court's said decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

(3) When the Court before which any person is tried decides that he is not an European British subject, such decision shall form a ground of appeal from the sentence or order passed in such trial.

454. (1) If an European British subject does Failure to plead not claim to be dealt with status a waiver. as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried or by whom he is committed, or if, when such claim has been made before, and disallowed by, the committing Magistrate, it is not again made before the Court to which such subject is committed, he shall be held to have relinquished his right to be dealt with as such European British subject and shall not assert it in any subsequent stage of the same case.

(2) Unless the Magistrate has reason to believe that any person brought before him is not an European British subject, the Magistrate shall ask such person whether he is such a subject or not.

455. Where a person who is not an European Trial under this British subject is dealt with chapter of person not an as such under this chapter; European British subject, and does not object, the inquiry, commitment, trial or sentence (as the case may be) shall not, by reason of such dealing, be invalid.

456. When any European British subject is unlawfully detained in custody by any person, such European British subject or any person on his behalf may apply to the High Court which would have jurisdiction over such European British subject in respect of any offence committed by him at the place where he is detained or to which he would be entitled to appeal from any conviction for any such offence, for an order directing the person detaining him to bring him before the High Court to abide such further order as it may pass.

457. The High Court, if it thinks fit, may, Procedure on such before issuing such order, application. inquire, on affidavit or otherwise, into the grounds on which it is applied for, and grant or refuse such application ; or it may issue the order in the first instance, and, when the person applying for it is brought before it, it may make such further order in the case as it thinks fit, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXXIII.—Criminal Proceedings against Europeans and Americans.—Sections 458-463. Chapter XXXIV.—Lunatics.—Section 464.)

458. The High Court may issue such orders throughout the territories within the local limits of its appellate criminal jurisdiction, and such other territories as the Governor General in Council may direct.

459. (1) Unless there is something repugnant in the context, all enactments heretofore or hereafter made by the Governor General in Council, which confer on Magistrates or on the Court of Session jurisdiction over offences, shall be deemed to apply to European British subjects, although such persons be not expressly referred to therein.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise any Court to exceed the limits prescribed by this chapter as to the amount of punishment which it may inflict on an European British subject, or to confer jurisdiction on any Magistrate or any Judge presiding in a Court of Session, not being a Justice of the Peace.

460. In every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors, in which a European (not being an European British subject) or an American is the accused person, or one of the accused persons, not less than half the number of jurors or assessors shall, if practicable and if such European or American so claims, be Europeans or Americans.

461. Whenever an European or American is charged before the Court of Session jointly with a person not an European or American and in compliance with a claim made under section 460 is tried by a jury, or with the aid of a set of assessors, of which at least one-half consists of Europeans and Americans, the latter person shall, if he so claims, be tried separately.

462. (1) When a trial is to be held before the Court of Session in which the accused person, or one of the accused persons, is entitled to be tried by a jury constituted under the provisions of section 450 or section 460, or before the Court of a District Magistrate or Sessions Judge proceeding under section 451, the Court shall, three days at least before the day fixed for holding such trial, cause to be summoned, in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, as many European and American jurors as are required for the trial.

(2) The Court shall also, at the same time, in like manner, cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons has been already summoned for trials by jury at that session.

(3) From the whole number of persons returned the jurors who are to constitute the jury shall be chosen by lot in the manner prescribed in section 276, until a jury containing the proper number of Europeans or Americans, or a number approaching thereto as nearly as practicable, has been obtained:

Provided that, in any case in which the proper number of Europeans and Americans cannot otherwise be obtained, the Court may, in its discretion, for the purpose of constituting the jury, summon any person excluded from the list on the ground of his being exempted under section 320.

463. Criminal proceedings against European British subjects, Europeans not being European British subjects, and Americans, before the Court of Session and High Court, shall, except as otherwise expressly provided, be conducted according to the provisions of this Code.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

LUNATICS.

464. (1) When a Magistrate holding an inquiry Procedure in case of or a trial has reason to believe that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness, and shall cause such person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the district or such other medical officer as the Local Government directs, and thereupon shall examine such Surgeon or other officer as a witness, and shall reduce the examination to writing.

(2) If such Magistrate is of opinion that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, he shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXXIV.—Lunatics.—Sections 465-471.)

465. (r) If any person committed for trial before a Court of Session or a High Court appears to the Court at his trial to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the jury, or the Court with the aid of assessors, shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness and incapacity, and, if satisfied of the fact, shall pass judgment accordingly, and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

(2) The trial of the fact of the unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the accused shall be deemed to be part of his trial before the Court.

466. (r) Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, if the case is one in which bail may be taken, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required before the Magistrate or Court or such officer as the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf.

(2) If the case is one in which bail may not be taken or if sufficient security is not given, the Magistrate or Court shall report the case to the Local Government, remanding the accused to custody pending orders, and the Local Government may order the accused to be confined in a lunatic asylum, jail or other suitable place of safe custody, and the Magistrate or Court shall give effect to such order.

467. (r) Whenever an inquiry or a trial is postponed under section 464 or section 465, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, may at any time resume the inquiry or trial, and require the accused to appear or be brought before such Magistrate or Court.

(2) When the accused has been released under section 466, and the sureties for his appearance produce him to the officer whom the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf, the certificate of such officer that the accused is capable of making his defence shall be receivable in evidence.

468. (r) If, when the accused appears or is again brought before the Magistrate or the Court, as the case may be, the Magistrate or Court considers him capable of making his defence, the inquiry or trial shall proceed.

(2) If the Magistrate or Court considers the accused person to be still incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court shall again act according to the provisions of section 464 or section 465, as the case may be.

469. When the accused appears to be of sound mind at the time of inquiry or trial, and the Magistrate is satisfied from the evidence given before him that there is reason to believe that the accused committed an act which, if he had been of sound mind, would have been an offence, and that he was at the time when the act was committed, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the Magistrate shall proceed with the case, and, if the accused ought to be committed to the Court of Session or High Court, send him for trial before the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

470. Whenever any person is acquitted upon the ground that, at the time at which he is alleged to have committed an offence, he was, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act alleged as constituting the offence, or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specifically whether he committed the act or not.

471. (r) Whenever such judgment states that the accused person committed the act alleged, the Magistrate or Court before whom or which the trial has been held shall, if such act would, but for the incapacity found, have constituted an offence, order such person to be kept in safe custody in such place and manner as the Magistrate or Court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

(2) The Local Government may order such person to be confined in a lunatic asylum, jail or other suitable place of safe custody.

(3) The Governor General in Council may by general or special order direct that any person whom the Local Government has ordered under this chapter to be confined in a lunatic asylum, jail or other place of safe custody shall be removed from the place where he is confined to any lunatic asylum, jail or other place of safe custody in British India.

(4) The Local Government may empower the officer in charge of the jail in which a person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or this section to discharge all or any of the functions of the Inspector General of Prisons under section 472, section 473 or section 474.

472. When any person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, the Inspector General of Prisons, if such person is confined in a jail, or the visitors of the lunatic asylum, or any two of them, if he is confined in a lunatic asylum, may visit him in order to ascertain his state of mind; and he shall be visited once at least in every six months by such Inspector General or by two of such visitors as aforesaid; and such Inspector General or visitors shall make a special report to the Local Government as to the state of mind of such person.

473. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their opinion, such person is capable of making his defence, he shall be taken before the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, at such time as the Magistrate or Court appoints, and the Magistrate or Court shall deal with such person under the provisions of section 468; and the certificate of such Inspector General or visitors as aforesaid shall be receivable as evidence.

474. (1) If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their judgment, he may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the Local Government may thereupon order him to be discharged, or to be detained in custody, or to be transferred to a public lunatic asylum if he has not been already sent to such an asylum; and, in case it orders him to be transferred to an asylum, may appoint a Commission, consisting of a judicial and two medical officers.

(2) Such Commission shall make formal inquiry into the state of mind of such person, taking such evidence as is necessary, and shall report to the Local Government, which may order his discharge or detention as it thinks fit.

475. (1) Whenever any relative or friend of any person confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 desires that he shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the Local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend, and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person delivered shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may order such person to be delivered to such relative or friend.

(2) Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be produced for the inspection of such officer and at such times as the Local Government directs.

(3) The provisions of sections 472 and 474 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to persons delivered under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be receivable as evidence.

CHAPTER XXXV.

PROCEEDINGS IN CASE OF CERTAIN OFFENCES AFFECTING THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

476. (1) When any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court is of opinion that there is ground for inquiring into any offence referred to in section 195, and committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, such Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for inquiry or trial to the nearest Magistrate of the first class, and may send the accused in custody, or take sufficient security for his appearance, before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such inquiry or trial.

(2) Such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law, and as if upon complaint made and recorded under section 200, and may, if he is authorised under section 192 to transfer cases, transfer the inquiry or trial to some other competent Magistrate.

477. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 444, a Court of Session may charge a person for any offence referred to in section 195 and committed before it, or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, and may commit, or admit to bail and try, such person upon its own charge.

(2) Such Court may direct the Magistrate to cause the attendance of any witnesses for the purposes of the trial.

478. (1) When any such offence is committed before any Civil or Revenue Court, or brought under the notice of any Civil or Revenue Court in the course of a judicial proceeding, and the case is triable exclusively by the High Court or Court of Session, or such Civil or Revenue Court thinks that it ought to be tried by the High Court or Court of Session, such Civil or Revenue Court may, instead of sending the case under section 476 to a Magistrate for inquiry, itself complete the inquiry, and commit or hold to bail the accused person to take his trial before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be.

(2) For the purposes of an inquiry under this section the Civil or Revenue Court may, subject to the provisions of section 443, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate; and its proceedings in such inquiry shall be conducted as nearly as may be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XVIII, and shall be deemed to have been held by a Magistrate.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part VIII.—Special Proceedings. Chapter XXV.—Proceedings in case of certain Offences affecting the Administration of Justice.—Sections 479-486.)

479. When any such commitment is made by Procedure of Civil or Revenue Court in such cases. a Civil or Revenue Court, the Court shall send the charge with the order of commitment and the record of the case to the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or other Magistrate authorised to commit for trial, and such Magistrate shall bring the case before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be, together with the witnesses for the prosecution and defence.

480. (1) When any such offence as is described Procedure in certain cases of contempt. in section 175, section 178, section 179, section 180 or section 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court, the Court may cause the offender, whether he is an European British subject or not, to be detained in custody; and at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence and sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, unless such fine be sooner paid.

(2) Nothing in section 443 or section 444 shall be deemed to apply to proceedings under this section.

481. (1) In every such case the Court shall Record in such cases. record the facts constituting the offence, with the statement (if any) made by the offender, as well as the finding and sentence.

(2) If the offence is under section 228 of the XLV of 1860. Indian Penal Code, the record must show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult.

482. (1) If the Court in any case considers that Procedure where Court considers that case should not be dealt with under section 480. a person accused of any of the offences referred to in section 480 and committed in its view or presence should be imprisoned otherwise than in default of payment of fine, or that a fine exceeding two hundred rupees should be imposed upon him, or such Court is for any other reason of opinion that the case should not be disposed of under section 480, such Court, after recording the facts constituting the offence and the statement of the accused as hereinbefore provided, may forward the case to a Magistrate having jurisdiction to try the same, and may require security to be given for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate, or, if sufficient security is not given, shall forward such person in custody to such Magistrate.

(2) The Magistrate to whom any case is forwarded under this section shall proceed to hear the complaint against the accused person in manner hereinbefore provided.

483. When the Local Government so directs, any Registrar or any Sub-Registrar appointed under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, shall be deemed III of 1877. to be a Civil Court within the meaning of sections 480 and 482.

484. When any Court has under section 480 Discharge of offender on submission or apology. adjudged an offender to punishment for refusing or omitting to do anything which he was lawfully required to do, or for any intentional insult or interruption, the Court may, in its discretion, discharge the offender or remit the punishment on his submission to the order or requisition of such Court, or on apology being made to its satisfaction.

485. If any witness or person called to produce Imprisonment or committal of person refusing to answer or produce document. a document or thing before a Criminal Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him or to produce any document or thing in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, such Court may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, sentence him to simple imprisonment, or by warrant under the hand of the presiding Magistrate or Judge commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to be examined and to answer, or to produce the document or thing. In the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section 480 or section 482, and, in the case of a Court established by Royal Charter, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt.

486. (1) Any person sentenced by any Court Appeals from convictions in contempt-cases. under section 480 or section 485 may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, appeal to the Court to which decrees or orders made in such Court are ordinarily appealable.

(2) The provisions of Chapter XXXI shall, so far as they are applicable, apply to appeals under this section, and the Appellate Court may alter or reverse the finding, or reduce or reverse the sentence appealed against.

(3) An appeal from such conviction by a Court of Small Causes in a presidency-town shall lie to the High Court, and an appeal from such conviction by any other Court of Small Causes shall lie to the Court of Session for the sessions division within which such Court is situate.

(4) An appeal from such conviction by any officer as Registrar or Sub-Registrar appointed as aforesaid may, when such officer is also Judge of a Civil Court, be made to the Court to which it would, under the preceding portion of this section, be made if such conviction were a decree by such officer in his capacity as such Judge, and in other cases may be made to the District Judge, or, in the presidency-towns, to the High Court.

487. (1) Except as provided in sections 477, 480 and 485, no Judge of a Criminal Court or Magistrate, other than a Judge of a High Court and the Recorder of Rangoon, shall try any person for any offence referred to in section 195, when such offence is committed before himself or in contempt of his authority, or is brought under his notice as such Judge or Magistrate in the course of a judicial proceeding.

(2) Nothing in section 476 or section 482 shall prevent a Magistrate empowered to commit to the Court of Session or High Court from himself committing any case to such Court.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

OF THE MAINTENANCE OF WIVES AND CHILDREN.

488. (1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain his wife or his children, legitimate or illegitimate child unable to maintain itself, the District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, at such monthly rate, not exceeding fifty rupees in the whole, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate from time to time directs.

(2) Such allowance shall be payable from the date of the order, or if so ordered from the date of the application for maintenance.

(3) If any person so ordered wilfully neglects to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in manner hereinbefore provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's allowance remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made:

Provided that, if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order.

(6) All evidence under this chapter shall be taken in the presence of the husband or father, as the case may be, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader, and shall be recorded in the manner prescribed in the case of summons-cases:

Provided that if the Magistrate is satisfied that he is wilfully avoiding service, or wilfully neglects to attend the Court, the Magistrate may proceed to hear and determine the case ex parte. Any order so made may be set aside for good cause shewn, on application made within three months from the date thereof.

(7) The accused may tender himself as a witness, and in such case shall be examined as such.

(8) The Court in dealing with applications under this section shall have power to make such order as to costs as may be just.

(9) The accused may be proceeded against in any district where he resides or is, or where he last resided with his wife, or, as the case may be, the mother of the illegitimate child.

489. On proof of a change in the circumstances of any person receiving under section 488 a monthly allowance, or ordered under the same section to pay a monthly allowance to his wife or child, the Magistrate may make such alteration in the allowance as he thinks fit: Provided that if he increases the allowance the monthly rate of fifty rupees in the whole be not exceeded.

490. A copy of the order of maintenance shall be given without payment to the person in whose favour it is made, or to his guardian, if any, or to the person to whom the allowance is to be paid; and such order may be enforced by any Magistrate in any place where the person against whom it is made may be, on such Magistrate being satisfied as to the identity of the parties and the non-payment of the allowance due.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

DIRECTIONS OF THE NATURE OF A HABEAS CORPUS.

491. (1) Any of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay may, whenever it thinks fit, direct—Power to issue directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

- (a) that a person within the limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction be brought up before the Court to be dealt with according to law;
- (b) that a person illegally or improperly detained in public or private custody within such limits be set at liberty;
- (c) that a prisoner detained in any jail situate within such limits be brought before the Court to be there examined as a witness in any matter pending or to be inquired into in such Court;
- (d) that a prisoner detained as aforesaid be brought before a Court martial or any Commissioners acting under the authority of any commission from the Governor General in Council for trial or to be examined touching any matter pending before such Court-martial or Commissioners respectively;
- (e) that a prisoner within such limits be removed from one custody to another for the purpose of trial; and
- (f) that the body of a defendant within such limits be brought in on the Sheriff's return of cepi corpus to a writ of attachment.

(2) Each of the said High Courts may, from time to time, frame rules to regulate the procedure in cases under this section.

(3) Nothing in this section applies to persons detained under the Bengal State Prisoners Regulation, 1818, Madras Regulation II of 1819, or Bombay Regulation XXV of 1827, or the State Prisoners Act, 1850, or the State Prisoners Act, 1858.

PART IX.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

OF THE PUBLIC PROSECUTOR.

492. (1) The Governor General in Council or the Local Government may appoint, generally, or in any case, or for any specified class of cases, in any local area, one or more officers to be called Public Prosecutors.

(2) In any case committed for trial to the Court of Session, the District Magistrate, or, subject to the control of the District Magistrate, the Subdivisional Magistrate, may, in the absence of the Public Prosecutor, or where no Public Prosecutor has been appointed, appoint any other person, not being an officer of police below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent, to be Public Prosecutor for the purpose of such case.

493. The Public Prosecutor may appear and plead without any written authority before any Court in which any case of which he has charge is under inquiry, trial or appeal; and, if any private person instructs a pleader to prosecute in any Court any person in any such case, the Public Prosecutor shall conduct the prosecution, and the pleader so instructed shall act therein under his directions.

494. Any Public Prosecutor appointed by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may, with the consent of the Court, in cases tried by jury before the return of the verdict, and in other cases before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person; and, upon such withdrawal,—

- (a) if it is made before a charge has been framed, the accused shall be discharged;
- (b) if it is made after a charge has been framed, or when under this Code no charge is required, he shall be acquitted.

495. (1) Any Magistrate inquiring into or trying any case may permit the prosecution to be conducted by any person other than an officer of police below a rank to be prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, but no person, other than the

*The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XXXIX.—Of Bail.—Sections 496-502.)

Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor, Public Prosecutor or other officer generally or specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf shall be entitled to do so without such permission.

(2) And such officer shall have the like power of withdrawing from the prosecution as is provided by section 494, and the provisions of that section shall apply to any withdrawal by such officer.

(3) Any person conducting the prosecution may do so personally or by a pleader.

(4) An officer of police shall not be permitted to conduct the prosecution if he has taken any part in the investigation into the offence with respect to which the accused is being prosecuted.

CHAPTER XXXIX.*OF BAIL.

496. When any person other than a person accused of a non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a police-station, or appears or is brought before a Court, and is prepared at any time while in the custody of such officer or at any stage of the proceedings before such Court to give bail, such person shall be released on bail :

Provided that such officer or Court, if he or it thinks fit, may, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

497. (1) When any person accused of any non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a police-station, or appears or is brought before a Court, he may be released on bail, but he shall not be so released if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the offence of which he is accused.

(2) If it appears to such officer or Court at any stage of the investigation, inquiry or trial, as the case may be, that there are not reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has committed such offence, but that there are sufficient grounds for further inquiry into his guilt, the accused shall, pending such inquiry, be released on bail, or, at the discretion of such officer or Court, on the execution by him of a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

(3) Any Court may, at any subsequent stage of any proceeding under this Code, cause any person who has been released under this section to be arrested, and may commit him to custody.

498. The amount of every bond executed under this chapter shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case, and shall not be excessive ; and the High Court or Court of Session may, in any case, whether there be an appeal on conviction or not, direct that any person be admitted to bail, or that the bail required by a police-officer or Magistrate be reduced.

499. (1) Before any person is released on bail or released on his own bond, a bond for such sum of money as the police-officer or Court, as the case may be, thinks sufficient shall be executed by such person, and, when he is released on bail, by one or more sufficient sureties conditioned that such person shall attend at the time and place mentioned in the bond, and shall continue so to attend until otherwise directed by the police-officer or Court, as the case may be.

(2) If the case so require, the bond shall also bind the person released on bail to appear when called upon at the High Court, Court of Session or other Court to answer the charge.

500. (1) As soon as the bond has been executed the person for whose appearance it has been executed shall be released ; and when he is in jail the Court admitting him to bail shall issue an order of release to the officer in charge of the jail, and such officer on receipt of the order shall release him.

(2) Nothing in this section, section 496 or section 497 shall be deemed to require the release of any person liable to be detained for some matter other than that in respect of which the bond was executed.

501. If, through mistake, fraud or otherwise, insufficient sureties have been accepted, or if they afterwards become insufficient, the Court may issue a warrant of arrest directing that the person released on bail be brought before it and may order him to find sufficient sureties, and on his failing so to do may commit him to jail.

502. (1) All or any sureties for the attendance and appearance of a person released on bail may at any time apply to a Magistrate to discharge the bond either wholly or so far as relates to the applicants.

(2) On such application being made the Magistrate shall issue his warrant of arrest directing that the person so released be brought before him.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XL.—Of Commissions for the Examination of Witnesses.—Sections 503-508. Chapter XLI.—Special Rules of Evidence.—Section 509.)

(3) On the appearance of such person pursuant to the warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate shall direct the bond to be discharged either wholly or so far as relates to the applicants, and shall call upon such person to find other sufficient sureties, and, if he fails to do so, may commit him to custody.

CHAPTER XL.

OF COMMISSIONS FOR THE EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

503. (1) Whenever, in the course of an inquiry, a trial or any other proceeding under this Code, it appears to a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Court of Session or the High Court that the examination of a witness is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate or Court may dispense with such attendance and may issue a commission to any District Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such witness resides, to take the evidence of such witness.

(2) When the witness resides in the territories of any Prince or Chief in India in which there is an officer representing the British Indian Government, the commission may be issued to such officer.

(3) The Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is issued, or, if he is the District Magistrate, he or such Magistrate of the first class as he appoints in this behalf, shall proceed to the place where the witness is or shall summon the witness before him, and shall take down his evidence in the same manner, and may for this purpose exercise the same powers, as in trials of warrant-cases under this Code.

(4) Where the commission is issued to such officer as is mentioned in sub-section (2), he may delegate his powers and duties under the commission to any officer subordinate to him whose powers are not less than those of a Magistrate of the first class in British India.

504. (1) If the witness is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Presidency Magistrate, the Magistrate or Court issuing the commission may direct the same to the said Presidency Magistrate, who thereupon may compel the attendance of, and examine, such witness as if he were a witness in a case pending before himself.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the power of the High Court to issue commissions under the Slave Trade Act, 1876, section 3.

505. The parties to any proceeding under this Code in which a commission is issued may respectively forward any interrogatories in writing which the Magistrate or Court directing the commission may think relevant to the issue, and the Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is directed shall examine the witness upon such interrogatories.

(2) Any such party may appear before such Magistrate or officer by pleader, or, if not in custody, in person, and may examine, cross-examine and re-examine (as the case may be) the said witness.

506. Whenever, in the course of an inquiry or a trial or any other proceeding under this Code before any Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, it appears that a commission ought to be issued for the examination of a witness whose evidence is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate shall apply to the District Magistrate, stating the reasons for the application; and the District Magistrate may either issue a commission in the manner hereinbefore provided or reject the application.

507. (1) After any commission issued under section 503 or section 506 has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the deposition of the witness examined thereunder, to the Court out of which it issued; and the commission, the return thereto and the deposition shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection of the parties, and may, subject to all just exceptions, be read in evidence in the case by either party, and shall form part of the record.

(2) Any deposition so taken, if it satisfies the conditions prescribed by section 33 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, may also be received in evidence at any subsequent stage of the case before another Court.

508. In every case in which a commission is issued under section 503 or section 506, the inquiry, trial or other proceeding may be adjourned for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

CHAPTER XLI.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

509. (1) The deposition of a Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, taken and attested by a Magistrate in the presence of the accused, or taken on commission under Chapter XL, may be given in evidence in any

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XLI.—Special Rules of Evidence.—Sections 510-512. Chapter XLII.—Provisions as to Bonds.—Sections 513-516.)

inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, although the deponent is not called as a witness.

(2) The Court may, if it thinks fit, summon and examine such deponent as to the subject-matter of his deposition.

510. Any document purporting to be a report under the hand of any Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government, upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report in the course of any proceeding under this Code, may be used as evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code.

511. In any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, a previous conviction or acquittal may be proved, in addition to any other mode provided by any law for the time being in force,—

(a) by an extract certified under the hand of the officer having the custody of the records of the Court in which such conviction or acquittal was had to be a copy of the sentence or order; or

(b) in case of a conviction, either by a certificate signed by the officer in charge of the jail in which the punishment or any part thereof was inflicted, or by production of the warrant of commitment under which the punishment was suffered;

together with, in each of such cases, evidence as to the identity of the accused person with the person so convicted or acquitted.

512. (1) If it be proved that an accused person has absconded, and that there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, the Court competent to try or commit for trial such person for the offence complained of may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution, and record their depositions. Any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be given in evidence against him on the inquiry into or trial for the offence with which he is charged, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or his attendance cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable.

(2) If it appears that an offence punishable with death or transportation has been committed by some person or persons unknown, the High Court may direct that any Magistrate of the first class shall hold an inquiry and examine any witnesses who can give evidence concerning the offence. Any depositions so taken may be given in evidence against any person who is subsequently accused of the offence if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or beyond the limits of British India.

CHAPTER XLII.

PROVISIONS AS TO BONDS.

513. When any person is required by any Court or officer to execute a bond, with or without sureties, such Court or officer may, except in the case of a bond for good behaviour, permit him to deposit a sum of money or Government promissory notes to such amount as the Court or officer may fix, in lieu of executing such bond.

514. (1) Whenever it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which a bond under this Code has been taken, or of the Court of a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or, when the bond is for appearance before a Court, to the satisfaction of such Court, that such bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof, or to show cause why it should not be paid.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person or his estate if he be dead.

(3) Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it; and it shall authorise the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to such person without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

(4) If such penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the person so bound shall be liable, by order of the Court which issued the warrant, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(5) The Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(6) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond, but the party who gave the bond may be required to find a new surety.

515. All orders passed under section 514 by Appeal from, and any Magistrate other than revision of, orders a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate shall be appealable to the District Magistrate, or, if not so appealed, may be revised by him.

516. The High Court or Court of Session may direct any Magistrate to levy the amount due on a bond to appear and attend at each High Court or Court of Session.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XLIII.—Of the Disposal of Property.—Sections 517-523.)

CHAPTER XLIII.

OF THE DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.

517. (1) When an inquiry or a trial in any Criminal Court is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of any property or document produced before it or in its custody or regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence.

(2) When a High Court or a Court of Session makes such order and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, such Court may direct that the order be carried into effect by the District Magistrate.

(3) When an order is made under this section in a case in which an appeal lies, such order shall not (except when the property is live-stock or is subject to speedy and natural decay) be carried out until the period allowed for presenting such appeal has passed, or, when such appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal has been disposed of.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the term "property" includes, in the case of property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed, not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange, whether immediately or otherwise.

518. In lieu of itself passing an order under section 517, the Court may direct the property to be delivered to the District Magistrate or to a Subdivisional Magistrate, who shall in such cases deal with it as if it had been seized by the police and the seizure had been reported to him in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

519. When any person is convicted of any offence which includes, or amounts to, theft or receiving stolen property, and it is proved that any other person has bought the stolen property from him without knowing, or having reason to believe, that the same was stolen, and that any money has on his arrest been taken out of the possession of the convicted person, the Court may, on the application of such purchaser and on the restitution of the stolen property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, order that out of such money a sum not exceeding the price paid by such purchaser be delivered to him.

520. Any Court of appeal, confirmation, reference or revision may direct any order under section 517, section 518 or section 519, passed by a Court subordinate thereto, to be stayed pending consideration by the former Court, and may modify, alter or annul such order and make any further orders that may be just.

521. (1) On a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, section 292, section 293, section 501 or section 502, the Court may order the destruction of all the copies of the thing in respect of which conviction was had, and which are in the custody of the Court or remain in the possession or power of the person convicted.

(2) The Court may, in like manner, on a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, section 272, section 273, section 274 or section 275, order the food, drink, drug or medical preparation in respect of which the conviction was had to be destroyed.

522. (1) Whenever a person is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force, and it appears to the Court that by such force any person has been dispossessed of any immovable property, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order such person to be restored to the possession of the same.

(2) No such order shall prejudice any right or interest to or in such immovable property which any person may be able to establish in a civil suit.

523. (1) The seizure by any police-officer of property taken under section 51, or alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence, shall be forthwith reported to a Magistrate, who shall make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or, if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2) If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit. If such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation.

524. (1) If no person within such period establishes his claim to such property, and if the person in whose possession such property was found is unable to show that it was legally acquired by him, such property shall be at the disposal of the Government, and may be sold under the orders of the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, or of a Magistrate of the first class empowered by the Local Government in this behalf.

(2) In the case of every order passed under this section, an appeal shall lie to the Court to which appeals against sentences of the Court passing such order would lie.

525. If the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent, and the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or the Magistrate to whom its seizure is reported is of opinion that its sale would be for the benefit of the owner, the Magistrate may at any time direct it to be sold; and the provisions of sections 523 and 524 shall, as nearly as may be practicable, apply to the nett proceeds of such sale.

CHAPTER XLIV.

OF THE TRANSFER OF CRIMINAL CASES.

High Court may transfer case or itself try it. 526. (1) Whenever it is made to appear to the High Court—

- (a) that a fair and impartial enquiry or trial cannot be had in any Criminal Court subordinate thereto, or
- (b) that some question of law of unusual difficulty is likely to arise, or
- (c) that a view of the place in or near which any offence has been committed may be required for the satisfactory inquiry into or trial of the same, or
- (d) that an order under this section will tend to the general convenience of the parties or witnesses, or
- (e) that such an order is expedient for the ends of justice, or is required by any provision of this Code, it may order—
- (i) that any offence be inquired into or tried by any Court not empowered under sections 177 to 184 (both inclusive), but in other respects competent to inquire into or try such offence;
- (ii) that any particular criminal case or appeal, or class of such cases or appeals, be transferred from a Criminal Court subordinate to its authority to any other such Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction;

(iii) that any particular criminal case or appeal be transferred to and tried before itself; or

(iv) that an accused person be committed for trial to itself or to a Court of Session.

(2) When the High Court withdraws for trial before itself any case from any Court other than the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, it shall, except as provided in section 267, observe in such trial the same procedure which that Court would have observed if the case had not been so withdrawn.

(3) The High Court may act either on the report of the Lower Court, or on the application of a party interested, or on its own initiative.

(4) Every application for the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be made by motion which shall, except when the applicant is the Advocate General, be supported by affidavit or affirmation.

(5) When an accused person makes an application under this section, the High Court may direct him to execute a bond, with or without sureties, conditioned that he will, if convicted, pay the costs of the prosecutor.

(6) Every accused person making any such application shall give to the Public Prosecutor notice in writing of the application, together with a copy of the grounds on which it is made; and no order shall be made on the merits of the application unless at least twenty-four hours have elapsed between the giving of such notice and the hearing of the application.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect any order made under section 197.

(8) If, in any criminal case or appeal, before the commencement of the hearing, the Public Prosecutor, the complainant or the accused notifies to the Court before which the case or appeal is pending his intention to make an application under this section in respect of the case, the Court shall (unless it is of opinion that the application is made for the purpose of delay or otherwise prejudicing the course of justice) exercise the powers of postponement or adjournment given by section 344 in such a manner as will afford a reasonable time for the application being made and an order being obtained thereon, before the accused is called on for his defence, or, in the case of an appeal, before the hearing of the appeal.

527. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct the transfer of any particular criminal case or appeal from one High Court to another High Court, or from any Criminal Court subordinate to one High Court to any other Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction subordinate to another High Court, whenever it appears to him that such transfer will promote the ends of justice, or tend to the general convenience of parties or witnesses.

The Court to which such case or appeal is transferred shall deal with the same as if it had been originally instituted in, or presented to, such Court.

528. (1) Any Chief Presidency Magistrate, District or Subdivisional Magistrate may withdraw or refer cases. District Magistrate or Subdivisional Magistrate may withdraw any case from, or recall any case which he has made over to, any Magistrate subordinate to him, and may inquire into or try such case himself, or refer it for inquiry or trial to any other such Magistrate competent to inquire into or try the same.

(2) The Local Government may authorise the District Magistrate to withdraw from any Magistrate subordinate to him either such classes of cases as he thinks proper, or particular classes of cases.

(3) A Magistrate making an order under this section shall record in writing his reasons for making the same.

(4) The head of a village under Madras Regulation IV of 1821 is a Magistrate for the purposes of this section.

CHAPTER XLV.

OF IRREGULAR PROCEEDINGS.

529. If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, namely:—

- (a) to issue a search-warrant under section 98;
- (b) to order, under section 155, the police to investigate an offence;
- (c) to hold an inquest under section 176;
- (d) to issue process, under section 186, for the apprehension of a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside such limits;
- (e) to take cognizance of an offence under section 190, sub-section (1), clause (a) or clause (b);
- (f) to transfer a case under section 192;
- (g) to tender a pardon under section 337 or section 338;

(h) to sell property under section 524 or section 525; or erroneously in good faith does that thing, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

(i) to withdraw a case and try it himself under section 528;

530. If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things, namely:—

(a) attaches and sells property under section 88;

(b) issues a search-warrant for a letter, parcel or other thing in the Post-office, or a telegram in the Telegraph Department;

(c) demands security to keep the peace;

(d) demands security for good behaviour;

(e) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behaviour;

(f) cancels a bond to keep the peace;

(g) makes an order under section 133, as to a local nuisance;

(h) prohibits, under section 143, the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance;

(i) issues an order under section 144.

(j) makes an order under Chapter XII;

(k) takes cognizance, under section 190, sub-section (1), clause (c), of an offence;

(l) passes a sentence, under section 340, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate;

(m) calls, under section 435, for proceedings;

(n) makes an order for maintenance;

(o) revises, under section 515, an order passed under section 514;

(p) tries an offender;

(q) tries an offender summarily; or

(r) decides an appeal;

his proceedings shall be void.

531. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceeding in the course of which it was arrived at or passed took place in a wrong sessions division, district, subdivision or other local area, unless it appears that such error in fact occasioned a failure of justice.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XLV.—Of Irregular Proceedings.
—Sections 532-538. Chapter XLVI.—Miscellaneous.—Sections 539-40).

532. (1) If any Magistrate or other authority purporting to exercise powers duly conferred, which were not so conferred, commits an accused person for trial before a Court of Session or High Court, the Court to which the commitment is made may, after perusal of the proceedings, accept the commitment if it considers that the accused has not been injured thereby, unless, during the inquiry and before the order of commitment, objection was made on behalf either of the accused or of the prosecution to the jurisdiction of such Magistrate or other authority.

(2) If such Court considers that the accused was injured, or if such objection was so made, it shall quash the commitment and direct a fresh inquiry by a competent Magistrate.

533. (1) If any Court before which a confession or other statement of an accused person recorded or purporting to be recorded under section 164 or section 364 is tendered or has been received in evidence, finds that any of the provisions of either of such sections have not been complied with by the Magistrate recording the statement, it shall take evidence that such person duly made the statement recorded; and, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 91, such statement shall be admitted if the error has not injured the accused as to his defence on the merits.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to Courts of Appeal, Reference and Revision.

534. An omission to ask any person whether he is an European British subject, in a case to which the second clause of section 454 applies, shall not affect the validity of any proceeding.

535. (1) No finding or sentence pronounced or passed shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed unless, in the opinion of the Court of appeal or revision, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

(2) If the Court of appeal or revision thinks that a failure of justice has been occasioned by an omission to frame a charge, it shall order that a charge shall be framed, and that the trial be re-commenced from the point immediately after the framing of the charge.

536. (1) If an offence triable with the aid of assessors is tried by a jury, the trial shall not on that ground only be invalid.

(2) If an offence triable by a jury is tried with the aid of assessors, the trial shall not on that ground only be invalid, unless the objection is taken before the Court records its finding.

537. Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered under Chapter XXVII or on appeal or revision on account—

(a) of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons, warrant, charge, proclamation, order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other proceedings under this Code, or

(b) of the want of or any irregularity in any sanction required by section 195, or any irregularity in proceedings taken under section 476, or

(c) of the omission to revise any list of jurors or assessors in accordance with section 324, or

(d) of any misdirection in any charge to a jury unless such error, omission, irregularity, want or misdirection has in fact occasioned a failure of justice.

Explanation.—In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings.

Illustration.

A Magistrate being required by law to sign a document signs it by initials only. This is purely an irregularity, and does not affect the validity of the proceeding.

538. No distress made under this Code shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any person making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, conviction, writ of distress or other proceedings relating thereto.

CHAPTER XLVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

539. Affidavits and affirmations to be used before any High Court or any officer of such Court may be sworn and affirmed before such Court or the Clerk of the Crown, or any Commissioner or other person appointed by such Court for that purpose, or any Judge, or any Commissioner for taking affidavits in any Court of Record in British India, or any Commissioner to administer oaths in England or Ireland, or any Magistrate authorised to take affidavits or affirmations in Scotland.

540. Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it essential to the just decision of the case.

541. (1) Unless when otherwise provided by Power to appoint any law for the time being in force, the Local Government may direct in what place any person liable to be imprisoned or committed to custody under this Code shall be confined.

[Act X of 1882, s. 541 A.]

(2) If any person liable to be imprisoned or committed to custody under this Code is in confinement in a civil jail, the Court or Magistrate ordering the imprisonment or committal may direct that the person be removed to a criminal jail.

(3) When a person is removed to a criminal jail under sub-section (1), he shall, on being released therefrom, be sent back to the civil jail, unless either—

(a) three years have elapsed since he was removed to the criminal jail, in which case he shall be deemed to have been discharged from the civil jail under section 342 of the Code of Civil Procedure; or

XIV of 1882.

(b) the Court which ordered his imprisonment in the civil jail has certified to the officer in charge of the criminal jail that he is entitled to be discharged under section 341 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

XIV of 1882.

542. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Prisoners' Testimony Act, 1869, any Presidency Magistrate desirous of examining, as a witness or an accused person, in any case pending before him, any person confined in any jail within the local limits of his jurisdiction, may issue an order to the officer in charge of the said jail requiring him to bring such prisoner in proper custody, at a time to be therein named, to the Magistrate for examination.

XV of 1869.

Power of Presidency Magistrate to order prisoner in jail to be brought up for examination.

(2) The officer so in charge, on receipt of such order, shall act in accordance therewith, and shall provide for the safe custody of the prisoner during his absence from the jail for the purpose aforesaid.

543. When the services of an interpreter are required by any Criminal Court for the interpretation of any evidence or statement, he shall be bound to state the true interpretation of such evidence or statement.

544. Subject to any rules made by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, any Criminal Court may, if it thinks fit, order payment, on the part of Government, of the reasonable expenses of any complainant or witness attending for the purposes of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding before such Court under this Code.

545. (1) Whenever under any law in force for the time being a Criminal Court imposes a fine or confirms in appeal, revision or otherwise a sentence of fine, or a sentence of which fine forms a part, the Court may, when passing judgment, order the whole or any part of the fine recovered to be applied—

(a) in defraying expenses properly incurred in the prosecution;

(b) in compensation for the injury caused by the offence committed, where substantial compensation is, in the opinion of the Court, recoverable by civil suit.

(2) If the fine is imposed in a case which is subject to appeal, no such payment shall be made before the period allowed for presenting the appeal has elapsed, or, if an appeal be presented, before the decision of the appeal.

546. At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under section 545.

547. Any money (other than a fine) payable by virtue of any order made under this Code shall be recoverable as if it were a fine.

548. If any person affected by a judgment or order passed by a Criminal Court desires to have a copy of the Judge's charge to the jury or of any order or deposition or other part of the record, he shall, on applying for such copy, be furnished therewith:

Provided that he pay for the same, unless the Court, for some special reason, thinks fit to furnish it free of cost.

549. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules, consistent with this Code and the Army Act or any similar law for the time being in force, as to the cases in which persons subject to military law shall be tried by a Court to which this Code applies or by Court-martial; and when any person is brought before a Magistrate and charged with an offence for which he is liable, under the Army Act, section 41, to be tried by a Court-martial, such Magistrate shall have regard to such rules, and shall in proper cases deliver him, together with a statement of the offence of which he is accused, to the commanding officer of the regiment, corps or detachment to which he belongs, or to the commanding officer of the nearest military station, for the purpose of being tried by Court-martial.

Delivery to military authorities of persons liable to be tried by Court-martial.

44 & 45 Vict., c. 58.

44 & 45 Vict., c. 58.

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.(Part IX.—Supplementary Provisions. Chapter XLVI.—Miscellaneous.—Sections 550-556.)

(2) Every Magistrate shall, on receiving a written application for that purpose by the commanding officer of any body of troops stationed or employed at any such place, use his utmost endeavours to apprehend and secure any person accused of such offence.

550. Any police-officer may seize any property which may be alleged to be stolen, or which may be found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence. Such police-officer, if subordinate to the officer in charge of a police-station, shall forthwith report the seizure to that officer.

551. Police-officers superior in rank to an officer in charge of a police-station may exercise the same powers, throughout the local area to which they are appointed, as may be exercised by such officer within the limits of his station.

552. Upon complaint made to a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate on oath of the abduction or unlawful detention of a woman, or of a female child under the age of fourteen years, for any unlawful purpose, he may make an order for the immediate restoration of such woman to her liberty, or of such female child to her husband, parent, guardian or other person having the lawful charge of such child, and may compel compliance with such order, using such force as may be necessary.

553. (1) Whenever any person causes a police-officer to arrest another person in a presidency-town, if it appears to the Magistrate by whom the case is heard that there was no sufficient ground for causing such arrest, the Magistrate may award such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, to be paid by the person so causing the arrest to the person so arrested, for his loss of time and expenses in the matter, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

(2) In such cases, if more persons than one are arrested, the Magistrate may, in like manner, award to each of them such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as such Magistrate thinks fit.

(3) All compensation awarded under this section may be recovered as if it were a fine, and, if it cannot be so recovered, the person by whom it is payable shall be sentenced to simple imprisonment for such term not exceeding thirty days as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid.

554. (1) With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the High Court at Fort William, and, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, any other High Court established by Royal Charter, may, from time to time, make rules for the inspection of the records of subordinate Courts.

(2) Every High Court not established by Royal Charter may, from time to time, and with the previous sanction of the Local Government,—

(a) make rules for keeping all books, entries and accounts to be kept in all Criminal Courts subordinate to it, and for the preparation and transmission of any returns or statements to be prepared and submitted by such Courts;

(b) frame forms for every proceeding in the said Courts for which it thinks that a form should be provided;

(c) make rules for regulating its own practice and proceedings and the practice and proceedings of all Criminal Courts subordinate to it; and

(d) make rules for regulating the execution of warrants issued under this Code for the levy of fines:

Provided that the rules and forms made and framed under this section shall not be inconsistent with this Code or any other law in force for the time being.

(3) All rules made under this section shall be published in the local official Gazette.

555. Subject to the power conferred by section 553, and by section 13 of the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, the forms set forth in the fifth schedule, Act, 1861, with such variation as the circumstances of each case require, may be used for the respective purposes therein mentioned, and if used shall be sufficient.

556. No Judge or Magistrate shall, except with the permission of the Court to which an appeal lies from his Court, try or commit for trial any case to or in which he is a party, or personally interested, and no Judge or Magistrate shall hear an appeal from any judgment or order passed or made by himself.

EXPLANATION.—A Judge or Magistrate shall not be deemed to be a party or personally interested, within the meaning of this section, to or in any case, by reason only that he is a Municipal Commissioner or otherwise concerned therein in a public capacity, or by reason only that he has viewed the place in which an offence is alleged to have been committed, or any other place in which any other transaction material to an inquiry or trial is alleged to have occurred.

Illustration.

A as Collector, upon consideration of information furnished to him, directs the prosecution of B, for a breach of the Excise Laws. A is disqualified from trying this case as a Magistrate.

557. No pleader shall sit as a Magistrate in any presidency-town or district within the local limits of which he is engaged in practising or carrying on his profession.

558. The Local Government may determine what, for the purposes of this Code, shall be deemed to be the language of each Court within the territories administered by such Government, other than the High Courts established by Royal Charter.

559. All powers conferred by this Code on the Governor General in Council or on the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

560. A public servant having any duty to perform in connection with the sale of any property under this Code shall not purchase or bid for the property.

561. (r) Notwithstanding anything in this Code, no Magistrate except a Chief Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate shall—

(a) take cognizance of the offence of rape where the sexual intercourse was by a man with his wife, or

(b) commit the man for trial for the offence:

(2) And, notwithstanding anything in this Code, if a Chief Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate deems it necessary to direct an investigation by a police-officer with respect to such an offence as is referred to in sub-section (r), no police-officer of a rank below that of police-inspector shall be employed either to make, or to take part in, the investigation.

First Offenders.

562. In any case in which a person is convicted of theft, theft in a building, dishonest misappropriation, cheating, or any other offence under the Indian Penal Code punishable with not more than two years' imprisonment before any Court, and no previous conviction is proved against him, if it appears to the Court before whom he is so convicted that, regard being had to the youth, character and antecedents of the offender, to the trivial nature of the offence, and to any extenuating circumstances under which the offence was committed, it is expedient that the offender be released on probation of good conduct, the Court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond with or without sureties, and during such period (not exceeding one year) as the Court may direct, to appear and receive sentence when called upon, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that where any first offender is convicted by a Magistrate of the third class, or a Magistrate of the second class not specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, and the Magistrate is of opinion that the powers conferred by this section should be exercised, he shall record his opinion to that effect and submit the proceedings to a Magistrate of the first class or Sub-divisional Magistrate, forwarding the accused to or taking bail for his appearance before such Magistrate, who shall dispose of the case in manner provided by section 380.

563. (1) If a Court having power to deal with the offender in respect of his original offence is satisfied that the offender has failed to observe any of the conditions of his recognizance, it may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

(2) An offender, when apprehended on any such warrant, shall be brought forthwith before the Court issuing the warrant, and such Court may either remand him in custody until the case is heard or admit him to bail with a sufficient surety conditioned on his appearing for sentence.

564. (1) The Court, before directing the release of an offender under section 562, shall be satisfied that the offender or his surety (if any) has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place for which the Court acts or in which the offender is likely to live during the period named for the observance of the conditions.

(2) Nothing in this section or in sections 562 and 563 shall affect the provisions of section 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act, 1897.

Habitual Offenders.

565. (1) When any person having been convicted of any offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards is again convicted of any offence punishable under either of those Chapters with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards by a High Court, Court of Session, Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Subdivisional Magistrate, or any Magistrate of the first class specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, such Court or Magistrate may, if it or he shall think fit, at the time of passing sentence of transportation or imprisonment on such person, also order that his residence and any change of residence after release be notified as hereinafter provided for a term not exceeding five years from the date of the expiration of such sentence.

(2) If such conviction be set aside on appeal or otherwise, such order shall become void.

(3) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may make rules to carry out the provisions of this section relating to the notification of residence by released convicts.

(4) Any person refusing or neglecting to comply with any rule so made shall be punishable as if he had committed an offence under section 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

The Federal Council of the Swiss Confederation, M. Charles Edouard Lardy, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Swiss Confederation to the French Republic ;

His Highness the Bey of Tunis, M. Louis Renault, Professor of the Faculty of Law of Paris ;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following Articles :—

ARTICLE I.

The International Convention of the 9th September 1886 is modified as follows :—

1. Article II.—The first paragraph of Article II shall run as follows :—

“ Authors belonging to any one of the countries of the Union, or their lawful representatives, shall enjoy in the other countries for their works, whether unpublished, or published for the first time in one of those countries, the rights which the respective laws do now or shall hereafter grant to nationals.”

A fifth paragraph is added in these terms :—

“ Posthumous works are included among those to be protected.”

2. Article III.—Article III shall run as follows :—

“ Authors not belonging to one of the countries of the Union, who shall have published or caused to be published for the first time their literary or artistic works in a country which is a party to the Union, shall enjoy, in respect of such works, the protection accorded by the Berne Convention, and by the present Additional Act.”

3. Article V.—The first paragraph of Article V shall run as follows :—

4. Article VII.—Article VII shall run as follows :—

“ Serial stories, including tales, published in the newspapers or periodicals of one of the countries of the Union, may not be reproduced, in original or translation, in the other countries, without the sanction of the authors or of their lawful representatives.

“ This stipulation shall apply equally to other articles in newspapers or periodicals, when the authors or editors shall have expressly declared in the newspaper or periodical itself in which they shall have been published that the right of reproduction is prohibited. In the case of periodicals it shall suffice if such prohibition be indicated in general terms at the beginning of each number.

“ In the absence of prohibition, such articles may be reproduced on condition that the source is acknowledged.

“ In any case, the prohibition shall not apply to articles on political questions, to the news of the day, or to miscellaneous information.”

5. Article XII.—Article XII shall run as follows :—

“ Pirated works may be seized by the competent authorities of the countries of the Union where the original work is entitled to legal protection.

“ The seizure shall take place conformably to the domestic law of each State.”

6. Article XX. The second paragraph of Article XX shall run as follows :—

“ Such denunciation shall be made to the Government of the Swiss Confederation. It shall only be effective as regards the country making it, the Convention remaining in full force and effect for the other countries of the Union.”

ARTICLE II.

The Final Protocol annexed to the Convention of the 9th September 1896, is modified as follows :—

1. No. 1.—This clause shall run as follows :—

“ As regards Article IV, it is agreed as follows :

“ (A.) In countries of the Union where protection is accorded not only to architectural plans, but also to the architectural works themselves, these works shall be admitted to the benefits of the Berne Convention and of the present Additional Act.

"(B.) Photographic works and works produced by an analogous process shall be admitted to the benefits of these engagements in so far as the laws of each State may permit, and to the extent of the protection accorded by such laws to similar national works.

"It is understood that an authorized photograph of a work of art shall enjoy legal protection in all the countries of the Union, as contemplated by the Berne Convention and by the present Additional Act, for the same period as the principal right of reproduction of the work itself subsists, and within the limits of private arrangements between those who have legal rights."

2. No. 4. This clause shall run as follows:—

"The common agreement contemplated in Article XIV of the Convention is established as follows:—

"The application of the Berne Convention and of the present Additional Act to works which have not fallen into the public domain within the country of origin at the time when these engagements come into force, shall operate according to such stipulations on this head as may be contained in special Conventions either actually existing or to be concluded hereafter.

"In the absence of such stipulations between any of the countries of the Union, the respective countries shall regulate, each for itself, by its domestic legislation, the manner in which the principle contained in Article XIV is to be applied.

"The stipulations of Article XIV of the Berne Convention and of the present clause of the Final Protocol shall apply equally to the exclusive right of translation, in so far as such right is established by the present Additional Act.

"The temporary stipulations noted above shall be applicable to countries which may hereafter accede to the Union."

ARTICLE III.

The countries of the Union which are not parties to the present Additional Act, shall at any time be allowed to accede thereto on their request to that effect. This stipulation shall apply equally to countries which may hereafter accede to the Convention of the 9th September 1886. It will suffice for this purpose that such accession should be notified in writing to the Swiss Federal Council, who shall in turn communicate it to the other Governments.

ARTICLE IV.

The present Additional Act shall have the same force and duration as the Convention of the 9th September 1886.

It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris, in the manner adopted in the case of that Convention, as soon as possible, and within the space of one year to the latest.

It shall come into force as regards those countries which shall have ratified it three months after such exchange of ratifications.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Done at Paris in a single transcript, the 4th May, 1896.

Procès verbal recording Deposit of Ratifications.

Circumstances having prevented action being taken within the period of delay originally fixed for the exchange of the ratifications of the Additional Act of the 4th May 1896, modifying Articles II, III, V, VII, XII, and XX of the Convention of the 9th September 1886, and clauses 1 and 4 of the Final Protocol annexed thereto, as well as of the Declaration interpreting certain stipulations of the Convention of Berne of the 9th September 1886, and of the Additional Act signed at Paris on the 4th May, 1896, it has been unanimously agreed that that period should be prolonged until this day.

In consequence whereof, the undersigned have met together in order to deposit the instruments in question.

Germany, Belgium, Spain, France, Italy, Luxemburg, Monaco, Montenegro, Switzerland, and Tunis have ratified both engagements.

Great Britain has ratified the Additional Act alone, on behalf of the United Kingdom, as well as of all the British Colonies and Possessions.

Norway has only ratified the interpretative Declaration.

The respective ratifications having been produced and found to be in good and due form, have been handed to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, in order that they may be deposited in the archives of the Ministry, such deposit to be held equivalent to an exchange of ratifications.

In faith of which the undersigned have prepared the present Record of deposit, to which they have affixed their seals.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

BUNER.

No. 217.—The Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council directs the publication of the subjoined communication from the Adjutant General in India, submitting, under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief in India, a despatch from Major-General Sir Bindon Blood, K.C.B., describing the operations of the Buner Field Force, recently under his command.

2. His Excellency in Council concurs in the opinion expressed by the Commander-in-Chief regarding the skill with which the operations of the Buner Field Force were conducted by Major-General Blood, and the discipline and good conduct displayed by the troops throughout these short but successful operations.

From MAJOR-GENERAL G. DE C. MORTON, C.B., Adjutant General in India, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department,—(No. 669-F, dated Fort William, the 14th February 1898).

I have the honour, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying despatch from Major-General Sir B. Blood, K.C.B., describing the operations of the Buner Field Force, recently under his command.

2. The object with which these operations were undertaken was to coerce into submission the tribes of Buner and Chamla, who had failed to comply with the punitive terms imposed upon them by Government for their complicity in the recent disturbances in Swat. It will be seen from the despatch that this object was effected within twelve days from the commencement of operations, both the Bunerwals and Chamlawals having fully submitted to, and complied with the terms of, Government during that period.

3. The celerity with which this successful result has been attained is undoubtedly due to the skilful dispositions made by the Commander of the Force and to the enterprise, judgment, and vigour with which the operations were carried out, particularly in the attack and capture of the Tanga Pass.

4. His Excellency now commends to the notice of Government the services of Major-General Sir B. Blood and of the brigadiers and others mentioned in the despatch.

5. The discipline and conduct of the troops, British and Native, have been all that could be desired, and reflect the greatest credit on all ranks.

From MAJOR-GENERAL SIR BINDON BLOOD, K C B, Commanding the Buner Field Force, to the Adjutant General in India,—(No 1, dated Ambela Pass, the 19th January 1898).

I have the honour to submit the following account of the operations lately carried out by the Buner Field Force under my command.

2. It having been determined that the period of grace given to the Bunerwals, to enable them to comply with the terms offered them by Government, expired on the 6th January 1898, and that they were to be attacked next day, the force under my command was disposed as under on the evening of the 6th January, namely —

(a) At Sanghao, about 21 miles north of Mardan.

The 1st Brigade under Brigadier-General W. H. Meiklejohn, C B., C.M.G., consisting of — 1st Battalion, Royal West Kent Regiment.
2nd Battalion, Highland Light Infantry.
16th Bengal Infantry.
20th Punjab Infantry.

The 2nd Brigade under Brigadier-General P. D. Jeffreys, C.B., consisting of—1st Battalion The Buffs.
21st Punjab Infantry
3rd Bombay Light Infantry (5 companies).

The Artillery under Colonel W. Aitken, C.B., consisting of—The 10th Field Battery.
No. 7 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery.
No 8 (Bengal) Mountain Battery.

The Sappers and Miners under Lieutenant-Colonel W Peacocke, C M G., Royal Engineers, as under—

No. 5 Company, Queen's Own Madras Sappers and Miners.
No. 4 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners

One squadron, 10th Bengal Lancers, under Captain W. Stewart.

(b) At Pirsai, close to the pass of that name, about five miles across the hills to the east of Sanghao, under Lieutenant-Colonel H. N. McKee, 31st Punjab Infantry—

The Guides Infantry.
The 31st Punjab Infantry.
A section, 4th Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners.

At Rustam, under Lieutenant-Colonel R. B. Alams, V C., Queen's Own Corps of Guides, who was also in superior command of the force at Pirsai—

Two squadrons, Guides Cavalry.
Three squadrons, 10th Bengal Lancers.

(c) On the line of communications, under Colonel V. A. Schalch, Commandant of the line—

At Katlung, 12 miles north of Mardan.
One company, 3rd Bombay Light Infantry.
At Mardan—
Two companies, 3rd Bombay Light Infantry

3. In accordance with the orders I had received on the subject I made all arrangements for the Sanghao force to attack the Tanga Pass, whose mouth is one mile north of Sanghao, on the morning of the 7th; for the Pirsai detachment to force the pass of that name early on the same morning; and for the cavalry from Rustam to cross this pass when opened, and to work thence towards the line of the enemy's retreat from the Tanga Pass.

4. I had recommended that the main attack should be made on the Tanga Pass, because it is tactically the most convenient of the Buner passes for the purpose. The hills connected with it are in plan somewhat like the letter D the straight part being a steep and narrow-topped ridge, about eight or nine hundred yards long, running from north-west to south-east, while the curved part is a spur starting in a south-westerly direction from the south-east end of the straight ridge, and terminating, after curving round, under the north-west end thereof, with a remarkable ravine or tangi, which forms the first part of the pass and gives it its name. The space inside the D is a sort of basin which the road traverses after it leaves the ravine before mentioned, ultimately finding its way over the south-east end of the ridge from the corresponding end of the basin. High cliffs stand between the south-east end of the ridge and the upper end of the spur forming the curved part of the D, while the north-west end of the ridge is dominated by a lofty peak from which spurs run down towards Sanghao and Buner, respectively. Beyond this peak the main ridge of the mountains continues to the north-west towards the Morah, Shahkot, and Malakand Passes, the last named pass being some twenty-five miles off in a straight line.

5. The height of the top of the pass, and generally of the narrow-topped ridge which it traverses, over the site of our camp at Sanghao, is upwards of 1,800 feet, while the climb to the top of the ridge from the basin below it is about 1,400 feet. The spur opposite the pass is perhaps at its highest part a hundred feet or so lower than the top of the pass, and at its lower end, where I placed the mountain artillery on the 7th, it is some three hundred feet lower still. The top of the high peak at the north-west end of the pass-ridge is about a thousand feet above it, while the cliffs at its south-east end are surmounted by jagged rocks at even a greater elevation.

6. The ground on the Buner side of the pass is most unfavourable to troops retiring from it before a successful attack, as there is practically no cover whatever in the valley below the pass or on the spurs of the hills on either side for a distance from it considerably exceeding outside rifle range. It will be seen further on how this circumstance affected the tactics of the Bunerwals on the 7th January.

7. When I reconnoitred the Tanga Pass on the afternoon of the 6th January, I observed about 1,000 men with thirty standards distributed along the top of the ridge. There were also many sangas on the commanding points, and the men made the usual noisy demonstrations of hostility by shouting, beating tom-toms and letting off their guns. In the early part of the night a few ineffectual shots were fired into camp, but there being a bright moon the firers were easily driven away with some loss.

8. At about 8-30 A.M. on the 7th the artillery under Colonel Aitken, C.B., moved off under cover of the 1st Battalion of the Buffs, five companies of the 3rd Bombay Light Infantry, and a squadron of the 10th Bengal Lancers, the whole under the command of Brigadier-General P. D. Jeffreys, C.B. The 10th Field Battery under Major C. A. Anderson commenced the action at 9 A.M., by opening fire from a knoll close to the mouth of the ravine which forms the entrance to the pass. No. 8 (Bengal) Mountain Battery, under Captain A. H. C. Birch, R.A., and No. 7 Mountain Battery under Major M. F. Fegan, R.A., followed suit before 10 A.M. from a shoulder of the spur facing the pass-ridge to the right of the field battery. The 3rd Bombay Light Infantry (five companies) under Lieutenant-Colonel F. G. T. Welch, and the squadron of the 10th Bengal Lancers, under Captain W. Stewart, formed the immediate escort of the guns, while the Buffs under Lieutenant-Colonel A. E. Ommanney climbed to the top of the spur on their right, and commenced firing volleys at the enemy on the opposite ridge at ranges of 1,400 to 1,600 yards.

9. Simultaneously with the advance of the artillery, the sappers under Major M. C. Barton, R.E., proceeded to the mouth of the pass to work on the road, and the 20th Punjab Infantry under Lieutenant-Colonel J. B. Woon commenced climbing the spur which rises half a mile north-west of Sanghao and leads to the high peak at the north-west end of the pass-ridge. Lieutenant-Colonel Woon's orders were to assault this peak when the frontal attack (which I am about to describe) was well advanced, and if his assault succeeded, to descend on the enemy's right flank and rear.

10. As soon as the troops concerned in these arrangements were clear, Brigadier-General Meiklejohn, C.B., C.M.G., to whom I had entrusted the duty of carrying out the frontal attack, commenced his march with the force detailed in the margin through the ravine in front of the 10th Field Battery. This movement took some time, as the road had been badly broken down by the enemy during the night, and while it was going on the artillery and the Buffs and the 3rd Bombay Light Infantry kept up a steady and well-directed fire on the pass-ridge, which prevented the enemy from showing otherwise than by ones and twos, and altogether demoralised them. Ultimately, about noon, Lieutenant-Colonel Woon was approaching his objective, while Brigadier-General Meiklejohn was also ready, I directed the last-named officer to deliver the frontal attack, which was carried out in fine style by the infantry under his command,—the Royal West Kent and 16th Bengal Infantry, preceded by a detachment of the 4th Company, Bengal Sappers, under Lieutenant D. M. Griffith, R.E., moving by the pass-road, the 21st Punjab Infantry on their left up two very difficult spurs, and the Highland Light Infantry up a third spur still further to the left. At about 1-30 P.M. Lieutenant-Colonel Woon had driven the enemy from the north-western peak with the loss of two standards and some fifteen killed, and at about 2 P.M. Brigadier-General Meiklejohn's battalions crowned the pass-ridge within a few minutes of each other. Before this, however, the enemy, finding that they could not impede our frontal attack without exposing themselves to a murderous fire from the artillery and infantry on the spur in their front, and that Lieutenant-Colonel Woon was pressing and outflanking their right, did not wait for our men to close with them, but retired precipitately down the valley on Kingargali and the hills beyond it, suffering some loss from the fire directed upon them by the infantry after they had crowned the ridge. The Royal West Kent were sent on at once to Kingargali, and were followed soon afterwards by Brigadier-General Meiklejohn with the Highland Light Infantry and the 20th Punjab Infantry. The 21st Punjab Infantry rejoined their own brigade at Sanghao in the afternoon, and the 16th Bengal Infantry remained for the night on the top of the pass, where the 4th Company, Bengal

1st Battalion, Royal West Kent Regiment, under Major C. W. H. Evans.

2nd Battalion, Highland Light Infantry, under Lieutenant-Colonel R. D. B. Rutherford.

16th Bengal Infantry under Lieutenant-Colonel A. Montanaro.

21st Punjab Infantry under Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. Faithfull, (lent from the 2nd Brigade for the day).

Sappers, under Lieutenant H. R. Stockley, R.E., and the 5th Company, Queen's Own Sappers, under Captain E. P. Johnson, R.E., also spent the night after working on the road until dark.

11. The road over the pass turned out, as I expected, quite impracticable for mules; but as I had provided coolie transport in view of this contingency, the troops in advance underwent no unusual hardships in the interval that elapsed before the pass was regularly opened for mule transport, which was done most successfully on the 10th January, after nearly three days' excellent and energetic work by the Royal Engineers and Sappers under the orders of Lieutenant-Colonel W. Peacocke, C.M.G., the Commanding Royal Engineer of the Force.
